M'CALL SHARED IN STOCK TRANSFER

Hotchkiss Finds 100 Shares of International Banking Securities Went to Him.

SAME NUMBER TO BUCKLEY

E. A. Goodsell, Odell's Representative, Also Got a Block When Bond and Mortgage Company Was Formed.

Investigation as to the loans which William H. Buckley, the fire insurance lobbyist, carried with the Phenix Company when he was an employe of the Insurance Department, has now blazed a trail back to the formation of the American Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company in 1899. Two cases have been discovered which make the Insurance Department officials anxious to get an explanation from Supreme Court Justice Edward E. McCall. A statement from Justice McCall was expected yesterday, but failed to materialize. It was said yesterday that a full explanation of his connection with the Buckley loans in the Phenix Fire Insurance Company would be sent to Supt. Hotchkiss of the State Insurance Department to-day for distribution to the newspapers.

The testimony already taken by Supt. Hotchkiss and his counsel, Alfred E. Hurrell, in the fire insurance investigation has shown that Buckley while an employe of the Insurance Department made loans aggregating $61,000 from the Phenix Fire Company, of which George P. Sheldon, his friend and later his client in matters of legislation, was President. One of these loans was secured by 100 shares of stock of the International Banking and Trust Company, which came into existence originally on May 9, 1899, as the American Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company, and later changed its name to the North American Trust Company in 1900. Since that time the North American Trust Company has been in two mergers, the first one with the Trust Company of America and the second with the City Trust and the Colonial Trust, and it now uses the name of the Trust Company of America.

Tracing Buckley Loans.

Supt. Hotchkiss was very much interested in tracing the origin of these Buckley loans and discovered that two of them for $13,000 each apparently were related in some way to each other. One of these two $13,000-loans was secured by the International Banking and Trust Company stock and the other by miscellaneous collateral including shares in the Electric Storage Battery Company and some gas lighting corporations. Mr. Hotchkiss wanted to know, when Buckley was on the stand, where he got the hundred share the International Banking and Trust Company's stock. Buckley replied that he bought it at the time the company was formed. Mr. Hotchkiss then showed that coincident with the issuance of this certificate of stock to Buckley at $150 a share the International Banking and Trust Company loaned to Buckley $13,000 upon the same collateral that later went in to secure one of the $13,000 loans in the Phenix. At the same time, or a few weeks later, a loan of $15,000 secured by 100 shares of International Banking and Trust Company's stock was made to Buckley at the Seventh National Bank.

The name of Justice McCall, who in 1899 was a lawyer with offices in the New York Life Building, was brought into the matter in connection with the transfer of one of the Buckley loans out of the Phenix over Dec. 31, 1900. It appeared that Mr. McCall's bank account had been availed of to facilitate this transfer, which Supt. Hotchkiss denounced as a move made to deceive the State Insurance Department. From that point back the investigation has developed Justice McCall's name throughout the entire matter and the books of the International Banking and Trust Company show that in addition to the hundred shares of stock which Buckley received in the flotation 100 shares went to Mr. McCall and 100 shares to E. A. Goodsell, then Benjamin B. Odell's personal representative in the Senate, who introduced in the Legislature the bill to incorporate the American Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company.

At this point the name of Stewart Browne, a banker, who was the first President of the American Bonding and Guarantee Company and its successor, the International Banking and Trust Company, enters the situation. This is not the first time that Stewart Browne's name has appeared in connection with men and affairs prominent in the insurance world. Away back in the life insurance investigation of 1905 he came forward as a defender of the system of which John A. McCall, President of the New York Life and brother of E. E. McCall, was the head. Later on he figured in the newspapers as a writer of letters upholding Darwin P. Kingsley, now President of the New York Life, in his public criticism of the Armstrong Insurance Code in this State.

In 1899, it was learned, Stewart Browne and the group of men who operated in various affairs under the leadership of John A. McCall were very closely associated, and Buckley, the Insurance Department deputy, was a newcomer in this combination and made his New York office with E. E. McCall as soon as he left the department and was admitted to the bar. That explains the record of the International Banking and Trust Company's incorporators obtained from the Secretary of State's office in Albany; they were clerks in the law office of Edward E. McCall. These incorporators were Ensign O. Beale, Daniel E. Lynch, John Farrell, William S. Waddy, and John H. McCrahon.

Broad Powers for a Bank.

The International Banking and Trust Company—or, rather, its short-lived predecessor, the American Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company, had interesting powers granted to it by the Legislature. It was not incorporated under the banking law, but under the general business law, and to the extensive powers enumerated in that act the bill incorporating the company added these privileges:

> To guarantee the legality, payment, and performance of obligations and contracts and titles to property, real and personal.
> To buy, sell, pledge, exchange, hold in trust or otherwise, or receive on deposit or storage as principal or interest, all kinds of property, real, personal, or mixed, and to advance as principal or agent, moneys, securities, and credit upon the same.

These latter clauses gave the company power to do a general guaranty business, to run a storage warehouse if it saw fit or even to conduct a pawnshop. It is understood that the charter has been retained through the various consolidations down to the present time.

The bill incorporating this company in the Legislature was introduced by Senator Goodsell on March 8, 1899, and by Lewis Bedell, Odell's Assemblyman in the lower branch. It was referred to the Committee on Rules, of which the late Speaker Nixon was Chairman, rushed to a second and third reading under a special order, and passed in the Senate by a vote of 44 to 1 and in the Assembly by a vote of 87 to 22 before the end of April.

Stewart Browne, the first President of the company, owned the certificates of stock in the old Bond and Mortgage Guarantee Company, which were later

LAWYER DIES UNDER CHARGES

Case of Grand Larceny Against O'Hare Was Up for a Hearing Yesterday.

Stephen J. O'Hare, once an Assistant District Attorney, was to have had a hearing before Magistrate Barlow in the Jefferson Market Court on the charge of grand larceny yesterday afternoon.

When the case was called his lawyer, Mark Alter, announced that his client had died earlier in the day at his home, 400 East 102d Street. The news was a shock to those in the courtroom, as they knew O'Hara as a healthy, robust lawyer, and had not learned that he was ill. Magistrate Barlow immediately dismissed the case.

O'Hare was in the District Attorney's office in the term of John R. Fellows, and was removed by William M. K. Olcott, his successor. Following his removal he practiced law in the police courts, and for a time was a law partner of Judge Thomas Dineen of the Municipal Court.

His arrest in the present charge was caused by Adolph Kozlovski of 1,867 Third Avenue, whose wife had been sent to the workhouse for six months by Magistrate Herbert. O'Hare visited Kozlovski on Nov. 23, 1909, he says, with a proposal that for $50 he could obtain his wife's release through influence with the Magistrate who committed her. Kozlovski paid the money, he told the District Attorney, and then as the months passed and his wife still remained in the workhouse he decided to make a complaint. Magistrate Herbert was sitting when O'Hare was first arrested, and after expressing his indignation that his name had been used to extort graft he held O'Hara in $500 bail for examination yesterday.

GIVES UP SMUGGLED JEWELRY

Mrs. Woolman Surrenders $5,000 Diamond Chain and Pendant to Loeb.

At the Custom House yesterday Arthur C. Train, a former Assistant District Attorney, surrendered to Collector Loeb as counsel for Mrs. Cornelia M. Woolman a diamond chain and pendant valued at $5,000, which was brought in by his client as a passenger on the George Washington on March 21.

When Mrs. Woolman arrived she declared that her purchases abroad only amounted to $100, as allowed by law, but owing to suspicious circumstances Deputy Surveyor Raezkiewiez ordered her to be searched. On hearing the order the woman gave up a coral necklace, with bracelet and rings, valued at $1,000, and wearing apparel was found in her trunks valued at several thousand dollars. All the property was seized, and Mrs. Woolman was taken before United States Commissioner Ross at Hoboken, and held in $500 bail for examination.

Collector Loeb said yesterday that a jeweler's bill for 1,500 francs had been found in Mrs. Woolman's trunks, and he asked Mr. Train for the ornaments named in it to be produced. The lawyer in surrendering them told the Collector that two of the large diamonds had been purchased in the United States. Mark Andrews, solicitor to the Collector, claimed that as the stones were made up they would be assessed at 60 per cent. duty. The question of the seized baggage has not been settled.

Mrs. Woolman is a wealthy widow of Helena, Mon., and her husband was a friend of United States Senator Carter.

LABOR ACCUSES STEEL TRUST.

Gompers for American Federation Puts Case Before Governor of Indiana.

INDIANAPOLIS, March 30.—The complaint of the American Federation of Labor against the United States Steel Corporation was presented to Gov. Marshall to-day by Samuel Gompers, President of the federation, and his counsel, E. G. Ballard of Gary, Ind., who were attended in the Governor's office by a score of officers of National trades unions.

Gov. Marshall promised Mr. Gompers that he would carefully consider the evidence submitted to support the allegation that the United States Steel Corporation was violating the laws of Indiana, and if he found it sufficient would direct a prosecution of the company.

A brief will be filed with the Governor by Mr. Ballard as attorney for the Union of Iron, Steel and Tin Workers, urging that the steel company, which has declared "an open shop," is operating its plant in Indiana in violation of the laws governing the corporations, and that it is an illegal trust.

The Governor said he would investigate conditions at Elwood, which, it is alleged, the striking tin workers are intimidated by strikebreakers imported from other States, upon whom police power has been conferred by the local authorities at the solicitation of the Steel Trust.

RADICAL REFORMS IN STOCK EXCHANGE

CURB ON THE SPECIALISTS

Not to Trade in Stocks Ordered—Limitation on Brokers Buying or Selling for Their Own Account.

The Governing Committee of the Stock Exchange met yesterday afternoon and adopted resolutions making radical reforms in the Constitution and By-laws along lines suggested by the Hughes Investigating Committee last year, and vainly urged last Fall and Summer by a considerable body of the more conservative element in the Board. As made public, they were in printed form and bore the date March 18 as that of their transmission from the Secretary of the Exchange to the Governing Committee.

Although the changes are the most radical the Board has ever adopted and must have been known to the forty governors since that date and before then to the five members of the Law Committee who framed them, so carefully are Exchange secrets guarded that the Street had not an inkling that any action was to be expected.

After the agitation last Summer, and after the Rock Island flurry last Winter, those who advocated reforms practically gave up the fight in the belief that it would be necessary to have a shake-up in the Exchange management before they could hope to force the abandonment of the "stand-pat" policy, which had up to then been the seeming attitude of the Exchange toward the Hughes committee recommendations.

Protecting Small Lot Men.

Charges made yesterday cover the carrying of speculative accounts for employes of brokers, making the prohibition which already applied to such cases extend to employes of banking institutions or insurance companies. It is made obligatory for a buyer or seller of big blocks of stock to take care of all smaller lots in the regular unit of 100 shares or its multiples at the price bid or offered, and finally there is put into concrete form a now unwritten law prohibiting "specialists" from taking advantage of their position by buying or selling for their own account or interest securities for which they have orders to buy or sell.

The last two provisions are equivalent to similar ones put in force by the Consolidated Exchange some time ago. That applying to the specialists has been in force on the "Little Board" for two years and was the subject of a bill introduced at Albany last Fall. The rule making it obligatory to take care of small lots, before executing larger orders, was put in force on the Consolidated Exchange last year.

After the scandal brought about by the wild market of an August Saturday in 1908, when A. O. Brown & Co. were able, in effect, to match orders in 2,000,000 shares largely through the absence of any provision to prevent the ignoring of the genuine business in smaller lots, while their 5,000 and 10,000 share lot "orders" were flying back and forth, there was a strong movement to have this change made in the constitution, but nothing came of it.

Severe Penalties for Violation.

Yesterday's resolution covering this point penalizes the broker failing to abide by it only with a money loss, but other sections of the constitution provide severer penalties, including expulsion should he willfully violate the provision. It reads:

> 1. That the recognized quotation on stocks shall be public bids and offers on lots of 100 shares.
> 2. All bids and offers on larger lots shall be considered to be for any part thereof in lots of 100 shares or of multiples thereof, whether so stated in the bid or offer or not.
> 3. If a bid is made for a larger lot of stock above the price at which smaller lots are offered, or if a transaction is made in a larger lot above the price at which smaller lots are offered, such bidder or buyer shall be compelled to buy any or all of the smaller lots which were publicly offered at the time, at the lower price, up to the amount of the bid for the larger lot. If the bid for the larger lot is accepted, and the buyer is unwilling to buy more, the seller must give up to the members who were publicly offering to sell at the lower price, such amounts as they were publicly offering to sell at the lower price, if such claim is made immediately.
> 4. If an offer is made to sell a larger lot of stock below the price which is bid for smaller lots, or if a transaction is made in a larger lot below the price which is bid for smaller lots, such member offering to sell, or the seller, shall be compelled to sell any or all of the smaller lots which were publicly bid for at the time, at the higher price, up to the amount of the offer of the larger lot. If the offer of the larger lot is accepted, and the seller is unwilling to sell more, the buyer must give up to the members who were publicly bidding the higher price, such amounts as they were publicly bidding for, at the higher price, if such claim is made immediately.
> 5. Rules 3 and 4 shall not apply to lots of less than 100 shares, nor to active openings when bids and offers are simultaneous.

Safeguarding the Small Investor.

Of even greater importance to the small investor is the curb put on the "specialist." The specialists have come in for much condemnation in the past which those in close touch with the practical workings of the market have not believed they deserved. Such a resolution as was passed yesterday, while long advocated in some quarters, was regarded as reflecting on the "honor" of the Exchange members. A resolution adopted to govern specialists supplemented the Law Committee's recommendation. The resolution and supplement read:

> Resolved, That any member of the Exchange who, while acting as a broker, either as a "specialist" or otherwise, shall buy or sell directly or indirectly for his own account, for account of a partner, or for any account in which he has an interest, the securities, the order for the purchase or sale of which has been accepted by him for execution, shall be deemed guilty of conduct or proceeding inconsistent with just and equitable principles of trade, and shall be subject to the penalties provided in Article XVII., Section 6 of the Constitution.
> The foregoing rule shall not apply to the act of a member who, by reason of his neglect to excute an order, is compelled to take or to supply on his own account the securities named in the order; in such case the member is not acting as a broker and shall not charge a commission.
> A member, acting as a broker, is permitted to report to his principal a transaction as made with himself only when he has orders both to buy and to sell and not

FEARS WE'LL CAUSE A WORLD-WIDE WAR

Fournier Says Economic Rivalry Means Imminent Danger of Conflict with Japan.

MIGHT INVOLVE BRITAIN

France Would Then Be Obliged to Take Sides—America Actually Confronts Japan in the Pacific.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, March 30.—In a forthcoming book by Vice Admiral Fournier, extracts from which will be printed in the Matin to-morrow, he dwells on what he terms "the inevitable rivalry between the Japanese and the Americans for the control of the Pacific," and what he further characterizes as "the imminent danger of a terrible conflict between the two peoples, probably involving also Great Britain and possibly France."

"The menacing mental attitude of the Japanese," he says, "is due to several causes, among which are the following: The rapid development of America's navy in a degree in disproportion to that of her merchant marine, her effort to pierce the Panama Isthmus with the utmost rapidity and at any cost, and the haste with which the American Government has fortified its new naval base in the Philippines. All of these activities are of a nature to awaken distrust on the part of the Japanese, determined as they are to defend their prestige and interests in the waters of the Far East with the same avidity with which the Americans would defend theirs on the opposite side of the Pacific.

"There is danger for the Americans in the fact that they have irritated a people so quick to take offense and so vindictive as the insular race of the Orient. These two nations, equally prideful, equally sensitive and stubborn, are actually face to face in the Pacific, each aspiring with the same ardor to the supremacy of its maritime and economic interests.

"Whether these interests can be conciliated or whether a clash and a struggle are to ensue is an enigma of the future. It is one of the most alarming for the reason that if it is to be solved by war in the Pacific this scourge may extend over the entire world and may bring England and America into combat with each other and finally it would oblige France to side with one or the other of the two parties."

In preparation for this possible situation Admiral Fournier declares that Great Britain and France, as allies, should strengthen their forces of defense and offense, England by building up a strong army and France by rapidly increasing her naval strength.

This course, the Admiral adds, is essential to safeguard the future and to enable France, Great Britain, and Russia to combat the forces of the triple alliance should hostilities between the United States and Japan occur or should the provocative tactics of Germany unchain a world war.

DR. COOK IN TOWN?

One Report Has It He Met His Children Here Last Monday.

The latest report about Dr. Frederick A. Cook, the vanishing polar explorer, among his friends is that he spent last Monday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Elmer F. Dudley, Mrs. Cook's sister, at 340 East Eighteenth Street, with the Dudleys, Mrs. Cook, and his children.

None of Mrs. Dudley's neighbors saw Dr. Cook or his wife enter the apartment house, for there are many ways of gaining access to it. But the neighbors did see Dr. Cook's children, accompanied by a colored nurse, arrive on Monday afternoon and climb the five flights to the Dudley apartment, and they suppose that Dr. Cook and his wife, having selected this out-of-the-way place in which to meet their children after several months' absence, immediately afterward departed for another section of the city, known only to their immediate relatives.

The Dudley family declines to confirm these theories.

CALL BROOKLYNITE MURDERER

Son of a Minister Accused of Killing Kansas City Saloon Man.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, Neb., March 30.—Charged with murder and robbery, Horace V. Wilkins of Brooklyn, nephew of Congressman Law of the same city, is under arrest in Omaha and will be taken to Kansas City for trial, requisition papers already having been honored by the Nebraska Governor.

Since his incarceration in the Omaha jail Wilkins has had letters from his Congressman uncle. Wilkins is said to be of good family, his father being an Episcopal minister in New York.

The young man is charged with having murdered a saloon keepr in Kansas City while attempting to hold up the latter's saloon. He made his escape at the time of the murder, but was picked up in Omaha charged with highway robbery in this city.

The charges against him in the Nebraska courts will be dismissed and he will be taken to Kansas City to stand trial on the more serious indictment.

MRS. VANDERBILT TO JOIN RENO'S COLONY

Wife of W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., Said to Have Decided to Seek a Divorce.

HOUSE IS FITTED FOR HER

Couple Have Lived Apart for Some Time—Wife Once Thought of Entering a Convent.

Special to The New York Times.

RENO, Nev., March 30.—Although Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., on her arrival in San Francisco a short time ago, stated, when asked if she was coming to Reno for a divorce, that she had no such intentions and was not seeking a divorce, it can now be definitely stated that she is coming to Reno in the immediate future. She has arranged for a beautiful home in the finest residence district of the city, and has already retained attorneys to represent her in Reno in her divorce action, although she will probably have New York lawyers here also.

Mrs. Nick Prater of Virginia City, who was an intimate friend of the Fairs during their life in the Comstock, is having her home renovated, and her friends have given out the information that she has rented it to Mrs. Vanderbilt. It is one of the largest houses in Reno, and is beautifully furnished.

Sardis Summerfield of Summerfield & Curler, who represented Mrs. Gayley in her recent suit, is understood to have been retained by Mrs. Vanderbilt. When asked if this was true Mr. Summerfield said: "I can't talk about that matter; I will neither say that I have been retained nor that I have not."

Mrs. Vanderbilt is still in San Francisco, where she was recently entertained at a dinner at which Mrs. Smith Hollins McKim, who is now in Reno, seeking a divorce, was also a guest. She is expected here early in April, and the artisans are rushing work on the home she has rented. She has promised to take part in a performance to be given in San Francisco shortly by society people for charity, and may not occupy the home in Reno until after that time. J. Werrum of Virginia City, who is a son of Mrs. Prater and who rents the home, will neither deny nor affirm the report that Mrs. W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr., has rented it. It is stated here that Mrs. Vanderbilt does not expect her suit to be contested.

William Kissam Vanderbilt, Jr., and Miss Virginia Fair were married April 4, 1899. The ceremony, which was according to the Roman Catholic ritual, was performed at noon in the conservatory of the New York residence of Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, sister of the bride. The Rev. Father Murphy officiated. There were 200 guests present, including the leaders of New York society.

Mrs. Vanderbilt was the daughter of the late Senator James G. Fair of California. She received her early education at Miss West's School in San Francisco, and later attended the Convent of Notre Dame. She was a devout Roman Catholic, and at one time considered taking the veil. She was dissuaded from this idea after coming to the East. She lived for some time with her mother and sister at the Hoffman House in this city. She met young Mr. Vanderbilt at Newport when he was on one of his vacations from Harvard University.

In January, 1909, following a reported disagreement, Mrs. Vanderbilt went to Europe, while her husband took a yachting trip to the West Indies on his steam yacht Tarantula. In February he was reported in Paris, having returned from Monte Carlo.

Information came out on Sept. 22, 1909 that Mrs. Vanderbilt had leased the Barney estate, Wheatley Hills, at Westbury, L. I. This followed persistent reports of the separation of Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt. It was said that efforts to reconcile them had been made not only by Mrs. Vanderbilt's sister, Mrs. Oelrichs, but by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, Mr. Vanderbilt's mother. After her return from Europe on the Lusitania, Sept. 24, 1909, Mrs. Vanderbilt went immediately to her town house. She was met by both Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont and Mrs. Oelrichs, her sister. Mr. Vanderbilt was not at the pier. Mrs. Belmont took the two children to her house in her touring car, it was said, to see their father.

Shortly after Mrs. Vanderbilt's arrival there were published on apparently good authority reports that an agreement of separation had been entered into between Mr. and Mrs. Vanderbilt, by which the time of their children was to be divided between them. At the time of the marriage it had been stated that Mr. Vanderbilt had agreed that they were to be brought up in the Roman Catholic faith.

The Vanderbilts had a town house at 666 Fifth Avenue, near the home of Mr. Vanderbilt's father. Of late this has been occupied by Mrs. Vanderbilt and their two children, Muriel Vanderbilt and William Kissam Vanderbilt, 3d. Mr. Vanderbilt has been stopping at the Brook Club, 7 East Fortieth Street. He could not be located there, nor at his Great Neck estate last night.

On Jan. 20 of the present year Mr. Vanderbilt was elected a Director of the New York Central Railroad Company. He had received a share in the management of the Vanderbilt properties shortly after his wedding.

WOMAN BURNED TO DEATH.

Dress Set on Fire in Her Home by a Soldering Furnace.

A sudden flare of fire from a small gasoline tinner's furnace, with which Louis Wagman of 3,766 Third Avenue was repairing an ice chest in the home of Mrs. Helen Freytag, 3,762 Park Avenue, late yesterday afternoon ignited Mrs. Freytag's skirts, and in a moment they were blazing.

Wagman rolled the woman upon the floor and finally extinguished the blaze. Then, with his own hands burned, he rushed to a telephone and called Dr. Grossman in an ambulance from the Fordham Hospital. The injured woman, however, died soon after she reached the institution.

Wagman was arrested by order of Coroner Shongut on a charge of criminal negligence, which was later changed to homicide.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Assurances have been given to the Post Office Department by the Pennsylvania Railroad that it will begin running some of its trains under the Hudson River to its new Manhattan terminal by June 1.

Arrangements for handling the mails in connection with the new service are now under way. Clyde M. Reed, Superintendent of the Division of Railway Adjustments, is now in New York for this purpose.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., March 30.—Frank N. Barksdale of the Pennsylvania Railroad said to-night that he did not know what arrangements had been made with the Post Office Department concerning the New York tunnels, but he was sure that no passenger trains would be running before July 1, if then.

GIRL HAS FASTED 45 DAYS.

Though Arrested She Says She Will Keep Vow for Two Months.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, March 30.—Cora Esek, 22 years old, was arrested yesterday after she had fasted, her friends said, for forty-five days.

The girl was taken to the county jail, where no persuasion could prevail on her to eat.

She was so weak that she could not stand upright, but she insisted that she would fulfill an oath of fasting for two months even if it killed her.

MASKED MEN KILL BOY.

Band of Twelve Call Farmer's Son from Home and Shoot Him.

LEITCHFIELD, Ky., March 30.—Charles Carroll the sixteen-year-old son of a farmer, was killed to-day at his home, at Goffs, Edmonson County, by a band of twelve masked men.

Carroll was called to the door of his home and shot in the back.

BLOW TO HUNTINGTON HARBOR

Long Island Port Will Not Get Additional Help from Congress.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Huntington, L. I., lost out to-day in its hope for Congressional aid in further development of its harbor.

The War Department sent to Congress an adverse report on the district engineer's proposition to spend $78,000, with $2,500 for annual maintenance, on the excavation of a channel 10 feet deep at mean low water and 100 feet wide, with proper widening through the inlet, and 80 feet wide from the steamboat wharf to the causeway at the head of the harbor with an adequate turning basin.

The existing project for a channel 8 feet deep and 100 feet wide up to the wharves, however, will be completed.

MORE FERRIES LOSE TRAFFIC.

Manhattan Bridge Opening Compels Union Co. to Lay Off Three Crews.

Because of a diversion of vehicular traffic to the new Manhattan Bridge, the Union Ferry Company of Brooklyn has been forced to discharge three boat crews and to change the schedule on the Catharine, Fulton, and Wall Street Ferries from a ten-minute to a twenty-minute headway in the so-called non-rush hours of the day. The company says that it has made these changes on account of reduced receipts. None of the boats, however, will be taken out of service.

The ferry lines were hard hit by the opening of the Manhattan-Brooklyn tunnel, and there was an immediate effect on the boat traffic when the Manhattan Bridge was thrown open. Many manufacturers who formerly used the ferries now send their trucks to Manhattan by way of the new bridge.

HIT FELLOW-COMMUTER.

Gannon Thought Reynolds Was Trying to Flirt with His Wife.

Because Thomas J. Gannon, a New York iron broker, believed that John J. Reynolds, a New York wholesale marketman, was trying to flirt with his wife on an afternoon train going from New York to the country home of both men at Greenwich, Conn., Mr. Gannon struck Mr. Reynolds. As a result Mr. Gannon appeared in the Greenwich Borough Court yesterday to answer a charge of assault preferred by Mr. Reynolds. The case was adjourned until next Monday.

The affair took place just after the 4:05 train from New York on Saturday had passed into Connecticut. Mr. Gannon's story is this:

"My wife and I were returning from a trip to Atlantic City. She had been suffering with nervous and heart trouble. She sat in a seat next to the window and I with her. Reynolds came walking through the car, looked at her and then sat down in the seat ahead of us. He turned sideways with his back toward the aisle and placed his feet on the window sill. During the trip he repeatedly turned about and looked at my wife. She was very nervous and held a paper up before her face. She urged me not to pay any attention to Reynolds, but when he got up in his seat just before reaching Greenwich and turned deliberately about, facing her, I could not control myself and I told him a few things and punched him."

Mr. Reynolds's story is that he was very busily engaged in reading a contract, and while he was studying it, he occasionally looked out of the window by his seat and the one at the rear of him absent-mindedly. He caused the arrest, he states, because he was honor bound to do so.

Both men are held in high estimation in Greenwich and have grown-up families.

BARLOW CUTS BAIL; BIG THIEVES VANISH

BOSTON SLEUTHS ANGRY

The Authorities Had Gone to Great Expense to Run Down Burglars Wanted in Many Cities.

Police Headquarters buzzed with indignation yesterday when the news was flashed from Jefferson Market Court that Jacob Goldberg, known also as Jake Itchsky; his brother, Joseph, or "Red" Tracey, and Harry Rothstein, known as "Kovak der Schmidt," (Kovak the blacksmith,) who were arrested last Saturday for being concerned in several safe robberies, had jumped their bail and disappeared.

Inspector McCafferty said it was the most discouraging news he had received since he became head of the detective force. The three men are known from coast to coast as unusually clever and dangerous safe robbers, and they were caught after three weeks of the hardest kind of work on the part of three of McCafferty's men, Lieuts. Duggan, Kinsler, and O'Farrell. A complete case had been built up against the prisoners by the police of New York, Boston, New Haven, and Philadelphia, and it was confidently predicted that the burglars would spend the rest of their lives in prison. Just when the police were feeling most confident their quarry slipped through their fingers.

The police do not expect to have the good fortune to entertain Joseph, Jacob, or Harry again. Moreover, the police put the whole blame for the disappearance of the three burglars upon Magistrate Peter Barlow. It was said yesterday that an official investigation of the case would probably be made.

Robbed Boston Jeweler.

On Monday, Feb. 28, word came from Boston that the jewelry store of Samuel E. Ullian at 1,113 Washington Street had been robbed, the safe cut open in a peculiar way, and $18,000 worth of jewelry taken. The store had been entered through the cellar and a square hole sawed through the floor. A neat square hole had also been cut in the back of the safe as if with a mammoth can-opener. A tool that looked like an enormous jimmy was found beside the safe. It explained the square hole. It was about three feet long, of solid steel, and weighed about twelve pounds. One end was sharpened to a point and the other was fashioned like an ordinary can-opener. This end, inserted in the hole punched by the sharp end of the instrument, was used to bite out a square piece of steel as an ordinary can-opener gnaws out the top of a tin can. Along with this instrument a stick of dynamite was found, a quantity of nitroglycerine, two hand saws, four giant jimmies, a dark lantern, a dry electric battery and fuses and matches. There was no doubt that the burglars were experienced at their trade.

The robbery stirred Chief Watts of Boston to unusual activity, and he sent all over the country a full description of the crime with a description of three men who had been seen loitering about the store the Saturday before the crime. When Inspector McCafferty received the report he remembered that a similar robbery had taken place in the jewelry store of Benjamin Sarason at 106 George Street, New Haven, Conn., on Jan. 15. Jewelry worth $9,000 was taken. A burglar's tool, similar to the Boston one, was found beside the safe that had been cut in the same way. On Jan. 22 the jewelry store of Andrew Meyers of Philadelphia was robbed of $6,000 worth of valuables. A can-opener tool was also found there.

Inspector McCafferty was interested in all these reports because it seemed to indicate that a new kind of burglar who could easily cut his way into an ordinary safe, was at work. He sent out Duggan, Kinsler, and O'Farrell. They knew that Harry Rothstein had recently been liberated from State prison at Trenton, N. J., where he had served five years for robbing a bank. They knew his ability, too, to manufacture tools, and the "can opener" looked like a specimen of his skill. They got on his track and watched him closely. When they saw him meet the two Goldbergs they promptly arrested them all. At the time of their arrest all three carried considerable jewelry and a lot of pawn tickets.

The men were taken before Magistrate Barlow, in the Jefferson Market Court, last Sunday morning and held in $10,000 bail each on a short affidavit for examination yesterday morning. In the meantime, Inspector McCafferty sent to Boston, New Haven, and Philadelphia to have all the available evidence in those cities brought here.

Inspector M. J. Morrissey of Boston came on with a couple of witnesses and the bundle of burglars' tools found in Ullian's shop. He returned on Monday to Boston and brought Ullian here yesterday. Sarason came on from New Haven, and Meyer from Philadelphia. All three merchants identified rings, watches, and stick pins which had been found in the Goldberg house, at 27 Goerck Street, this city, or had been recorded at pawnshops. Rothstein, it is said, confessed to Inspector Morrissey, and the police net about the three was considered to have been very tightly drawn. All awaited the arraignment of the men yesterday morning. Sergt. James Ward of New Haven, Detective Richard Burke of Philadelphia, and Inspector Morrissey of Boston were ready with requisition papers. The case was set for 10 o'clock, and when it was called, Moses A. Sachs, a lawyer of 63 Park Row, stepped forward and announced that he represented the prisoners.

"Where are they?" inquired Magistrate Barlow.

"They have disappeared, your Honor," replied Sachs, "but I think they will appear soon."

Magistrate Barlow announced the bail bonds forfeited. Immediately two women in the courtroom began to cry. They said they represented the bondsmen and gave their names as Mrs. David Glick and Rosie Glick, the former's daughter.

Police Not Warned of Reduction.

For the first time the detectives and the complainants learned that the $30,000 bail had been reduced to $15,000. It came to light on Tuesday afternoon when Lawyer Sachs appeared before Magistrate Barlow and asked for the reduction in bail. The Magistrate readily granted it. With Mr. Sachs was David Glick, who said he was a manufacturer of 3,671 Broadway, and Harry Sechery, a builder, of 272 East Tenth Street. They offered real estate, and the bond was acceptable to the Magistrate. The Goldberg brothers and Rothstein then left their cells and promptly disappeared. Naturally they were not on hand when the case was called yesterday.

When the news was carried by the disappointed detectives to Inspector McCafferty he was so angry that he refused to comment on the situation. What Lieuts. Duggan, Kinsler, and O'Farrell said wouldn't look well in print. The angriest of all those connected with the case were Mr. Ullian, Mr. Sarason, and Mr. Meyer. Mr. Ullian complained to Commissioner Baker and then left Headquarters, announcing that he would lay the whole affair before the District Attorney. Mr. Sarason contented himself with telling in private his opinion of the City Magistrates.

Magistrate Barlow was asked later why he had reduced the bail of the three burglars. He said:

"Mr. Sachs came to me and said unless the bail was reduced he would apply for a writ of habeas corpus to a Supreme Court Justice. In order to smooth him over I consented to the reduction. It was perfectly within my rights to do so, as in the matter of a felony it is entirely discretionary with a Magistrate as to what amount of bail is acceptable."

When told that Mr. Ullian intended to appeal to the District Attorney's office, the Magistrate said:

"Tell that Boston jeweler, with my compliments, to go to h—"

"When Magistrate Barlow announced on Sunday that he would hold my clients in $10,000 bail each," said Lawyer Sachs, "I objected in the presence of the detectives and the complaining witnesses. Magistrate Barlow then announced that if I presented substantial and good security he would reduce the amount to $5,000 each. I produced that good security on Tuesday afternoon, and he kept his promise. There is nothing startling at all about the matter.

"The only evidence against the prisoners the Boston man produced was himself and a colored porter, who said he saw one of the prisoners in his store. Of all the so-called loot that was recovered only one watch was identified. Magistrate Barlow acted in a perfectly proper manner in reducing the bail, and he needs no defender. It is unfair and unjust to criticise him. There was a grave doubt in my mind that the men would have been turned over to the Boston authorities."

"We do these things better in Boston," said Inspector Morrissey, in accents of extreme disgust. "For instance, City Magistrates are allowed to accept bail only in court, or at the station houses. I understand that the bail in this case was accepted by Magistrate Barlow at his home. It is unfortunate that these men were allowed to get away so easily after so much time and money had been spent to apprehend them. We had a perfectly clear case against them, and it would have been easy to convict them. On all three counts they would have received forty years each in prison. Inspector McCafferty did unusually clever work in rounding these men up, but his work has now all gone for nothing."

According to the detectives, Joseph Goldberg was the brains of the gang. They say he has $60,000 in cash stored away in a safe deposit vault. All three have police records and one of the Goldbergs is wanted in Cleveland and Chicago.

HARTRIDGE AS A DETECTIVE.

Counsel Suing Thaws for $94,000 Did Incidental Sleuthing.

Clifford W. Hartridge, plaintiff in the suit for $94,000 in fees, alleged to be due for services performed during the first Thaw trial, testified yesterday before Judge Holt in the United States Circuit Court that he did detective duty in addition to performing legal services for the Thaws. The detective work, he said, was covered in the $94,000 bill he had failed to collect, and was done before the trial. It consisted of visits to cafés Thaw had frequented to learn what kind of stories about him were afloat.

"Did you charge for your time in this detective work?" suggested Mr. Wilder of Hartridge's counsel.

"No," the witness replied. "Only for the money I was obliged to spend."

"Does your bill of particulars include all the money you spent in these cafés?" asked Mr. Kellogg of counsel for Mrs. Thaw.

"No, I spent thousands of dollars that I did not include in my bill."

"Thousands of dollars?" queried Mr. Kellogg.

"Yes, thousands of dollars," echoed the witness.

Former Judge William M. K. Olcott submitted his charges, as one of Thaw's first counsel, for comparison with those listed by Mr. Hartridge. He had submitted a bill of $50,000 for services and $5,173.91 for disbursements, but had accepted $25,086.88 in full settlement. He informed newspaper reporters after leaving the stand that the settlement satisfied him, and that he had submitted the bill at the larger figure because Thaw had broken his contract with him and he had named the full amount allowed under it.

Mrs. Thaw bade her son good night at the door of the Tombs at the close of the afternoon session of the court.

M'CALL SHARED IN STOCK TRANSFER

exchanged for the one-hundred-share certificates of stock in the International Banking and Trust Company, which went to E. E. McCall and to William H. Buckley. Buckley had Certificate 105, McCall had certificate 106, and Goodsell had Certificate 107. Coincidently with the issuance of this certificate to Buckley the loan of $13,000 was made to him by the International Banking and Trust Company on June 20, 1899, the collateral being the miscellaneous stocks to which reference has been made. On Aug. 21, 1899, Buckley got $15,000 more from the Seventh National Bank, pledging his International Banking and Trust Company stock as collateral.

Check Indorsed by McCall.

These were the loans which were transferred to the Phenix by means of a loan made to Buckley on Dec. 20, 1899, of $35,000, and the check involved in this loan, which is in evidence in the fire insurance investigation, bears the indorsement of E. E. McCall. The investigations that have been made also show that the Seventh National Bank and the Produce Exchange Trust Company both made loans of considerable size jointly to E. E. McCall and Stewart Browne in this period on International Banking and Trust Company stock as collateral.

The books of the International Banking and Trust Company show that E. E. McCall received $5,000 from that institution on May 15, 1899, a separate check of $3,000 on the same day, and on June 19 $7,000, making a total of $15,000, the purchase price of 100 shares of stock at $150, at which price it was issued. Supt. Hotchkiss would not comment upon these facts yesterday, but it is believed he would be glad to receive from Judge McCall an explanation of these payments in addition to the other parts of the transaction in which the Judge's name has appeared.

The fire insurance investigation will continue this morning. An effort will be made to refresh the memory of Elijah R. Kennedy, as to the individuals who got $5,000 of the $13,000 that he distributed at Albany in 1901. John B. Lunger, Vice President of the Travelers' Insurance Company of Hartford, will be asked to tell what he knows about the payment of $21,400 to Buckley for his services in connection with the passage of a single bill in 1904. Other witnesses will be E. E. Clapp, formerly with the Fidelity and Casualty Company, who will amplify the story told by President Seward of that company about a demand for $10,000 in connection with the passage of a bill in 1901; F. T. Case, an underwriter, who made many trips to Albany in connection with legislation; E. A. J. Correa, Vice President of The Home Insurance Company; Henry C. Wilcox, Vice President of the American Surety Company, and William E. Hutchins, President of the North River Fire Insurance Company.

Aqueduct Chief Engineer Removed.

The new Aqueduct Commission removed Walter H. Sears as Chief Engineer yesterday, following the receipt of his refusal to resign. Mr. Sears says he will sue for reinstatement, only three of the commissioners being present at the meeting which removed him. The absentee was Ernest Harvier. Sears has been Chief Engineer since 1904 at $10,000 a year.

PLANS RECIPROCITY ON CANADA TARIFF

Negotiations for General Readjustment of Duties to Follow Taft Settlement.

CANADA CONCESSIONS FEW

Those in Present Agreement Cover Only 3 Per Cent. of Our Exports —The Basis of Selection.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—President Taft, it appears from announcements made by Secretary of State Knox to-day, in giving out the terms of the tariff agreement with Canada, has in view negotiations with the Dominion Government looking to still closer trade relations between the two countries and to a general readjustment of duties by means of a reciprocal treaty.

Mr. Knox to-day made public the concessions granted by Canada in return for which the minimum rates of the Payne-Aldrich act will be applied to Canadian imports into the United States. The Canadian concessions will apply to some forty articles, set forth in thirteen paragraphs of the Canadian tariff law, and will reduce the duty on American shipments to Canada estimated by the State Department at a yearly value of $5,000,000.

These concessions on $5,000,000 of American goods out of an annual export trade to Canada of something like $150,000,000 will not strike the average American as overwhelmingly important. But along with the details of the concessions Mr. Knox made public also the correspondence between himself and Dominion Minister of Finance Fielding, through which on Saturday the agreement was concluded. In both letters unmistakable reference is made to the speedy opening of negotiations looking to the making of a trade treaty on broad lines of reciprocity between the two countries and both officials speak of the proposal as acceptable to their respective governments and as likely to be indorsed by the people.

Would Mean Tariff Legislation.

For the United States to enter into a tariff treaty with Canada undoubtedly means that apart at least of the administrative clause of the Payne-Aldrich act will have to be repealed. The fact that the President should be considering at this time so difficult a step indicates clearly how sincere he is in his efforts to bring closer the commercial relations of the two countries. It also indicates that he realizes that the present "agreement" with Canada is far from satisfactory, and that he feels the necessity of extraordinary steps to secure for American merchants fair opportunities in the country to the north.

The Payne tariff act expressly repeals all tariff treaties and agreements, and provides without qualification only two sets of schedules. One is the maximum, for use against countries declared by the President to be "unduly" discriminating against us, and this is the set of rates Canada would have had in case no understanding had been arrived at. The other is the minimum, or normal rate, given to all countries declared by the President not to be unduly discriminating against us. Accordingly, before a treaty establishing reciprocal rates can be ratified by the Senate the Payne act will have to be amended so as to make such a treaty legal.

Mr. Knox evidently considers the successful broaching of the treaty question of more importance than the concessions actually won from Canada at this juncture, for in his official statement setting forth the results of the last few months of negotiations he gives the first place to the letters in which the possibility of a reciprocal treaty is discussed. The correspondence makes it evident that the proposal for renewed negotiations came from the United States, though Canada appears to have fallen in with the plan without delay.

The Letters Exchanged.

In his letter of last Saturday to Mr. Fielding Mr. Knox says, after referring to the agreement at last reached:

> The agreement encourages the hope that the future trade relations of the countries will become even more intimate and expanded, and will be regulated in a spirit of cordial reciprocation and interdependence. The common commerce now amounts to a vast sum, and its extraordinary growth is an index of the vast industry and commercial development among both peoples. It seems clear that this trade should be fostered so that the markets of each may be open to the other on the most advantageous terms possible for the interchange of commodities, and that such interchange undoubtedly can be promoted by the two Governments without impairing their National economic policies. Let me, then, take this opportunity to express, by his direction, the desire of the President, that your Government will find it convenient to take up with this Government, at such time and in such manner as may be mutually satisfactory, the consideration of a readjustment of our trade relations upon the broader and more liberal lines which should obtain between countries so closely related geographically and racially, as indicated by the President in his recent public utterances.

On the same date Mr. Fielding replied:

> The Canadian Government very heartily reciprocates your expressions as to the desirability of improving the commercial relations between the United States and Canada, and will gladly avail themselves of the invitation of the President to take up with your Government, at such time and in such manner as may be mutually satisfactory, the consideration of a readjustment of these relations upon broad and liberal lines. The recent public utterances of the President in that direction have afforded much satisfaction to the Canadian people, who will receive with pleasure the formal confirmation of them which is now conveyed to our Government through you. I am confident that your assurances will be received also with much gratification by his Majesty's Government in London, who will find in them further evidence of the desire of the Government of the United States to maintain the most cordial relations with the British Empire.

In discussing the matter to-day, President Taft would not go so far as to say that the proposed conference is the forerunner of reciprocity. What he hopes is that the conference may result in a complete readjustment of the tariff rates between the two countries, without either's abandoning its national economic policy.

The President's Initiative.

President Taft from the first did not hesitate to let it be known that he would go a long way to avoid a tariff war with Canada. Such a war, he believed, would fall heavily upon American interests and manufactures.

It was the President who took the initiative in inviting Finance Minister Fielding to Albany to discuss the differences between the two countries. The exchange of views at Albany led to the successful conferences in Washington.

The charge that Canada was unduly discriminatory against the United States originally grew out of the Canadian treaty with France, whereby the latter country received a reduction of from 2½ to 5 per cent. President Taft did not take the view that this was discriminatory, inasmuch as France in return offered to Canada a similar reduction of rates. The United States, never having offered concessions to Canada, Mr. Taft held, could not expect such preferential treatment on the other side.

There stood in the way, however, the fact that the reductions granted by Canada to France were automatically applied to thirteen other countries included in Great Britain's "favored nation" policy. This, the President held, did amount to discrimination against the United States. It was to offset this that the negotiations were begun, and the President expressed himself to-day as entirely satisfied with the outcome.

The more important nations benefiting by Canada's preferential treatment under the "favored nation" clause are Spain, Switzerland, Austria, and Japan. President Taft made the proposition that Canada would be absolved from "undue" discrimination against the United States if this country received a 2½ per cent. reduction on the articles with which American firms compete with the "favored nations" in the Canadian market. The Dominion Government finally agreed to this, and it was on these terms that the present settlement was reached.

Thus, while the reductions actually apply only to something like 3 per cent. of American exports to Canada, the large part of the exports are in non-competitive classes where America would have the market any way.

As to Spain, the United States meets in the Canadian market with strong competition in raisins, prunes, and all sorts of dried fruits. Canada granted the United States a reduction on this class of merchandise.

With Switzerland, the United States meets competition in the Canadian market in watch movements. Canada has granted a reduction which puts the United States on an equal footing. With France, Austria, and Japan, the United States meets heavy competition in chinaware. Canada has granted reductions on all articles in this class.

Canada conceded thirteen numbers to the United States, the thirteenth being a "basket" or omnibus clause, which includes a host of articles, among which cottonseed oil is one of the heaviest exports.

Wood Pulp Unaffected.

The disputed points concerning wood pulp, print paper, and pulp wood do not figure in the concessions made in the present agreement. The only reference to this phase of the subject in the correspondence made public to-day is the passage in which Mr. Fielding says: "I have observed with satisfaction that your Government is not disposed to press some of its earlier contentions respecting our commercial treaties, which, from our point of view, we could not admit."

On these particular points, though evidently the United States at first tried to gain concessions, the attitude of this Government is that they lie outside the range of the discussion of what does and what does not constitute "undue" discrimination. For the Canadian wood products we are the only customers, so that discrimination could hardly exist where there is no third party with which to make a comparison.

Important among the concessions is the granting of the intermediate Canadian rate of 17½ per cent. ad valorem on her omnibus paragraph as opposed to the duty of 20 per cent. ad valorem originally imposed. Under this section comes $500,000 of American cotton seed oil annually, drugs and dyes, valued at $300,000 a year, and a number of lesser items. On our shipments of nuts, raisins and the like, valued at $1,140,000 a year we also get the intermediate rates at varying percentages. Other items on which we get reductions, with the value of our annual exportations to Canada, are toilet soaps and perfumes, $500,000; watch movements, &c., $500,000; dressed leather, $500,000; photographs, &c., $400,00, and artificial flowers and feathers, $20,000.

The complete of articles on which concessions have been made, with the rate at which the reduced duty will stand, follows:

Dates and figs, dried, per 100 pounds, 55 cents.

Prunes and dried plums, unpitted, raisins and dried currants, per pound 2-3 of a cent.

Almonds, walnuts, Brazil nuts, pecans, and shelled peanuts, not otherwise provided, per pound, 2 cents.

Nuts of all kinds, not otherwise provided, per pound, 2 cents.

Photographs, chromos, chromotypes, artotypes, oleographs, paintings, drawings, pictures, decalcomania transfers of all kinds, engravings or prints or proofs therefrom, and similar works of art, not otherwise provided, blue prints, building plans, maps and charts, not otherwise provided, 22½ per cent.

Soap powders, powdered soap, mineral soap, and soap not otherwise provided, 32½ per cent.

Perfumery, including toilet preparations, non-alcoholic, viz.: Hair oils, tooth and other powders and washes, pomatums, pastes, and all other perfumed preparations not otherwise provided, used for the hair, mouth, or skin, 32½ per cent.

Tableware of china, porcelain, white granite, or ironstone, 27½ per cent.

Common and colorless window glass, 12½ per cent.

Watch actions and movements, and parts thereof, finished or unfinished, including winding bars and sleeves, 12½ per cent.

Dongola, cordovan, calf, sheep, lamb, kid or goat, alligator, and all leather, dressed, waxed, glazed, or further finished than tanned, not otherwise provided, harness leather, and chamois skin, 15 per cent.

Feathers and manufactures of feathers, not otherwise provided; artificial feathers, fruits, grains, leaves, and flowers suitable for ornamenting hats, 27½ per cent.

All goods not enumerated in this schedule as subject to any other rate of duty, and not otherwise declared free of duty, and not being goods the importation whereof is by law prohibited, 17½ per cent.

CANADA MEETS TAFT'S VIEWS.

OTTAWA, Ontario, March 30.—The Dominion Parliament and the people of Canada received their first official announcement of the settlement of the tariff controversy with the United States and the granting by the latter of the minimum tariff rates, through a statement made in the House this afternoon by Finance Minister Fielding. It was evident from the trend of Mr. Fielding's remarks that the process of readjusting tariff relations between the two countries will not end with the agreement just reached.

Mr. Fielding arrived here from Washington at 1 o'clock, and at once conferred with Premier Laurier and other members of the Cabinet, after which he proceeded to the House, where he was greeted with applause when he began to speak. Mr. Fielding said the first overtures for a readjustment of tariff relations came from Washington, adding that when a deadlock seemed inevitable the Dominion Government took a firm stand and would not have shrunk from a tariff war, although it preferred to avoid hostilities of that sort.

No pledge was given by Canada that the export of pulp wood would not be prohibited, Mr. Fielding declared, and went on to say that in the negotiations Canada had never admitted that the Franco-Canadian treaty amounted to a discrimination against the United States, and that by his proclamation issued at Washington to-day, President Taft tacitly admitted this to be a fact.

"Has President Taft undertaken to promote in Congress lower tariff rates for Canada?" Mr. Fielding was asked.

"Practically, yes," he replied.

Continuing Mr. Fielding said that it had been asserted in some quarters that President Taft had been bluffing and that he would not have dared to impose the maximum tariff rates against Canada, even if the Dominion had failed to make any concessions whatever. This was a mistaken idea, Mr. Fielding said. With all of his friendly regard for Canada President Taft might have been forced into imposing the maximum against Canada.

"If we had stood pat it is possible we might have in some way obtained the minimum American tariff," said Mr. Fielding. "That perhaps would have been a great triumph for Canada. To hurl defiance at the United States when all the nations of Europe are accepting their terms might have been heroic, but some victories are too dearly bought. If we had thus achieved a triumph for the moment it might be a reason for self-congratulation, but it would not have improved the future relations between these two countries. If, therefor, we could avoid a tariff war by granting some, and from our point of view not very important concessions, it was far better in the interest of Canada for the present and the future that we should make the concessions rather than to triumph over the United States on terms which would have left soreness and ill-feeling and created friction in future negotiations.

"Fully believing in the professions of President Taft that he desired to establish the best of relations with Canada, we sought an honorable compromise. Extremists on both sides will claim that Canada and that the United States has the best of the bargain. Both will be wrong. It was a good thing to avoid the maximum; it was a good thing to give concessions to the United States and to avoid a quarrel with that country."

Sir Wilfrid Laurier said:

"I have reasons to believe that there are a large number of people in the United States who would be sorry to see a tariff war with Canada. In fact, so strong is that feeling that for the first time in history an American Ambassador has come to Canada to negotiate for commercial peace. I also recognize the fact that there is in the United States a high protectionist group, which is willing and anxious to push the President into a tariff war with Canada. The Canadian Government did not feel that it should give its aid to further the ends of this group by making impossible conditions for the President.

"Canada is a country of seven millions and the United States has almost ninety millions. If we had chosen to be stiff with them to an unyielding point they would have been stiff with us. Now we are within measurable distance of reciprocity with our neighbor, and that is a more desirable situation. Canada is free to negotiate for better commercial relations with any nation with whom she pleases, and we intend to begin those negotiations with the United States as the first country on the list. There are articles upon which both the United States and Canada can give futher concessions with mutual advantage, we believe, and we intend to see what can be done."

SAYS WE BLUFFED CANADA.

LONDON, March 31.—The Morning Post in an editorial on the tariff agreement between Canada and the United States contends that by flourishing a "big revolver" in the shape of a surtax, which it could not have imposed without hurting its own interests, the United States has bluffed Canada into giving something for nothing, but the paper adds:

"It is to the interest of American diplomacy, now that its battle is won, to belittle its own victory so as to smooth the path for further conquests later on."

MAYOR'S EXCISE PLAN PLEASES GENERALLY

IT ENDS GRAFTING, ANYWAY

That's the General Opinion—Whether It Will Make the Town "Dry" Only a Trial Can Prove.

From all that could be learned by careful inquiry yesterday the directions issued by Mayor Gaynor to Police Commissioner Baker for the future enforcement of the excise law in this city are acceptable both to the great body of temperance advocates, who are strong for the enforcement of the law—which it is admitted they are not getting at present—and to the liquor dealers themselves, who, whether they take chances in selling liquor in prohibited hours or not, will certainly save the money now paid for "protection."

As to whether the Mayor's plan will provide "dry" Sundays for New York or not, opinion seemed to be divided, according to the point of view. The general belief, apparently, is that nobody will know until the plan is thoroughly tried out. But on one point everybody did agree, and that was that the Mayor had dealt to the so-called police "system" the worst blow it ever had received.

The Mayor himself declined yesterday to add anything by way of explanation to what he wrote to Police Commissioner Baker on Tuesday. The letter would speak, and must speak for itself, he said. One point, however, was made clear, both by Commissioner Baker and District Attorney Whitman, to any who had misread the Mayor's instructions. He does not take enforcement of the law and detection of violations away from the police, but simply directs that the department shall proceed after the manner of the special agents of the Excise Commissioner, who make no arrests but sworn statements of violations. And he ends by this order what he describes as the "disorderly" way of present enforcement.

Commissioner Baker received the Mayor's letter yesterday. He at once declared it to be an excellent interpretation and explanation of the law and set about putting in effect the orders it contained. He said this would take several days. Later in the day he held a conference with his Inspectors to get their ideas regarding such department orders as it might be necessary to issue to make the force thoroughly understand its duty under the changed conditions. Asked if he expected to get ready for enforcement under the new conditions next Sunday, the Commissioner replied:

"I hardly think it possible."

"Will the law be enforced at Coney Island and other places of amusement as in Manhattan and Brooklyn?" he was asked.

"I thought that question was coming," was the reply. "We will meet that situation when we come to it. At present we have all we can do to meet the requirements of the Mayor's letter."

District Attorney Whitman said the Mayor would have his hearty co-operation, although the Mayor's plan would mean greatly increased work for the District Attorney's office.

"I think the Mayor's plan for dealing with the excise situation," said he, "is well worth trying; anyway, it is clearly in accordance with the provisions of the liquor tax law.

"It must be remembered, however," he added, "that the obtaining of evidence of violations of the law, and therefore the enforcement of the law by the courts, rests primarily and almost entirely upon the integrity and efficiency of the police. The District Attorney's office is not provided with officers for the purpose of obtaining evidence of violations of law. Of course, my office will co-operate cordially with the Mayor and the Police Commissioner, and will prosecute vigorously such persons as are shown to be guilty of violations of the excise law on the evidence presented to me by the Police Department, as required by the statute."

"Then you take it to be no part of your duty to send out and get evidence of excise violations?" he was asked.

"Most certainly not," he replied; "and I don't intend to do so."

He added that it would be a physical impossibility for him to do this if he wanted, because he had only five detectives who were city policemen assigned to his office to serve bench warrants.

It was said at the District Attorney's office that there had been about 550 prosecutions of excise violations since Jan. 1, with about 60 per cent., or 330 convictions. The remaining cases were lost largely, it was explained, because policemen making the arrests had sudden attacks of poor memory.

Moses M. McKee, special Deputy Excise Commissioner for Manhattan and the Bronx, with offices at 1 Madison Avenue, lost no time yesterday in making it plain that the enforcement of the excise law couldn't fall on his shoulders.

"I have absolutely nothing to do with it," said Mr. McKee. "My office is for the issuance of certificates only, and all I have here is a small clerical force for that purpose. Reports of violations are not made to me or to this office but directly to Excise Commissioner Maynard N. Clement at Albany. If complaints come to this office they are at once forwarded to Commissioner Clement and are investigated by his directions. The special agents do not work under me, but directly under the Commissioner. As a rule I do not hear of cases until reports of convictions are made."

Mr. McKee explained that Commissioner Clement was allowed by law to have only sixty special agents for the entire State, or an average of one for each county. These men receive small salaries, ranging from $1,000 in the first year of service up to $1,500 or a little more. It was not Mr. McKee's idea that they were expected or could be expected to detect all the excise violations in this city, but chiefly to investigate when serious complaints were made and to see that liquor taxes were paid and that saloons were not being conducted without certificates.

In his last annual report recently received in this city, State Excise Commissioner Clement declares that his men cannot cope with ordinary excise violations such as Sunday or "after-hours" selling. But Mayor Gaynor has not relieved the police of this duty.

A conviction through the Excise Department, however, usually means the revocation of the liquor tax certificate and the closing of the saloon affected. Conviction is much easier under this method, it was said yesterday, because it is the place and the proprietor against whom the excise men proceed, rather than against the bartender who actually brought out the liquor.

At the office of the Church Temperance Society, which has taken an active part in the effort for rigid enforcement of the excise law, even to the extent of taking the license not only from the offender, but the place where the offense is committed, the Mayor's plan has already aroused enthusiasm. The opinion was expressed yesterday that it would put an end to the graft from the saloon keepers to the police—graft estimated variously from $1,000,000 to $2,000,000 a year—and bring about in the long run a more rigid enforcement of the law. A meeting of the society is to be held next Tuesday afternoon, at which the matter will be fully discussed.

Jacob Ruppert, Jr., President of the New York State Brewers' Association, was out of town yesterday, but for that organization it was said that the Mayor's order was not regarded adversely because many of the leading members had been contending for some time that it would be best for all concerned to abide by the law as it stands, thus escaping both graft and prosecution. The Brewers' Association, it was said, would not hold a special meeting to take up the matter, but would wait for the regular meeting date, April 13, now only two weeks off.

M. F. Farley, head of the Wine, Liquor, and Beer Dealers' Association, and a Vice President of the National Liquor Dealers' Association, could not be found last night, but that organization is also not expected to meet until about April 15.

Several Manhattan Magistrates and the District Attorneys of Brooklyn and Queens expressed unqualified approval of the new order of things. Magistrate House went so far as to say that he had always favored taking the enforcement of the excise law out of the hands of the police.

"But," said he, "if Mayor Gaynor can bring about this enforcement in the manner in which he has indicated it will be a great step in advance of the present methods.

"I have no hesitation in saying that Mayor Gaynor has dealt what is commonly called the 'police system' the severest blow it has received in years. It has been common knowledge for years that the liquor interests were paying for police protection, and this was one of the most prolific sources of income received by certain police officials. If Mayor Gaynor by his proposed method can put a stop to the paying of this tribute on the part of liquor dealers for police protection he will have accomplished more than has ever been accomplished before in the efforts to stop this kind of 'graft.'"

Similar statements were made by Magistrates Barlow, Breen, and Harris. Under the new order, cases go directly to the District Attorney's office, and not through the Magistrates' courts.

District Attorney Clarke of Brooklyn said he would do all in his power to carry out the Mayor's suggestions. To do so he did not think he would have to add to his force of assistants.

District Attorney De Witt of Queens said:

"Mayor Gaynor's plan will do away with discrimination in the matter of the excise enforcement. If the police do their duty and file affidavits of violations with the District Attorney, the custom of arresting and closing up a liquor dealer on one corner and allowing his competitor on the opposite corner to run almost wide open, will be wiped out. The excise law is clearly a State law, and if the police are to go after violators, they should do it as the State officers do."

Charles A. Schieren, who was Mayor of Brooklyn before consolidation, and is regarded as a representative German-American, said last night that he had tried such a plan as was now proposed when Mayor of Brooklyn. He said he instructed his Police Commissioner, Leonard R. Welles, not to allow the policemen to enter saloons in mere excise cases, but simply to see that there was no disturbance. This action, he recalled, caused much talk, but when it was seen that Sundays were free from disorder every one, even the ministers, seemed to be satisfid.

CLEMENT CORDIALLY APPROVES.

State Excise Commissioner Commends The Mayor's Letter and His Plan.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 30.—Maynard N. Clement, State Excise Commissioner, commenting on the letter which Mayor Gaynor sent to Police Commissioner Baker, in reference to the enforcement of the excise law, said to-day that the Mayor's statement was a defense of the law from demagogic attacks.

"I am particularly gratified with some of the Mayor's statements," Mr. Clement said. "For instance, in speaking of the methods of plain clothes men, which have resulted in extortion of money from proprietors of hotels and saloons rather than in the enforcement of the law, he says: 'The provisions of the liquor tax law were carefully drawn to prevent all of this, and they have been followed all over the State, outside of this city, and they have resulted in the reduction of extortion to the minimum and a safe, orderly, and effective administration of the liquor tax law.'

"This is a solar plexus blow to the demagogues and critics who have been persistently clamoring that every existing excise evil and abuse was due to defects in the law itself instead of being a result of a disregard of law by local officers, as is clearly pointed out in the Mayor's letter.

"I have always contended that the liquor law, if decently enforced in accordance with a reasonable interpretation of its provisions, was adequate to correct all serious abuses that exist, and that the amendments most needed were in interpretation of the law and in the conduct of the officers charged with its enforcement.

"What Mayor Gaynor says with regard to the removal of screens and curtains from the windows of saloons during the prohibited hours will do more, if followed out by the police of the city—as I have no doubt it will be so long as he is Mayor—to minimize excise violations and abuses by local police officers than all that has been previously attempted by them. This supervision can be performed without entering the place or without creating any opportunity for extortion or misuse of his power by a police officer.

"I am impressed from Judge Gaynor's letter that the policy outlined by him for the control and direction of the police, supplemented by the work of this department will result in vastly improved excise conditions in the city in the interest of order and decency, and will tend to promote the best interests of every citizen engaged in the liquor traffic in New York."

Frequent efforts have been made through legislative bills by organizations in New York City to make the enforcement of the law more effective.

Tariff Arrangements Now Practically Completed Include 130 Nations.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The proclamations of the President granting the minimum rates of tariff under the Payne-Aldrich act to Canada, Australia, and a number of countries less important commercially, signed to-day, together with those which will be signed to-morrow, completes the extension of the country's minimum rates to the whole world. About 130 nations and dependencies are included in the list.

The work involved in determining whether or not any of the nations included in this long list were discriminating in their tariffs against the products of the United States has occupied the attention of the tariff officers of the Government almost continuously since the passage of the tariff act last August. The tariff schedules of each one of these nations have been critically examined by tariff experts, and where doubt has existed the services of the diplomatic and consular officers of the United States were requisitioned.

A semi-official statement is made that from this time forward from 50 to 60 per cent. of the products of the United States will be admitted to foreign countries free of duty, and that of the products which pay a duty in foreign countries, 89 per cent. will be entitled to the minimum foreign rates; a larger proportion of these products hitherto have paid the minimum rates.

The President's proclamation to-day granted the minimum rate not only to Australia, but to New Zealand, British South Africa, Newfoundland, and Venezuela. Of these the most importan commercially is Australia.

The exports of the United States to that country during the calendar year 1908 amounted to more than $29,000,000, the leading items of which are machinery and manufactures of metal, $9,431,216; wood and manufactures, $5,179,508; mineral oils, $2771,279; tobacco and manufactures, $2,713,575.

The imports from Australia during 1908 aggregated nearly $12,000,000. Among the more important articles are wood, unmanufactured, $4,178,539; copper, manufactured, $3,779,841, and coal, $1,497,617.

New Zealand imported from the United States during the calendar year of 1908 products valued at $8,000,000, and her exports to the United States amounted to $1,589,000.

During the same year the United States exported to British South Africa products valued at $9,775,000, and imported from that country products valued at $1,014,000.

The otal trade of Newfoundland with the United States in 1908 amounted to $5,$39,295, of which $3,861,188 was imported from the United States and $1,178,107 was imported to the United States.

SHACKLETON COMES TO PEARY'S DEFENSE

PUZZLED BY SENATOR DEPEW

Luncheon Guests Mystified by Toastmaster's Comparison of Marco Polo and "Our Friend Here."

Sir Ernest H. Shackleton came out yesterday at a dinner given to him and Lady Shackleton at the Transportation Club in its rooms at the Hotel Manhattan in defense of Commander Peary from the criticisms passed on him. Speaking as one who had had experience of the strain of polar travel, he defended his American colleague from the charge of two free speech.

In the course of his address, the Chairman of the evening, Senator Chauncey M. Depew, spoke of the way in which one of his women relatives had summed up the Cook-Peary controversy. She was an ardent defender of Dr. Cook, and after Copenhagen had spoken the final word against him she said to the Senator:

"Well, Cook is a liar and a gentleman, and Peary is neither."

Sir Ernest, after acknowledging the great achievements of Peary, said:

"I have carefully avoided any controversy on this matter, but I would like to say that there is hard work to do in the polar regions, and if the speech there is more forcible than in the ordinary occupations on the street it is breathing the keen air of the north that does it. It is not made for speech such as one would use in expressing thanks for a dance invitation one could not accept.

"Whatever we may think, we should keep it in our thoughts and should not speak of it now."

Lady Shackleton and Miss Eleanor Shackleton, the explorer's sister, were seated at the head of the centre table just in front of that reserved for the speakers, and before them was a representation of the Nimrod done in confectionery. Near it was a magnificent igloo fashioned in ice. Their presenec called forth many allusions, and Senator Depew declared that it was Lady Shackleton who had inspired her husband with the courage to perform his exploits. Then he spoke of Herodotus and continued:

"Marco Polo was just the same sort of man as our friend here, and he lived in the memory of man for 300 years as the most phenomenal liar in the world."

The audience tittered and Sir Ernest gazed in wonder at the speaker, but he kept right on and said:

"Now we find Marco Polo really did the things he said he did and any ordinary fellow can do what he accomplished. The distinction about Shackleton is that any ordinary fellow can't do what he did. Peary going to the north pole and solving the mystery of that and Shackleton going near the south pole and solving that mystery has demonstrated what we all know, that the world doesn't amount to much outside of us."

Speaking of the advantage of polar explorations, the Senator said that they are incalculable to science, and so to navigation, and thus to commerce, and that they keep alive in the youth of the people the spirit which animated the crusades, without which there can be no National safety or glory.

Richard Wightman was called on to read an original poem, "The Quest," which he had composed in honor of the occasion. Here is part of it:

This man, this son of reasoned discontent—
  The flame of conquering within his breast—
What recks he of the city's paven lanes,
  Of feasting, or of cushioned ease and rest?
For him naught but the long and rugged way,
  The memoried kiss of her who could not go,
The ceaseless stare of cold antarctic suns,
  The fearful marches through eternal snow;
The tug of hunger at his shrinking frame,
  No hearth-fire lending its warm meed of cheer,
Companioned oft by solitude and pain
  Amid the vigils of the awesome year.

In reply Sir Ernest remarked that it was fitting that he should speak to a transportation club.

"I have been engaged in a most difficult matter of transportation," he said "always excepting the transportation of luggage in your express companies. But that may be all right when experience has taught me how to use the checks you get for the luggage you want."

He said he recognized that he had failed of his goal, but that only left something more for some one else to do, and that neither he nor his companions would ever like to boast of success when they remember how near they had been to death.

"It sounds harder than it was," he continued. "I used to shiver as a boy at the thought of 50 degrees below zero, but when there is no wind blowing you really can't tell the difference between it and 30 below unless you look at the thermometer. We didn't look often, as it gave us an extra chill if we saw it was 50 below, and it's hard for mind to triumph over matter in the antarctic."

He looked forward, he said, to the time when the antarctic would blossom with flowers and fruits as it once did, and hoped that at that time America and Great Britain might still be alive to keep hold of what they could now call their own in the dark north and south regions.

After the dinner Sir Ernest took the train for Boston.

TOUCHED BY TRIBUTE TO FLAG.

Sir Ernest Shackleton Tells of His Gratitude to Carnegie Hall Hearers.

Sir Ernest H. Shackleton was the guest of honor at a small luncheon yesterday afternoon at Sherry's, given by Henry Clews. Commander Robert E. Peary was also a guest.

Although there was no formal speechmaking and no toastmaster, Sir Ernest, after the luncheon, spoke briefly, telling of his appreciation of the courtesies extended to him.

"One of the guests present asked me," he said, "what I thought of New York. Of course I had been in New York nine years ago, but for only a two days' stay, and when I came up the Bay I was astounded at the changes of its sky line, by the addition of so many tall buildings, and its activity and energy. I consider it, without exception, the most wonderful city in the world. America, in spite of shortcomings incident to the necessary growth of a new country, I consider the land of opportunity.

"I was unspeakably touched, and as an Englishman, felt grateful toward the audience last night in Carnegie Hall, when, at the sight of the picture of the British flag nailed to its standard and placed by our party at the furthermost point to which we were able to penetrate toward the south pole, they arose en masse and cheered as loudly as though it were the American flag which had been nailed there. It was a touching sight, and I wish every Englishman could have seen it."

CAB FOR THE POLICEMAN.

Gaynor Investigation Discloses the Luxury of Tenderloin Patrolling.

Charges were preferred yesterday by Police Commissioner Baker against Policeman Daniel O'Connell of the East Thirty-fifth Street Station, the latest victim of the new watchword in the department, "Gaynor will get you if you don't watch out."

O'Connell is accused of being off his post repeatedly while on duty and of spending too much time in a livery stable in East Thirteenth Street. The manner in which he was finally trapped was exciting.

On March 25 the Mayor wrote to the Commissioner a letter, in which he said in part: "Will you be so good as to ascertain in the most careful manner if policemen are not in the habit of spending their time in the harness room of a livery stable on Thirteenth Street, between Madison and Park Avenues, at night, between the hours of 10 P. M. and 1 or 2 A. M.? I think the name of the place is Lederer & Ryerson's."

Lieut. Himmell of Headquarters was assigned by the Commissioner to investigate. Last Saturday night he reported that between 10 o'clock and midnight he could find no policeman between Twenty-seventh and Thirty-fourth Streets. He then went to the stable mentioned. Shortly after midnight a cab drove hastily out and turned north, on Madison Avenue. Himmell followed.

The cab went as far as Thirty-third Street, then doubled back to Thirty-first Street. There it stopped, and out came O'Connell.

to give up, and then he must add to his name on the report "on order," or words to that effect.

Accounts of Employes Forbidden.

The provision dealing with the acceptance of business from employes appeared first on the list of resolutions and the Street was somewhat at a loss to account for it in the light of known events. It says:

> Resolved, That the taking or carrying of a speculative account, or the making of a speculative transaction, in which a clerk of the Exchange, or of a member of the Exchange, or of a bank, trust company, banker, or insurance company, is directly or indirectly interested, unless the written consent of the employer has been first obtained, shall be deemed an act detrimental to the interest and welfare of the Exchange.
> Resolved, That the resolutions adopted by the Governing Committee on June 23, 1897, and Dec. 14, 1904, in the matter of dealing for employes of members, and on Dec. 21, 1903, in the matter of dealing for employes of the Exchange, be rescinded.
> Resolved, That every member of the Exchange be required to use due diligence to learn the essential facts relating to every account accepted by himself or by his clerks or representatives, and also relating to the possible use of a name for the account other than that of the party interested.

There has been no recent scandal growing out of operations in the stock market here by clerks of banks or insurance companies, and the prohibition against accepting business from brokers' employes was already pretty comprehensive

UPSET FOR MACHINE IN THE ASSEMBLY

Unlooked-for Insurgent Strength Defeats Regulars on Measure to Punish Insurance Culprits.

REVOLT WORRIES LEADERS

With Senate Disorganized, Wadsworth Was Looked To to Check Hughes's Housecleaning Measures.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 30.—Gov. Hughes to-day issued a proclamation ordering a special election in the Thirty-seventh Senatorial District, composed of the Counties of Otsego, Madison, and Chenango, to fill the seat rendered vacant yesterday by the resignation of Jotham P. Allds just prior to the decision of the Senate that he was guilty of accepting a $1,000 bribe to influence his official actions as floor leader of the Assembly in 1901. Under the proclamation, his successor is to be elected on April 28.

It was not good news to the legislative leaders affiliated with the Republican machine. They realize that a man pledged to the Hughes programme of housecleaning and reform will be elected to succeed the dethroned Allds. It was reported at the Capitol to-day that Assemblyman Stephen C. Clark of Cooperstown, a stepson of the late Bishop Potter, would be a candidate for the vacant seat. Mr. Clark is independently rich. He owns a newspaper which consistently has supported Gov. Hughes, and he was elected to the Assembly on the direct primary and other Hughes issues. According to reports that reached the Capitol from Norwich, Chenango County may have a candidate in Nelson P. Bonney, a lawyer who was associated with James W. Osborne in the prosecution of the bribery charge against Mr. Allds.

Machine Rule Crumbling.

The apparent crumbling of machine rule in both branches of the Legislature is the most conspicuous feature at the Capitol now that the friends of reform have won their first conspicuous victory through the ousting of Allds. In the Assembly, where the machine element in the Republican organization expected to make its last stand against the reforms advocated by Gov. Hughes and against his insistent demand for a broader investigation and a thorough house cleaning, there appeared to-day unmistakable evidence of an incipient insurgent movement which in time may prove a powerful ally to the small but determined group of Senators who are preparing to take up the fight for the Hughes programme in the upper house. This unexpected manifestation of insurgent strength in the lower house came this forenoon when Assemblyman Peter Donovan of New York moved to suspend the rules to permit the introduction of a concurrent resolution directing the Attorney General to begin action against those implicated in the wrongdoing brought to light through the Hotchkiss investigation of the fire insurance concerns.

Majority Leader Merritt was in the chair when the motion was made. Jesse Phillips of Allegany, one of the most powerful members of the Wadsworth machine, acted as floor leader. He fought hard to lead the Republican majority against the Donovan resolution, but went down to defeat by a vote of 98 to 18 after some of the independent Republicans in the lower house had taken a hand in the fight against the machine. Donovan is not a Republican, but a member of the Independence League.

Fear for Wadsworth's Power.

The first rumblings of discontent against the iron rule of Wadsworth in the Assembly has aroused uneasiness in certain quarters at the Capitol, where it was hoped that the Speaker's firm grip on the machine would avail to prevent the passage of any of the concurrent resolutions now pending which provide for a broader investigation of legislative corruption.

In the Senate all organized opposition to Gov. Hughes seems to have vanished. The passage of a resolution providing for a further investigation to follow up the trails of corruption laid bare by the Allds's trial and the Hotchkiss investigation of the fire insurance concerns is practically assured. The way practically was cleared there to-day for the passage of a concurrent resolution having that object in view.

There are two such resolutions pending before the Senate Finance Committee. One, introduced by Senator J. Mayhew Wainwright of Westchester, provides for an investigating committee to be appointed by the Lieutenant Governor as President of the Senate and Speaker Wadsworth as presiding officer of the Assembly. There is another resolution, which bears the name of Senator Josiah T. Newcomb of New York. This provides for an investigation by a joint legislative committee, but takes the power of appointment away from the Lieutenant Governor and the Speaker by naming the members in the resolution itself.

Compromise Investigation Measure.

Senator Hill, of Erie, Chairman of the Senate Finance Committee, said to-day that the committee would take up the subject of a further investigation of Legislative corruption at its meeting next Tuesday. It is not believed that either the Wainwright or the Newcomb resolution will be reported, but that the committee will draft a compromise measure which Senator Hill to-day said he thought would be acceptable to all.

It was learned to-day that Senator Hill, Majority Leader Cobb of the Senate, and the other leading members of the Senate majority, have in view a resolution which will provide for an investigation to be conducted in the Summer months, and with the scope limited so as to exclude the investigation of mere corridor gossip or reports reflecting on the memory of dead men and confining the inquiry to charges which are accompanied by substantiation in the form of sworn evidence.

Speaker Wadsworth, when he learned of the Senate plan, indicated that he might modify the attitude he recently assumed when he called on the Republicans to defeat any resolution providing for further investigation unless it was based on definite charges against some member of the present Legislature.

Expulsion of Conger Discussed.

Discussion on the proposed expulsion of Senator Benn Conger of Tompkins was one of the features of the Senate developments to-day. After a lively debate behind closed doors in the Senate Judiciary Committee over the Cobb resolution which provides for the appointment of a committee to formulate charges against Conger, it was decided that Senator Conger should have a hearing by the committee before further action was taken on the resolution. Mr. Conger asked to be heard. The committee fixed the hearing for 10 o'clock Tuesday forenoon.

Many of the Senators on the committee, among them Mr. Meade of Rochester, who is a close personal friend of the dethroned Allds, held that Conger should be expelled summarily on the strength of his own admissions on the stand. Senator Hinman of Broome maintained that Conger was entitled to some consideration on account of the service he had performed for the State and for the Senate. This is the view taken by many Senators, and any attempt to eject Conger without due deliberation will result in a spirited fight.

ALLDS CASE NOT MENTIONED.

But Senator Cobb at a Dinner Says Good Will Come from Present Turmoil

AMSTERDAM, N. Y., March 30.—Speaking at the annual dinner of the Masonic District Association of Montgomery County here to-night, Senator George H. Cobb, the new President pro tem. of the State Senate, devoted himself to what he called a "discussion of those questions which are uppermost in the public mind." He predicted that out of the turmoil that now exists much good ultimately will come.

Senator Cobb said that it was his purpose to see that the Legislature enacts laws that will redound to the honor, credit and benefit of the people of the State. There will be no effort on his part, the speaker said, to shield those who have been faithless to any trust. He sounded a warning that in a time of excitement like this care and caution should be exercised to proceed along sane lines.

He did not refer to the Allds investigation.

MELODY
The Soul of Music

The Hardman Autotone

The Piano all can play by hand or perforated Music Roll.

Mme. EMMY DESTINN, The Great Soprano of the Metropolitan Opera Co., uses the Autotone exclusively in her home.

"TO know the melody of a composition is of greater importance than to know the correct tempo," says Mr. Krehbiel, the famous musical critic of the New York Tribune.

With the Autotone, and with the Autotone alone, you get the fullest value of our patented Melody-Marked Music Rolls,—the only music roll in existence which enables an untrained music-lover to distinguish at a glance, as the roll passes through the instrument, the melody perforations from those which carry the accompaniment.

Thus, with the aid of the "Accentor" in the instrument, you are enabled to accent the melody (because you can see it)—supply the human touch—your touch,—giving to every composition your own personal expression and emphasis.

You have musical expression,—every one has.

The Autotone and the Melody-Marked Music Rolls will enable you to produce this expression in a manner not possible on any other player-piano.

No other player contains anything that approaches the perfection of the Accentor,—and no other music roll shows the melody.

And even with a player-piano possessing some means of bringing out the melody, how are you to do it when you have no means of knowing which of the perforations carry the melody?

Emmy Destinn, that world-renowned soprano and distinguished musician, sums it up in a phrase, when in a letter to the makers of the Autotone she writes: "The Melody-Marked Music Roll is to the user of a player-piano like light to the blind."

The Autotone's Special Features:—

The ACCENTOR supplies the "human touch" and the ability to personally accent the melody.

The TRANSPOSER enables one to transpose any composition into different keys.

The ADJUSTOR exactly adjusts the Music Roll.

The SELECTOR silently picks out such parts of a composition as you desire to play.

"MELODY-MARKED" MUSIC ROLLS, the only Music Rolls so marked as to show just which perforations carry the melody.

The COMBINATION TRACKER-BOARD, an exclusive device by which both 88 note and 65 note music rolls can be played in the same instrument.

The PEDAL GUIDE—An automatic guide to the correct use of the loud Pedal operated directly from the music rolls.

RAILROAD PUTS UP RATES TO PAY WAGES

FREIGHT IS NOT AFFECTED

Increase Mainly on Branch Lines, Road Explains, Where Traffic Doesn't Pay —Ten Cents More to Boston.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company has filed with the Inter-State Commerce Commission schedules of increases in its passenger rates. These advances are due to the increases in wages made recently to the company's employes, it is explained.

The new rates will become effective May 1. The increases in fares range from 2 to 5 per cent., but from an examination of the tariffs filed with the commission it appears that only those fares which now average more than $1 have been increased. The fares for the short hauls, which average from twenty to thirty miles, have not been altered.

These are some examples of the increases:

Boston to New London increased from $2.15 to $2.20; New Haven to New London increased from $1 to $1.05; Worcester, Mass., to New London, increased from $2.15 to $2.20; Boston to Willimantic increased from $1.75 to $1.80.

The new tariffs were received and filed to-day. They cancel and supersede the local tariffs which have been effective since May 30, 1907. The new rates cover the road's lines from Boston to New Haven, Willimantic, Conn., and Poughkeepsie, N. Y.; New Haven and Providence, R. I.; Worcester, Mass., and New London, Conn., and Boston and Willimantic.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 30.—The fact that the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company has filed schedules of proposed increases in passenger fares over its system was confirmed here to-day. It is stated, however, that the company has not departed from its policy of a 2-cent-a-mile rate, but has sought to equalize rates on some of the subordinate lines, leaving the present rates on the main line practically unchanged. The new rate between Boston and New York, it is understood, will be $4.75, whereas the fare at present is $4.65.

The increase will chiefly affect the branch lines, where the volume of travel has not been sufficient after a long period of experiment to meet the expense of operation of these branches. The experiment has proved, it is understood, that the main lines of the company have been carrying the greater part of the burden of operation.

In the negotiations between the officers of the company and the representatives of the unions on the matter of increased compensation—resulting in a settlement Monday entailing half a million dollars' additional outlay yearly in operating expenses—the company's officials pointed out that while bringing down the rate of mileage to a two-cent basis in 1906 and maintaining it throughout the industrial depression of 1908 there was no cut in wages at that time. The company now has the proposition of increased operating expenses before it.

The company has considered a plan of increasing freight rates, but examination has shown that in general the great volume of local freight business is carrying already as high rates as the traffic can bear, while there are complications of a more general character which would prevent any increase of through rates at this time.

Some of the larger branch line earners of the New Haven system will not be brought into the passenger increased rate, and in general its application will be made to those branches upon which passenger traffic is thinnest.

READING ALSO RAISES WAGES.

Increase on That System and Pennsylvania Affects 232,000 Men.

PHILADELPHIA, Penn., March 30.—Following the lead of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, which has just given a 6 per cent. wage increase to 195,000 employes on all railroads connected with its vast system east and west of Pittsburg, came an announcement from the office of the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company late this afternoon of a similar advance in wages to its men.

Like that of the Pennsylvania the Reading's increase affects all employes who receive less than $300 a month. The Reading's advance, however, does not include those employed whose wages have been adjusted within the last ninety days. From time to time, during the last three months the Reading has adjusted wages of certain classes of trainmen and other employes. Including these the increase announced to-day effects about 37,000 employes.

The general prosperous condition of the railroads and the high cost of living are given as the reasons for the increase announced by both companies.

The Pennsylvania's increase, which, as already stated, affects 195,000 men and involves an addition of about $10,000,000 to the pay rolls of the companies, is the third general voluntary increase in wages granted by the Pennsylvania in the last eight years. The total of these advances is 28.26 per cent.

The Pennsylvania company, in a statement on the wage increase to-day, says: "The cost of living has shown a large increase when comparison is made between 1910 and 1908, when the prices of the necessities of life were depressed due to the panic."

The total payroll in 1909 for the lines participating in the wage increase was $131,823,937, the lines affected being the Pennsylvania Railroad, lines east; Cumberland Valley Railroad; Pennsylvania Railroad lines west; Vandalia Railroad, Grand Rapids & Indiana Railway, and the New York, Philadelphia & Norfolk Railroad.

The Pennsylvania Railroad's statement also says:

"While to the Pennsylvania the cost of labor has increased about 33 per cent. over what it was eight years ago, the increase in the cost of material has been far more marked, some supplies costing to-day as high as 60 and 70 per cent. more than in 1902. So far this combined increase in the railroad's 'cost of living' has been met to a large degree by increasing the efficiency of operation and without the railroad making increases in the cost of transportation."

PITTSBURG, March 30.—Red fire was touched off all along the way as reports spread among employes of the Pennsylvania Railroad during the night of the 6 per cent. increase in their wages. The advance was announced so unostentatiously yesterday by routine notices in the railroad offices that it took time for the men to realize their good fortune.

N. & W. TELEGRAPHERS GAIN.

Agree with Road to Accept 5 Per Cent. Wage Increase.

ROANOKE, Va., March 30.—The Norfolk & Western Railway and its telegraph operators reached an agreement to-day on a new wage scale. The telegraphers asked for a 10 per cent. advance, but finally agreed to accept an increase of 5 per cent.

The railroad officials and representatives of the road's locomotive firemen are holding conferences to reach an agreement on a wage scale.

FREIGHT RATES UP NEXT.

Western Railways Must Raise More Money, Says Official.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., March 30.—An advance on many of the comodity carload freight rates between Chicago and the Missouri River and St. Paul is contemplated by the Western railroads as the next move in a general campaign for increasing their revenues to offset the advances in wages to employes and the increased costs of operation in all departments.

Rate clerks of the Western Trunk Line Association have been checking over the tariffs for several weeks for the purpose of demonstrating which rates may be deemed most susceptible of advancement.

"There are some rates so low that they are indecent, and the railroads have got to raise more money some way," said one of the Western traffic officials, "but the rates that cannot be raised so far outnumber the rates that might be raised that the best we can do is going to be disappointing."

CONSIDERING WAGE DEMANDS.

Delaware & Hudson Reply To-morrow —Lackawanna Conference Monday.

The reply of the Delaware & Hudson Company to the demands of its trainmen and conductors for higher wages will be made to-morrow at Albany. This reply will be final, and if it is a refusal, the employes will take a strike vote.

On Monday conferences will begin at Scranton, Penn., of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western Company and the Grievance Committees of its trainmen and conductors.

Regarding the voluntary increase in wages to the men on the Pennsylvania system, A. B. Garretson, Grand Master of the Order of Railroad Conductors, said last evening:

"The Pennsylvania Railroad has been trying for some time to get to the men to break away and make agreements under its staff rules. The company will not succeed in getting a method of dealing with the men different from the way the other roads have. The men will be instructed to take this increase as an installment of what they want."

He said that the voluntary advance made by the Pennsylvania would make it easier to come to terms with the other roads, especially the New York Central.

UNION SUING EMPLOYERS.

Judge Reserves Decision in a Motion to Dismiss $150,000 Suit.

Supreme Court Justice Greenbaum reserved decision yesterday on a motion to dismiss the complaint in the $150,000 suit brought by the New York Electrical Workers' Union against individual members of the Electrical Contractors' Association on the ground that the matter had already been adjudicated.

The union had previously brought suit in equity to compel members of the Building Trades Employers' Association and its subsidiary bodies to carry out an alleged agreement with the union. This suit the union lost.

Among the allegations of counsel for the union was that it had been reduced from a membership of 1,500 in 1907 to a mere shell at the present time by the formation by the employers of the Inside Electrical Workers' Union, and their threat to employ none who did not belong to the new union.

MANY COTTON MILLS IDLE.

Statistics Show Most Extensive Curtailment Since Panic of 1907.

BOSTON, March 30.—Fifty per cent. of the spindles in Southern cotton mills are idle, according to statistics which have been assembled by The American Wool and Cotton Reporter. The figures show that the curtailment, not only in the South but in all sections of the country, is more extensive and drastic than ever before has been known in the history of the trade, even taking into consideration the panic year of 1907.

The greatest curtailment is among the yarn mills, although restriction of production among the weaving mills also is greater than ever before. Mill after mill is closing down entirely until new cotton arrives or market conditions improve.

These are the percentages of spindles idle by States:

Alabama, 36 per cent.; South Carolina, 31; North Carolina and Georgia, 30; Tennessee, 80; Virginia, 60; Mississippi, 63.

Figures for the New England States have not been compiled yet.

To Report on Blacklisting Complaint.

The Grand Jury, recently charged by Judge Rosalsky that it was their bounden duty to find an indictment against the Building Trades Employers' Association for blacklisting the members of the Steamfitters' Union, will report in his part of General Sessions to-day. There is much interest to seew how far the Grand Jurors have followed the Court's instructions.

CHANLER TO AID SUFFRAGISTS

Will Move Reconsideration by Committee of Its Adverse Action.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 30.—Late to-night ex-Lieut. Gov. Lewis Stuyvesant Chanler, now a Democratic Assemblyman from Dutchess County and a member of the Assembly Judiciary Committee, said he would make an attempt to rescue from defeat the Hill-Toombs constitutional amendment giving women the ballot, by striking out the word "male" in Article 2 of the Constitution, where the qualification of voters is defined. The committee, at a meeting earlier to-day, decreed that the proposed amendment should die in committee as it has in former years.

Mr. Chanler said he would move to reconsider the vote by which the suffrage amendment was held in committee. While there is no hope that it will be passed, even if reported, the advocates of woman's suffrage who have conducted such an active campaign at the Capitol this year are anxious that there should be a report and a debate in the open, largely for the moral effect this would have throughout the country.

In the Senate the Hill-Toombs amendment is still before the Judiciary Committee, where as yet it has received no consideration.

CLERGY URGE LOCAL OPTION.

Brewers at Same Time Tell Legislative Committees It Encourages Vice.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 30.—Delegations of ministers and representatives of reform associations to-day urged the Senate Committee on Taxation and the Assembly Excise Committee to pass the local option bill for cities which Senator Brackett and Assemblyman Gray introduced about six weeks ago. The measure provides for an extension to cities of the local option provisions of the excise law which now affect the towns. The bill was opposed vigorously by the State Brewers' Association.

Dr. R. S. MacArthur of Calvary Church of New York declared in a speech favoring the local option bill that there must be a higher standard in politics. The action of the Senate in sustaining the charge against Senator Allds, Dr. MacArthur said, was an indication that the standard of politics was rising to a higher level.

The Rev. J. Holthusen of Brooklyn urged that there was no need of so many saloons as there are at present. William Forster, representing the brewers, said there was a strong opposition in the cities to the bill. He argued that local option encouraged vice.

STEAMSHIP POOL TO BE SUED AS TRUST

Department of Justice Will Bring Action in Equity Under the Sherman Law.

TAKING REBATES CHARGED

Grand Jury Investigation Said to Have Disclosed Many Ramifications—Remedy Would Be by Injunction.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Suit in equity under the Sherman anti-trust law is to be instituted by the Department of Justice against what is known as the European Steamship Pool, on the contention that it is an arrangement in restraint of trade. The fact that the vessels owned by the steamship companies forming the pool, or a number of them, touch at American ports, is the basis for proceedings against them under the Sherman law, as that enactment gives the Government jurisdiction to punish violations of law affecting both inter-State and foreign commerce. All the steamship companies involved in the proposed proceedings are foreign organizations.

The matter has been under investigation by the Federal Grand Jury in New York for a long time, and it is expected that the suit will be instituted in that city, the American headquarters of most of the steamship lines involved in the pool. United States District Attorney Henry A. Wise, who has been conducting the inquiries on behalf of the Government, will probably direct the suit.

The Grand Jury's investigation, it is said, developed the fact that the pooling arrangement embraced the transportation of both passengers and freight. On the American side of the Atlantic, it was charged, the agreement had its ramifications in the shape of rebating by railroad companies. Because of the peculiar conditions involved, the Government was put to considerable trouble in obtaining information on which to base a charge.

The investigation is said to have developed a case embracing the immigration traffic from every country in Europe. The operations of the pool also, it was charged, seriously interfered with the business of American steamers lying at American ports, awaiting cargoes, the foreigners underbidding them and getting the traffic.

What seemed at first to be a case of limited scope developed as the investigation proceeded into one having many ramifications. In some respects, it is said, the issue has a counterpart in the American Tobacco Trust cases, in which several foreign countries were involved.

While the Government cannot bring suit to dissolve a foreign corporation, it may institute proceedings affecting its operations as practiced on American territory, and if it is found guilty of violating the provisions of the Sherman law, the Government can obtain an injunction to stop such illegal acts.

The heads of the various foreign Atlantic steamship companies in this city declined to make any statement last night regarding the action contemplated by the United States Government. They admitted that they were aware of the investigations made by United States District Attorney Wise and the Federal Grand Jury, but did not believe they would amount to much.

The passenger rates for all classes are fixed yearly by the Atlantic Conference, the name by which the pool is known, at meetings held in London or Paris. All disputes among the steamship companies are brought before the conference and discussed.

The agreement between the companies was first made in 1894 and continued in force till 1904, when a rate war was started which lasted six months. This was said to have been caused by disputes with the German steamship lines over the contract given by the Austro-Hungarian Government to the Cunard Line for carrying emigrants from Fiume to the United States. In the rate war which ensued steerage rates were cut to $10 and first cabin rates to $50.

In the Spring of 1905 the lines came to an agreement, and a new schedule was drawn up for the various lines after they had lost millions of dollars fighting each other. The rates were increased to make up for this. In January, 1907, the Cunard Line issued a three months' notice to the other steamship lines that it would withdraw from the conference when the notice expired.

The Lusitania came out in June and the rates for the cabin were cut to $72 on her and $50 on the slower ships. The Italian lines cut the steerage rate again to $10. The war lasted until Feb. 7, 1908, when the present agreement was formed at much higher rates.

Formerly there was a reduced rate in the Winter and 10 per cent. reduction on return ticket. These conditions were eliminated and a fixed flat rate all the year around was introduced. Since that time the steerage and second cabin rates have been increased from time to time at the annual meetings, and at the last meeting in January they were increased $2.50. The companies declared that the expense of keeping immigrants at Ellis Island and sending home the sick and deported had grown to such an extent that it had to be met.

The International Mercantile Marine Navigation Company of 9 Broadway, known as the Shipping Trust, operates the White Star, Leyland, American, Red Star, and Atlantic Transport Lines out of this port. The Cunard, North German Lloyd, Hamburg-American, and French Lines work independently, but they are all in the conference.

There has been no fixed agreement on freight rates across the Atlantic as the large number of tramp steamships in the business has made it difficult to form a combination.

THE TRUSTEES IN BANKRUPTCY

Mr. John C. Van Cleef, Vice-President National Park Bank; Mr. Uzal H. McCarter, President Fidelity Trust Company of Newark, and Mr. August Oppenheimer of Oppenheimer Bros. & Veith, have ordered sold the stock of Chester Billings & Son to Bruhl Bros. & Henius.

The Bankrupt Stock of CHESTER BILLINGS & SON

Formerly Randel, Baremore & Billings, New York's Oldest Jewelers.

At 1-3 Less than Chester Billings & Son's Prices

This is unquestionably the greatest authentic sale of jewelry both in magnitude and real value known in the history of the city.

The offering consists of an immense collection of magnificent Pearl and Diamond Necklaces, Collars, Brooches, Pendants, and a host of other pieces, set with Diamonds, Pearls, Emeralds, Sapphires, Rubies, and other precious stones of unusually fine quality, at two-thirds the prices asked for the identical pieces in the same store less than a month ago.

In addition there is a great assortment of Gold and Silver pieces, Bronzes and Watches—practically everything of thoroughly dependable quality that one can conceive—and all articles are offered at the uniform reduced price of one-third.

Thinking people will naturally want to know why such unusual values are being advertised. The facts follow: In February Chester Billings & Son, after a half century's successful career, failed; the Trustees in Bankruptcy decided to dispose of the stock in order that settlements might be made with the creditors and with those banking establishments that held the very flower of the concern's precious pieces as collateral for loans, and accordingly it was ordered sold to Bruhl Bros. & Henius, wholesale merchants in precious gems. Now it is being offered to the public at the price-sacrifice which forced selling compels.

In view of the foregoing, if there is anything in the way of very exclusive or decidedly inexpensive jewelry of high character that you require for immediate or later use you really owe it to yourself to inspect this stock. And you should do so now, as near immediately as possible, while the exhibit is complete and the range of things to choose from is at its greatest.

33⅓% Less Than Billings Prices

WOLTER INDICTED IN HALF AN HOUR

Grand Jury Takes Little Time to Charge Him with Wheeler Girl's Murder.

HE WILL PLEAD TO-DAY

Case Has Been Put on the Preferred Calendar and Will Be Tried a Week from Monday.

In their programme to eliminate every delay not absolutely required to insure a fair and full trial to Albert Wolter on the charge of strangling Ruth Wheeler and burning and dismembering her body, the police and District Attorney Whitman yesterday were joined by Judge Mulqueen and Foreman John Haydock of the Grand Jury.

It required just thirty-three minutes for the jurors to hear all the evidence they thought necessary on which to bring in an indictment against Wolter for first degree murder, and when Foreman Haydock handed in his list of true bills he handed this one in at the top of the list.

Judge Mulqueen immediately read the indictment and named to-day at 10 o'clock as the time for Wolter to plead.

Wolter's lawyer, Wallace D. Scott, has already promised that his client will plead not guilty, and that as counsel he will exert himself to the limit to prevent what he calls "legal butchery" in the form of an unduly accelerated trial. His first fight will be to block the programme which yesterday resulted in Wolter's being held by the Coroner at 11 o'clock, the completion of the case before the Grand Jury at 11:30, and the returning of an indictment at 1 o'clock.

District Attorney Whitman was much pleased last night with the progress of the case so far. He said the impression was wrong that he was going to force a trial if possible next Monday.

"A week from Monday it will be different," he said. "Wolter's lawyer is entitled to a fair opportunity to prepare himself for trial, but we shall insist that he exert himself and use the week which we shall freely allow for that purpose.

"In some ways delay can be avoided without in the least prejudicing the case of the defendant or rushing him in an unseemly fashion through his trial. It is those delays only that we wish to avoid.

"He will receive a fair trial. There is no doubt about that, and we will overlook none of his rights, nor oppose the full granting of them. But even with every reasonable delay counted in, I cannot see that the trial should extend over thirty days. If he is convicted I would say that I expect to see him in Sing Sing by May 1, awaiting execution."

The present plan is to move on Monday that the case go to the preferred calendar, and then to urge that it be set for hearing a week from that date.

Indications this morning were that in the final trial the testimony of the prosecution would not take more than an hour to present. It is concrete in form, decisive as to character, and involves only half a dozen witnesses.

The witnesses for the prosecution, all of whom appeared before the Coroner and the Grand Jury yesterday morning, are Coroner's Physician O'Hanlon, the sisters of the dead girl, the Misses Adelaide and Pearl Wheeler; H. E. Estey, Principal of the Bankers and Merchants' Business College; John Taggart, who found the burned body on the fire escape of 222 East Seventy-fifth Street; Police Capt. Hughes, who directed the precinct detectives in unearthing the evidence; Detectives Devine and Hauser, and Katie Muller, Wolter's woman companion.

In telling her story to the Coroner Miss Adelaide Wheeler brought out one important new bit of evidence yesterday, which helps to clinch the identification of the body as that of her sister. Miss Wheeler was shown an exhibit in the case in the form of a piece of cloth found clinging to the neck of the burned body. She identified it as part of a collar which she herself had made for Miss Ruth, and said that she could bring into court another strip of the same piece of cloth from which it was taken.

In the indictment, which consists of the conventional two counts, no new evidence than that already published was taken into consideration, and one assertion of the police was ignored. This was the statement that Wolter's room smelled of kerosene when the police arrived on Saturday afternoon, and that it was a kerosene fire which burned the girl's body.

The indictment recites that Wolter tied a rope around Miss Wheeler's neck, strangled her with it and with both his hands, and then "by some means unknown" set fire to the body, from which "choking, suffocation, strangling, and burning" Ruth Wheeler died.

District Attorney Whitman said that he put little credence in the efforts being made to develop a "white slave feature" to the Wolter case, and that he would not follow up any evidence along that line so far produced. Another effort was made yesterday to have a girl from a downtown resort identify Wolter, but it failed. Having heard that those interested in having white slave identifications made, had told Mary Wiseman to pick out "the man in the light suit," Deputy Warden Hanley yesterday had only men in light suits selected to stand with Wolter.

In the progress of the case yesterday several persons interested in the case faced each other for the first time since the city was aroused by the news of the crime on Saturday. The Misses Adelaide and Pearl Wheeler sat in the Coroner's court room near Wolter, and both identified him. Katie Muller, who had not seen him since his arrest, stood up to identify him, but that was the only glance she turned in his direction in the hour that they sat in the same room. Wolter's father, who on Monday declared he was through with his son forever and did not even wish to see him again, called on him at the Tombs. He was admitted to the young man's cell at 2:40 o'clock and concluded his visit at 2:45.

Lawyer Scott, who accompanied him, said on coming out that it had to be proved yet that the body was really that of Ruth Wheeler, and that he was not prepared to admit that she was dead. He indicated that part of the defense will be to attack the identification of the body as that of the missing girl.

The police ridiculed this first indication of the character of the defense, which Lawyer Scott said was "perfect." They point to the Muller woman's testimony at the Coroner's inquest, in which she retold the story of finding Wolter painting the fireplace when she came home Thursday evening, and to the positive identification of the body made from the teeth, the necklace, and the bit of cloth on the shoulder, by two of the dead girl's sisters and two of the family's friends.

When Wolter comes before Judge Mulqueen to-day to plead to the indictment the District Attorney's office will be represented by Assistant District Attorneys Moss and Turnbull, who have been assigned permanently to the case.

BILL TO PROTECT GIRLS.

Albany Measure Requires an Investigation of Prospective Employers.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 30.—A bill to protect young girls in search of employment, suggested by the murder of Ruth Wheeler, was introduced to-day by Senator Gledhill of Brooklyn. The measure amends the labor law and prohibits any person or company conducting an employment agency, school, business college, or other institutions to suggest or direct that any girl under 18 years of age apply for employment until a thorough investigation of the character and reputation of the proposed employer has been made by such person or company.

The measure requires every such person or company to file with the police a daily report of the name and address of the prospective employer and the name of every girl for whom employment has been arranged, with the name and address of the employer. Violation of any provisions of the law is made a misdemeanor.

Reference to the murder of Ruth Wheeler was made to-day at a hearing before the Assembly Codes Committee on the White Slave bill introduced by Assemblyman Whitney of Saratoga.

"The kerosene-soaked body of Ruth Wheeler, found partly incinerated in New York a few days ago, cries not only to heaven but to Albany that some penalty commensurate with the enormity of the crime be speedily enacted," said George T. Lemmon, Field Secretary of the Law and Order Society.

George H. West of Saratoga, Secretary of the league, said that 65,000 daughters of American homes and 15,000 alien girls each year are victims of procurers. The Whitney bill makes procuring a felony and increases the maximum penalty from five to ten years' imprisonment.

Another bill imposes a more severe penalty on the crime of conducting a disorderly house. Among those who urged the committee to take favorable action was Mrs. Ella A. Boole, President of the Woman's Christian Temperance Association and a member of the Woman's Alliance League.

CLUBS HER ADMIRERS.

A Woman with Curious Notions Arrested on the Bowery.

Policeman Hiram Johnson of Traffic Squad C saw a middle-aged woman wielding a large club on passersby on the Bowery yesterday afternoon, and decided to investigate. As he approached the woman she said: "I love you, I love you," and tried to land upon the policeman's head with her club, as she had on the heads of several others.

Johnson succeeded in disarming her, but on finding that Samuel Jaffee, the latest victim of her clubbing mania, was suffering from lacerations of the scalp, he postponed taking her to the Eldridge Station House until he had sent in an ambulance call to Bellevue. The woman said she was Katie Duncan, 32 years old, of 551 Second Avenue, known as "Katie the Clubber."

She told Magistrate Harris, when arraigned in the Essex Market Court, that she had winning ways and that her admirers were so many that she had to tap them on the head with her "love rod" to get along through the crowds. The Magistrate decided that he would hold her until to-day to determine whether she should be sent to Bellevue for observation. On a similar charge she was committed to Bellevue on March 19, but it was decided that she was sane.

NEW APPEAL FOR MORSE.

His Sentence Said to Exceed Maximum Penalty and to be Illegal.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTA, Ga., March 30.—Martin W. Littleton, who reached here from New York this morning, was in conference this afternoon for two hours with Charles W. Morse at the Federal Prison, arranging final plans for resuming the fight to obtain the financier's freedom. To-morrow Littleton will go over the case with local counsel.

It is said that ex-Gov. Hoke Smith will be associated with Littleton. Application will be made in the United States court for a writ of habeas corpus in a few days. It will be urged that Morse's fifteen-year sentence is illegal, and that ten years is the maximum for the crime of which he was convicted. Morse was convicted on fifty-two counts, but he was sentenced on only one, and it will be held that the sentence exceeded the maximum and therefore is invalid.

Morse's attorneys will urge also that the jury was constantly in charge of employes of the District Attorney's office, to the injury of Morse. Federal Judge Newman of Atlanta will hear the application of Morse's attorneys.

WOULDN'T SETTLE DEATH SUIT

Father Insisted on a Jury Verdict for Son's Killing.

Antonio Maneri of 350 Seventh Avenue, whose eight-year-old son was killed by a Metropolitan street car, refused yesterday to accept a settlement in the Supreme Court, before Justice Hendrick. His lawyer, Michael O. Rani, advised him to accept an offer to settle for $1,250.

Maneri said he did not want money, but a jury verdict putting the responsibility for his boy's death on the company. A juror was withdrawn and the case made a mistrial. Maneri is administrator of his son's estate. An effort to remove him will now be made to effect a settlement.

Cigar Stump Starts a Blaze in Agateware Shop.

Fire, believed to have started from a lighted cigar stub thrown in the workshop, destroyed the four-story frame building containing the milling department of the Ironclad Manufacturing Co., makers of kitchen utensils and agateware, Williamsburg, early last night.

The 2,000 employes of the place had just left for the day when John Kenny, the watchman, making his rounds upon the third floor, was met by a gust of flame sweeping down from the floor above. He turned in an alarm, followed a few minutes by a second, third and fourth.

The firemen, guided through the dark alleys and wagon paths by Mrs. "Nellie Bly" Seaman, owner of the factory, succeeded in confining the blaze to the building in which it had started. This was completely destroyed at a loss of $30,000. Reserves from the Vernon Avenue, Stagg Street, Hamburg Avenue, Herbert Street, and Clymer Street stations kept back a crowd of more than 15,000 homeward-bound workers that gathered to watch the blaze.

WATSON BITTERLY ATTACKS HAFFEN

HAFFEN SAYS HE'LL STICK

Withdraws Refusal to Serve on Condemnation Board and Defies the Corporation Counsel.

Angry over an attack of Corporation Counsel Watson, who in a letter to Supreme Court Justice Davis yesterday characterized as an "ineradicable stain" his appointment as a Commissioner of Estimate and Appraisal in condemnation proceedings in the Bronx, ex-Borough President Louis F. Haffen announced through his lawyer last night that he would accept the office, although he had telephoned to the Corporation Counsel's office earlier in the day that private business would prevent his doing so.

When reporters called at his home, 308 East 162d Street, last evening, Mr. Haffen referred them to his attorney, Louis O. Van Doren. Mr. Van Doren gave out this letter, which he said had been sent by messenger to Mr. Watson last night:

> Archibald R. Watson, Esq., Corporation Counsel, Hall of Records, Borough of Manhattan:
> Sir: When informed of my appointment as Commissioner of Estimate and Appraisal in the matter of opening and extending East 174th Street, Borough of the Bronx, my first inclination was to decline the appointment because of my many pressing business and professional engagements; and this afternoon I telephoned to your assistant, Mr. Squires, that I would not serve.
> But in the face of your letter to the Hon. Vernon M. Davis, Justice of the Supreme Court, dated March 30, 1910, and published in this evening's papers, I beg to notify you that I accept the appointment as Commissioner of Estimate and Appraisal in said proceeding, and that I shall be ready to meet you on any ground of challenge as to my competency for that office which you may care to raise before the Supreme Court of this State. Respectfully, &c.,
> LOUIS F. HAFFEN.

Mr. Van Doren said there was nothing to add except this:

Will Fight to a Finish.

"We want to get these things before the Supreme Court, and welcome the opportunity. We should have been glad to have done so long ago. Mr. Haffen will fight the matter to a finish."

Mr. Haffen's decision to accept the appointment followed the publication of this letter to Justice Davis:

Letter of the Corporation Counsel.

> The Hon. Vernon M. Davis, County Court House.
> Dear Sir: I have expected during the past few day to see some public acknowledgement from you of your full responsibility for the appointment of Louis F. Haffen to be a Condemnation Commissioner, in the matter of the opening and extending of East 174th Street, Borough of the Bronx, New York City.
> As you best of all know, this was your appointment, not mine, though the contrary has been repeatedly stated by the public press, and as yet without contradiction. Of course, I have no power to make any such appointment. As you also know, Haffen's name was not directly or indirectly proposed or suggested by me for this position. Indeed, I hope to go through my term of office without placing upon my record any such ineradicable stain as I should deem this to be.
> Condemnation Commissioners occupy a most important public office, and one which I hope to see raised to its proper place of honor and dignity in this community. They are sworn officers of the Supreme Court, recognized by the Constitution of our State. They pass upon the most substantial of the property rights of citizens and taxpayers. Their duties and functions are in many respects similar, and in some only second in importance, to those of Justices of the court, and much the same personal qualities are necessary to insure an honest and efficient discharge of their work.
> Public Has Not Forgotten.
> I should say that Haffen was, beyond question, notoriously unfit. He has been convicted upon a trial and hearing before a referee, with the approval of the Governor, after a review of the evidence, of the worst of official and moral delinquencies.
> The public forgets quickly, perhaps, but it has not forgotten the gross iniquities of Haffen; and that it was he who, in the Board of Estiment, initiated the Hunt's Point proceedings, in which condemned property assessed at about $4,300 was acquired by the city at a cost of $247,000, nor has the public forgotten that Haffen was removed by the Governor from the office of Borough President scarcely more than six months ago, upon express findings of padded pay rolls, unconscionable waste of public moneys, his political jobbery, his use of his official power to further his personal pecuniary gain.
> I believe that the law gives me the right to examine Mr. Haffen under oath as to his qualifications, and to object to anyone who is not of a good moral character. This right of examination I shall of course exercise at the proper time and place. Meanwhile, I most earnestly protest against the appointment of Louis F. Haffen, or any of his kind, in any proceedings to which the city is a party, and further, I respectfully request that the appointment of Haffen in the proceeding hereinbefore referred to be annulled and revoked. Respectfully,
> ARCHIBALD R. WATSON,
> Corporation Counsel.

To this Justice Davis sent this reply:

> Supreme Court, New York, March 30, 1910.
> Hon. Archibald R. Watson.
> Dear Sir—Your letter was the first intimation I have had that you had been held responsible for the appointment of Mr. Haffen as Condemnation Commissioner. The appointment was made by me, and without suggestion from you or anybody in your office.
> Of course you are at liberty to publish this letter. Very truly yours,
> VERNON M. DAVIS.

Puts It Up to Haffen.

"I think the Corporation Counsel has greatly overstated the case against Haffen," said the Justice. "I have known Haffen for many years. He is a civil engineer of great ability. I thought at the time I made the appointment that he would make a good Commissioner, and I still think so.

"I fail to see anything in the findings of the investigations which resulted in his removal from the Borough Presidency to convict Mr. Haffen of dishonesty. I know him to be an honest man—somewhat unreliable in his judgments, perhaps—but absolutely honest.

"Nevertheless, considering the way the Corporation Counsel looks at it, I think it might be better for Mr. Haffen not to serve. I leave it entirely to him. As a matter of fact, it is not an important commission to which I appointed him.

"Why, Mr. Haffen got 11,000 votes when he ran for office last Fall. That fact alone impressed me favorably. It showed that the people of the Bronx knew and trusted him. They showed by their vote that they believed him to be honest."

Justice Davis himself was prominently mentioned last Summer as a possible Democratic candidate for Mayor. The organization failed to renominate Haffen after his removal by Gov. Hughes, and he ran independently for re-election in the Bronx last Fall, the split in the Democratic vote resulting in the election of the Fusion candidate, Cyrus C. Miller.

JAILED FOR ELECTION FRAUD.

Commissioner of Deeds Certified to False List of Nominators.

Emanuel Lind, a Commissioner of Deeds, of 262 Rivington Street was sentenced to thirty days in the City Prison yesterday for certifying to a false list of nominators in the last election. The petition, which was discarded by the Board of Elections, sought to put in the Civic Alliance column on the official ballot, the names of Charles H. Herbst and Michael Murphy for Assemblyman and Alderman from the Fourth Assembly District.

Assistant District Attorney Strydec was ready with fifty witnesses to try the case, when Lind pleaded guilty. His counsel, Francis Gilbert, blamed the Aldermen for laxity in appointing as Commissioners men unqualified to hold the places.

STENOGRAPHER GOT HER PAY.

Insisted on the Arrest of a Broker Whose Check Had Been Returned.

The persistence of Miss Elizabeth Power, a stenographer living at 234 West Eleventh Street, yesterday in the Tombs Court enabled her to collect $24 salary which she asserted was due from her former employer, Ellis B. Southworth, a broker at 64 Wall Street, living at 310 West Eighty-sixth Street, whom she charged with larceny.

Miss Power went before Magistrate Kernochan in the Tombs Court several days ago and asked for the broker's arrest because she said a check he had given her for wages had been returned by the bank. Her request was denied on the ground that an action for wages was a matter for the civil courts.

So she went to Police Headquarters yesterday, and after telling her story Southworth was arrested by Lieut. Armstrong of the Detective Bureau and arraigned before Magistrate Kernochan. Before a formal complaint was drawn counsel for the broker told the court his clinet was ready to pay, and explained that the check through a mistake had been drawn on a bank in which Southworth had no funds. As Miss Power received her money she then withdrew her charge.

WORK FOR CHILDREN GROWS.

Gerry Society Report Shows Cases Have Doubled in Ten Years.

The New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children made public yesterday its report for 1909, accompanied by comparisons with the work done in 1890. The number of complaints more than doubled in that time, the number of children relieved and sent to institutions increased from 1,115 to 8,389, while there was a corresponding increase in the number cared for in the society's rooms.

The record for convictions in 1909 shows: Complaints received, 15,499; complaints prosecuted, 15,057; convictions obtained, 8,320.

"Much delinquency results from a misunderstanding of the law," says the report, "from the terrible tenement house congestion, which begets crime and immorality, and from lack of healthful exercise in the hours after school and on holidays."

It favors establishments of parks and playgrounds to keep children's minds centred on "innocent and educational pleasures."

Cuts Sewer Award in Half.

Supreme Court Justice Blanchard in a decision returned yesterday upheld the objections of the Corporation Counsel to an award of $47,500 to property owners on Fort George Avenue for land taken for a public sewer. He put $25,000 as a proper figure. The Commissioners erred, he said, in refusing to allow the city to introduce certain evidence, and their award is excessive.

HOSPITAL LIFT VICTIM DIES.

Long Island College Nurse Fell Down the Elevator Shaft.

Rosalie Street, a trained nurse in the Long Island College Hospital, Brooklyn, who was within a few months of graduation, died in that institution yesterday morning of injuries she received by falling down the elevator shaft on Tuesday night.

Miss Street, carrying a tray with food for a patient at 6 o'clock Tuesday evening, was taken to the third floor in the freight elevator. When she was leaving the lift her foot caught between the elevator and the floor, and John J. McFadden, the elevator attendant, attempted to release it by raising the car. The elevator, however, went too far, and Miss Street fell back through the opening into the shaft to the basement three floors below. Her ankle, leg, and hip bones were broken and she received internal injuries.

Miss Street, who was 22 years old, came from Ottawa, Canada. Her brother will come here to take charge of the body.

ROOSEVELT LEAVES EGYPT FOR NAPLES

Cheered by Native and Foreign Elements as He Proceeds to Steamer at Alexandria.

ALL CLASSES IMPRESSED

Despite Some Criticism, He Pleased Catholics, Protestants, Mohammedans, and Egyptian Savants.

By JOHN CALLAN O'LAUGHLIN,
Former Assistant Secretary of State.
Correspondent of The New York Times and Chicago Tribune.

Copyright, 1910, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt, March 30.—The dominating personality of Theodore Roosevelt was never better displayed than on his long trip through Africa, which was finished by his departure from Alexandria for Naples this afternoon.

He was the most talked-about man in Egypt to-day. His strong utterances at Cairo University are continuing to evoke hearty expressions of approval. He also received severe criticism according to the religious, political, or business affiliations of the speaker or writer. He put new heart into the English both in the Soudan and in Egypt by his expressions appreciative of their great achievements in providing stability in the Government and order for the people. This was formally recognized by Gen. Sir Francis Wingate, Sirdar of Egypt, and Sir Eldon Gorst, British Agent, in letters delivered to the train when Col. Roosevelt left Cairo this morning.

He delighted the Catholic missionaries by the aid he rendered the Franciscan sisters and the Protestants by his visits to the various missions, where he expressed his keen approval of their work and encouraged its continuance.

Officials Express Their Thanks.

He avoided any real offense to the Mohammedans by preaching the doctrine of religious toleration which he has always advocated at home. He touched a sore spot in denouncing the assassination of Boutros and by pointing out the necessity of a long preparation for self-government, while a large portion of the people are condoning the killing of Boutros, believing themselves as fit for independence as the Turks. It is recognized that he showed rare courage in delivering this address that no other foreigner had dared to make, despite warnings that it might lead to violence.

He aroused the admiration of the native savants by his knowledge of Oriental and Egyptian history—for instance, in recalling the book of Batutio to the librarian of El Azhar, and discussing with the director of the national museum the manufacture of the beautiful lamps of the thirteenth century and conditions existing there at that time. Archaeologists were profoundly interested in the extent of his information concerning the ruins, the hieroglyphics and history of ancient Egypt.

Despite the arduous sight seeing and overwhelming hospitality he received he is in the same superb spirits as when he came out of the jungle. His departure from Cairo was the signal for a demonstration in his honor, a large crowd assembled at the station, including Christians and Mohammedans, officials, business men, and students, cheering for the Colonel.

"Long live Mr. Roosevelt!" "Long live truth!" "Don't forget Egypt!" were some of their cries.

No Offense to Mohammedans.

Representatives of the Khédive, Sir Eldon Gorst, and Gen. Wingate called to present their respects and those of their chiefs and to bid him "godspeed" and offer their sincere thanks for what he has done for the cause of civilization in this part of the world. Col. Roosevelt in turn sent cordial messages of thanks to the Khédive and the Sirdar for their courtesies to him.

En route to Alexandria crowds of natives and students from the American missions cheered the ex-President enthusiastically, waving American flags. At one point where in 1882 natives entered a train and killed every Christian aboard Col. Roosevelt remarked the presence of a Mohammedan teacher, and said it was a splendid evidence of the co-operation brought about by the present rule.

Arriving at Alexandria, he found a crowd which warmly greeted him. This is taken as indicating that Col. Roosevelt's utterances have the approval of the entire foreign community. The following extract from Le Progrès, a French organ, is interesting:

"While violating Oriental rules of politeness in disregarding platitudes, this man has spoken to them not with words in an empty sense, but calling a cat a cat, calling Wardani an assassin, calling his instigators infamous criminals. This man dared to say that it is necessary to put at the base of all durable institutions honesty. He said to make real progress it is necessary sometimes painfully with perseverence to advance slowly. Mr. Roosevelt dared to speak to the Egyptians as to his own countrymen. His address was so full of good sense and justice that it created an outburst of protests which have no real meaning because Egyptians love nothing better than oratorical expressions."

PRECEDENCE FOR ROOSEVELT.

Will Outrank Even Royal Princes at Functions in Berlin.

BERLIN, March 30.—The Kaiser will throw Court precedence to the winds during Col. Roosevelt's stay here, three days of which will be spent at the palace as the Emperor's personal guest. The masters of ceremonies and the Court Chamberlains are dismayed by the Emperor's determination to give a private and non-official person precedence, at dinners and elsewhere, over everybody, even the royal Princes. The belief is that the Kaiser is preparing surprises for the three days in which he will give to the ex-President the most of his time.

"What do you think Mr. Roosevelt would like to see in Berlin?" inquired the Emperor of Prof. Benjamin Ide Wheeler of the University of California a few days before the exchange professor left for home early this month.

"Men," said Prof. Wheeler. "Mr. Roosevelt, I think, would prefer above other things to meet representative German men."

Prof. Wheeler also thought Mr. Roosevelt might like to hear some good music, to see one or two art galleries, and to visit Frederick the Great's country house at Potsdam. The Emperor will probably have a distinguished company to dine with Mr. Roosevelt and arrange for a gala opera in his honor.

The University of Berlin will bestow the degree of Doctor of Laws on Col. Roosevelt. While the Senate of the University has not yet acted on the suggestion, it will be brought before that body by the rector and will no doubt be unanimously approved.

The American Association of Commerce and Trade has invited Mr. Roosevelt to be present at a reception. He declined a public dinner some months ago, as he said his stay in Berlin would be short, and he did not think he ought to accept an invitation so long in advance. It is regarded as extremely likely that he will now agree to a reception and that Americans resident in Berlin will have an opportunity of meeting him in this way.

The newspapers have published everything available about the ex-President's utterances in the Soudan and Egypt, so that the general public is well informed as to his movements, and if any public opportunity is afforded of greeting him the people of Berlin are ready to avail themselves of it. Already there is a great pressure for tickets to hear his lecture before the university and for invitations to the reception of the American Association of Commerce and Trade. Some months ago Col. Roosevelt, in answer to the remark that he would have a great reception in Berlin, said:

"I shall be there simply as a private person. I am not one of those who cling to the fringe of departed greatness."

AMERICANS CROWD NAPLES.

Rush to See Roosevelt Likely to Exhaust All Accommodations.

NAPLES, March 30.—All the Americans in Italy seem to be gathering here in anticipation of the visit of Col. Roosevelt.

Naples is already overcrowded, and those who reach here at the end of the week will not be able to find accommodations.

ROOSEVELT IS CRITICISED.

Prof. Schmidt Says His Cairo Speech Was Uncalled For.

CHICAGO, March 30.—Prof. Nathaniel Schmidt, head of the Department of Oriental Languages and Literature at Cornell University, who has just returned from a protracted residence in Egypt, Syria, and Arabia, criticised former President Roosevelt's recent speech at Cairo at a luncheon given by the Chicago Association to-day.

"There are plenty of Americans in Egypt and Arabia to-day," he said, "who have dealt more tactfully with those numerous questions which go to make peace between nations than did an ex-President of the United States who spoke in Cairo the other day. The speech was rather uncalled for, I think. Now, a German would say that Mr. Roosevelt was just right. It is the German policy to lay down the law, and if necessary to lay on the lash. They would think it wholly proper that he should tell the Egyptians how to manage their affairs.

"But there is a question in my mind. I lived over there a long time, and I used to read the Egyptian Nationalist newspapers every day. There is really a tremendous feeling. I think the truth is that the English policy of pouring money into the country and developing it commercially, and at the same time allowing extreme freedom of speech, is the best one in the long run. You can't use force effectively on those people and whip them into amiable subjects. They have long memories. And as for freedom of speech, they have got to have it. It is in the blood."

WANTS ROOSEVELT TO LEAD.

Detroit Republican Newspaper Blames Taft for Woes of Party.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, Mich., March 30.—The Detroit News, Republican, to-day makes a sharp editorial comparison between the militant Republican party left in control of national affairs by Theodore Roosevelt and its present disorganized condition, and looks to Col. Roosevelt to rejuvenate it.

"There is no disguising the fact that the Republican party is frightened, and it has reason so to be," says the News. "The feeling is abroad that the Republican party, after successfully withstanding the assaults of partisan foes, has now accomplished the old feat of overthrowing itself. Even President Taft openly expressed himself as liking 'to go where a President has not been seen for thirty or fifty years,' in order to get a welcome that reminds him of pre-election days. In the face of all this he goes on apologizing for his pliable nature; he makes weak defense of the tariff, he spites the people by praising Senator Oldrich, he confers with the representatives of the interests more than with the representatives of the people, and he throws out several hints a day that he is sick and tired of being President.

"The whole condition is in bad contrast with the strong unified party which Theodore Roosevelt turned over to Taft. Roosevelt not only turned over a unified party, but he also turned over the principles that would continue the unity. It was the unity of the party on these principles that elected Taft. But he has muddled the whole party—the party is like a flock gone astray. Is it any wonder that it is looking to its shepherd for the re-unifying word?"

PINCHOT NOT ON STEAMER.

Stewards with Telegrams Seek Him Vainly at Cuxhaven Pier.

CUXHAVEN, Germany, March 30.—If Gifford Pinchot, former Chief of the Bureau of Forestry of the United States Department of Agriculture, sailed on the steamer President Grant to meet Mr. Roosevelt in Europe, he could not be found when the vessel docked here to-day. The purser's private list of passengers does not show that he was aboard.

Many letters and telegrams awaited Mr. Pinchot, and stewards went among the passengers at the Custom House, calling out his name, but no one responded.

PLOT AGAINST KING MIGUEL.

Many Portuguese Officers Said to be Affiliated with Revolutionists.

LISBON, March 30.—A sensation has been caused by the assertion of the Seculo that the Government has discovered that a great number of the Sergeants in the regiments garrisoned at Estremoz and Elvas, near the Spanish frontier, are affiliated with secret revolutionary organizations which are planning the overthrow of the monarchy.

The paper says there are suspicions and fears in other parts of the country.

KING MENELIK DEAD; EMPRESS IN PRISON

Adherents of Designated Abyssinian Heir Apparently Fearful of Her Influence.

NEGUS HAD LONG BEEN ILL

He Drove Out Italians, Whom He Defeated at Adowa, and Established His Country's Independence.

ADDIS ABEBA, Abyssinia, March 30.—Menelik II., King of Abyssinia, is dead at the age of 66 years and in the twenty-first year of his reign. His grandson, Prince Lidj Jeassu, is heir to the throne.

The Empress has been imprisoned by the followers of the Crown Prince.

King Menelik was stricken with apoplexy last Fall and never recovered his health. For many weeks his death has been expected. When he was no longer able to carry on the affairs of State, Ras Tesame, the Regent, with the approval of the principal chiefs, took over the reins of Government. At the same time Empress Taitou was deprived of all power of interference in the Government, and her appointments, made among her favorites, were annulled.

Prince Lidj Jeassu was proclamed heir to the throne on May 18 last. He is 14 years of age, and a little less than a year ago was married to the seven-year-old granddaughter of the late Emperor Johann and niece of Empress Taitou.

LONDON, March 30.—To-day's report that King Menelik is dead appears to come by way of Aden, Arabia, and it is thought here that possibly it is only a repetition of the rumors of the monarch's death which have been current for some days.

Commercial interests here which are in direct touch through their agencies with Addis Abeba had received no confirmation of the report to-day, possibly owing to a censorship.

Was Long King of Shoa.

Menelik was born at Ankobar, in the Province of Shoa, in 1844. Shoa is the elevated part of Abyssinia between the Blue Nile and the Hawash. At the time of Menelik's birth it was a separate kingdom. Menelik was the son of its Crown Prince, Ailu Malakoth. The chieftains of the little neighboring African principalities were always warring in those days, and when Menelik's father died Menelik was seized and interned at Gojam by Theodore III., who had just usurped the Abyssinian throne.

As a young man of 20 Menelik escaped from confinement, went back to Shoa, organized his people, and, after reigning as King of Shoa for twenty-four years and building up its military strength, he overthrew the rule of his former captor's successor, Johannes. This was in 1889, and Menelik proceeded to effect the conquest and unification of all the territory now known as Abyssinia, or Ethiopia. It includes the Kingdoms of Tigre, Amhara, and Shoa, with other territories and dependencies. Its area is over 200,000 square miles, and the population is estimated at between 9,000,000 and 11,000,000.

Menelik was elected King by the Abyssinian chieftains over Ras Mangasha. He claimed to be a direct descendant of Solomon and the Queen of Sheba, and styled himself "Conquering Lion of the Tribe of Judah, elect of the Saviour, King of Kings of Ethiopia."

Menelik turned his attention toward freeing his country of its foreign masters. Italy, eager for land, had been encroaching on Abyssinia for some time. Menelik began active hostilities against the Italians in 1895. He drove them out within a year. In the treaty of Addis Abeba, in 1896, Italy recognized the complete independence of Abyssinia. In 1898 Menelik got England to cede to his country 8,000 miles of British Somaliland in return for allowing the British to establish a political agency in the Abyssinian capital.

Had Several Wives and Children.

Menelik married a number of times, and had several children. Adventurers, diplomatists, and sections of the people have supported the ambitions of one or another of these. One heir is Lidj Jeassu, Menelik's grandson, whom he formally proclaimed his heir in 1906 and again in 1909. Lidj Jeassu is now 14 years old. His mother is the daughter of Menelik and Bafana, the first wife of the Negus. His father is Ras Michael, Governor of the provinces of Wollo Borona and Aussa. Bafana was rumored to have been poisoned by Menelik's present wife, Taitou.

Among the romantic stories told about Menelik is one to the effect that he is the grandson of the French poet, Lamartine. The Lamartines went to Abyssinia with their eight-year-old daughter, Julia, in 1832. Julia was said to have died in Abyssinia, and the Lamartines are said to have taken her body back to France. Nevertheless, the story has been frequently told that Julia Lamartine was carried off by Bedouins and sold in the slave market to Menelik's father and that Menelik is her son.

Menelik fought in the forefront of his army at the battle of Adowa, in 1896, slaying several Italian soldiers with his own sword. He was then a powerful, pock-marked negro, broad shouldered, and of dignified mien. Of recent years, however, he had given himself up to indulgence. In 1906 he suffered a paralytic stroke, from which he never fully recovered.

In spite of a rather brutish nature and a tendency to gormandize Menelik had always been sufficiently a man of the world to feel that developments in his country along European lines were bound to come.

Nearly Fifty Gypsies Drowned.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 30.—A caravan of fifty gypsies broke through the ice on Charemenetzki Lake, near Luga, to-day. Of the men, women, and children all but a few were drowned.

MORE FIGHTING IN LIBERIA.

Hostile Natives Apparently Getting Better of Troops—Mission Pastor Killed

LIVERPOOL, March 30.—Advices received here state that the fighting between the natives and Liberian troops at Cape Palmas, Liberia, continues and grows more serious. A native pastor named Speare at the mission in Cape Palmas has been shot and killed and the lives of the white residents are said to be in danger.

The hostile natives appear to be getting the better of the troops whose excesses when they were sent to stop the native trade in French territory caused the outbreak. The natives are said to be anxious to have a few Englishmen killed with the object of bringing about intervention by Great Britain.

The Liberian gunboat Lark, temporarily commanded by a German officer, has bombarded the native villages, but done little damage. A German gunboat arrived, and its commander offered to bombard Hoffman Station and Pluke, but the authorities declined the assistance.

LONDON, March 30.—Advices received from Liberia at the Foreign Office state that British life and property are in no danger in spite of the disturbances there.

BOSTON, March 30.—The Cape Palmas mission is largely supported by the American Episcopal Church through the domestic and foreign missionary society of 281 Fourth Avenue, New York. The Bishop of Cape Palmas, the Right Rev. Samuel D. Ferguson, a colored clergyman of the American church, was in Boston several years ago.

The clergyman killed is supposed to be the Rev. B. Kedako Speare, who was attached to Bishop Ferguson's staff at Harper, Cape Palmas. The Right Rev. Charles C. Penick of Fairmont, West Va., was formerly Bishop of Cape Palmas.

DUMA FAVORS FINNISH BILL.

Demand for Its Immediate Rejection Is Voted Down.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 30.—The Russo-Finnish bill, giving the Duma authority over Finland, was introduced in the Duma to-day. After a debate it was referred to a committee of twenty-one members.

The Opposition leaders, Prof. Miliukoff, leader of the Constitutional-Democrats; M. Gegechkort and M. Pokovsky, Social-Democrats, urged the immediate rejection of the measure on the ground that it constituted a violation of the Finnish Constitution. The Octobrists, Count Benningsen and Prince Tenisheff, defended the bill, insisting that the Imperial Legislature alone had authority capable of dealing with the complex Russo-Finnish relations.

The reference of the proposed legislation to a committee was carried by a majority composed of Mohammedans, Progressives, Octoberists, Nationalists, and Conservatives. The minority included the Poles, Constitutional-Democrats, Laborites, and Social-Democrats.

TOM L. JOHNSON IS BETTER.

Appears Quite Well After His Arrival in London.

LONDON, March 30.—Tom L. Johnson, former Mayor of Cleveland, who arrived at Fishguard on the Mauretania yesterday, is stopping with friends in Regent's Park. Mr. Johnson is visiting Europe with the hope of improving his health, which has recently been poor.

Mr. Johnson stopped at the Carlton Hotel here following his arrival, but after receiving his mail left for the home of his friends. He said he had intended to put up at the Carlton, but subsequently accepted an invitation to a private house.

This afternoon Mr. Johnson called on Albert H. Stanley, General Manager of the Underground Electric Railways Company of London, Ltd. He appeared quite well and said his health had been considerably improved.

GERMAN NAVAL BASE CHANGED

Wilhelmshaven Supersedes Kiel as Port of Chief Importance.

KIEL, March 30.—One of the most important movements in the German navy since its creation began to-day when the first battleship squadron of the active fleet sailed for the North Sea to take up a permanent station at Wilhelmshaven. Wilhelmshaven, until now in second place, supersedes Kiel as the principal naval base of Germany.

The squadron will first carry out a series of manoeuvres in the vicinity of Heligoland, thence proceeding to the station port which has undergone great improvement in recent years. The squadron comprises all the vessels of the Dreadnought class now in commission.

Notes of Foreign Affairs.

LONDON, March 30.—The Miners' Federation of Great Britain voted to-day to accept the terms of settlement proposed by the South Wales coal mine owners, and the threatened strike has been averted.

ATHENS, Greece, March 30.—The proclamation convoking a National Assembly was read by King George in the Chamber to-day, and was received with cheers. Queen Olga was present.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 30.—Dispatches from Vilna announce the arrest there of Baron Fredericks, ex-Governor of Nizhui-Novgorod, who was convicted jointly with M. Gurko, ex-Assistant Minister of the Interior, in connection with the grain scandals in the famine year 1906.

SAN JUAN, March 30.—The scheme to loan money to the small coffee farmers will be made effectual by the organization of a bank by the National Coffee Growers' Association. The capital of the bank will be $1,000,000, in 20,000 shares.

BARBADOS, B. W. I., March 30.—William Jennings Bryan arrived here yesterday from Rio Janeiro and left to-day for Porto Rico. From there he will proceed to Venezuela.

PARIS, March 30.—The new tariff law was promulgated in the official journal to-day, and will become legally operative on April 1, simultaneously with the Franco-American tariff agreement.

BRUSSELS, March 30.—The court to-day authorized the Princess Louise to begin suit for the nullification of Baroness Vaughn's ownership of two villas at Ostend, erected on ground bought by the late King Leopold of Belgium.

TEGUCIGALPA, Honduras, March 30.—The report that a revolutionary movement is under way in Honduras is without foundation.

ALDRIDGE CANDIDACY BITTERLY OPPOSED

Press and People Term Rochester Republican Boss's Congressional Aspirations a Party Disgrace.

GRAFT CHARGE IS RECALLED

Clergyman Demands Fuller Explanation of Kennedy's $1,000 Insurance Gift—His Nomination Conceded.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., March 30.—The candidacy of George W. Aldridge, Republican State Committeeman, and for many years boss of the Republican machine in Rochester and Monroe County, for the vacancy in the Thirty-second Congressional District caused by the death of James Breck Perkins, has raised a storm of protest of daily growing dimensions. The columns of the daily press reflect the non-partisan character of the indignation which is felt in Rochester in scores of communications from men who have voted the Republican ticket for years, and who now declare that the nomination of Aldridge will be a lasting disgrace to the party in Monroe County.

The Post Express, the leading afternoon Republican paper, denounces Aldridge's candidacy and calls upon the State Committeeman to withdraw his name from the convention. The Herald, independent since it bolted Hearst, condemns the effrontery of Mr. Aldridge in forcing his candidacy upon the party, and suggests the names of several Democrats as good timber for the Democrats to chose their candidate from. The Democrat and Chronicle, the leading Republican morning paper in the county, is silent, neither supporting nor disparaging the ambitions of Mr. Aldridge. The Times is tacitly supporting him, and this afternoon devotes most of its front page to the publication of a statement issued by H. F. Atwood, Vice President of the Rochester German Insurance Company, in which the insurance official defends Mr. Aldridge's course in connection with insurance legislation at Albany. In reference to the bill which Mr. Aldridge favored the statement says:

"This was a bill which was as much for the benefit of the public as for the insurance companies, for it relieved the insurance companies of a tax on a liability instead of an asset, it being a tax on the reinsuring reserve. On putting it on its merits before Mr. Aldridge he very willingly consented to advocate it."

To-day the Rev. Dr. A. S. Crapsey, a well-known settlement worker and a man of recognized influence in Rochester public affairs, addressed an open letter to Mr. Aldridge. Through the intercession of a mutual friend the clergyman had been induced to write a letter to President Taft urging him to appoint Mr. Aldridge to the Surveyorship of the Port of New York.

That fact, Dr. Crapsey declares, gives him the right to require of Mr. Aldridge an explanation of his acceptance of $1,000 from E. R. Kennedy, the insurance company agent, and Dr. Crapsey calls on Mr. Aldridge for a fuller explanation than that which he gave in his statement a few days ago. In his letter Dr. Crapsey says:

"If for a money payment or other material consideration, you secretly used your influence as leader of the Monroe County organization to obtain or prevent legislation, it would seem to me that you were guilty of a grave moral offense."

The Herald comments editorially on the attitude of The Post Express, congratulating that paper and its chief owner, Francis B. Mitchell, on their courage and frankness in repudiating Aldridge and the convention system of nomination, which heretofore The Post Express has supported. In part the editorial states:

> Brought face to face with what it terms "the gross absurdity" of this boss-made nomination of the boss, it sees a new light. It now beholds, in all its enormity, the working of the false pretense of representative nomination which it has been defending.
> We congratulate our neighbor, and even bore its constituency, upon this honest admission of error. From now on, the readers of the Post Express will have opportunity for a clearer understanding of the issue of direct primaries.
> Of still greater significance, however, is that superior Republican journal's repudiation of the nomination of George W. Aldridge as one unfit to be made. It predicts that such a nomination, if followed by success at the polls, would be "a lasting disgrace to this Congressional district—a disgrace that would be noted throughout the Nation."

The Post Express this afternoon prints columns of criticism from leading papers throughout the country, and in commenting on them editorially says:

"The opinion is one of strong condemnation. His (Aldridge's) nomination, which will be due to his own activity, is regarded everywhere as unfit, and as an offensive manifestation of that bossism which the people are determined to overthrow."

In the face of the storm of criticism and indignation his candidacy has raised Mr. Aldridge is standing pat. He is in absolute control of the party machinery in the city and county and his nomination is assured. Primaries will be held to-morrow and delegates pledged to support the machine leader will be named. If Mr. Aldridge has been affected by the protest of press and people he has given no indication of it, and his name undoubtedly will be presented to the convention on Saturday.

The Democratic organization is not insensible to the importance of putting a strong man in the field to oppose Mr. Aldridge, and party councils have been almost continuous for several days in an endeavor to agree upon a candidate who will measure up to the requirements.

Several prominent Rochester business men have been approached, but have declined to accept the nomination. A dozen men have been canvassed, including John Sibley Whalen, ex-Secretary of State; George P. Decker, ex-Deputy Attorney General; William F. Balkam, a former State Committeeman; Frederick W. Smith, lawyer and former Judge, and John D. Lynn, friend and supporter of W. J. Bryan. It is not at all improbable that one of these men may consent yet to accept a nomination.

While the revolt against Mr. Aldridge has all the appearance of a genuine upheaval, the election is so near at hand that it is conceded reluctantly by the Democrats that even with a strong candidate they will not have sufficient time to make an effective campaign.

The Republican machine is strongly entrenched, especially in the towns, and it takes time to awaken the country voters to the moral issue involved.

CHECKING FOREST FIRES.

Whipple Thinks Long Island Railroad Should Use Oil Instead of Coal.

Commissioner Whipple of the State Forest, Fish, and Game Commission held a conference with President Peters of the Long Island Railroad yesterday on the question of checking the forest fires on Long Island. Afterward the former declared that one of the most effective methods of preventing fires in that locality would be for the Public Service Commission to order the road to burn oil instead of coal.

"I do not believe it is the duty of my commission to take steps to prevent forest fires," said he. "We are prepared, however, to do all we can to protect the northern forest belt on Long Island, which is a priceless heritage to the city and State.

"I believe that if a fire warden system were put in force on the island many fires could be prevented. Under the law Supervisors of towns can be sued for damages caused by forest fires, and if this action were taken once or twice it would be effective. There is a great deal of careless burning of rubbish in and about forest lands which ought to be stopped."

President Peters reported that 107 forest fires occurred on the island last year, destroying 2,236 acres of woodland. Twenty-two were directly traced to the railroad.

INDICT 16 IN PITTSBURG.

Confession of ex-Whip Stewart Involves Health Director Walker.

PITTSBURG, March 30.—Dr. E. R. Walters, ex-President of the Select Council, who now is Director of Public Health and Charities, was indicted to-day for accepting a $1,000 bribe. Fifteen other ex-Selectmen, none of whom hitherto have been mentioned, were named also in the Grand Jury's report as having received amounts from $100 to $1,000. The indictments make a total of ninety-one in three reports of the Grand Jury within two weeks. Thirty more officials, directors and employes of the six banks alleged to have paid money to obtain an ordinance naming them as city depositories and four local express agents were before the Grand Jury, which is seeking now to trace the $45,000 which was sent or taken to New York to be passed over there to Charles Stewart, ex-whip of the Council.

The indictments were based upon the confession of Stewart yesterday that he had distributed to these sixteen men $12,000 to buy their votes in favor of the bank ordinance.

T. H. Given, President of the Farmers' Deposit National Bank and President Emil Winter of the Workingmen's Savings Bank, were among those who testified briefly. The progress of the Grand Jury in its probe for the "men higher up" was not disclosed to-day, but it is said that progress is being made and that the naming of bigger men is certain to come soon. The Grand Jury will be in session to-morrow.

Capt. John Klein went to the Western Penitentiary early to-day, and, following his irrepressible attitude since his confession, called up the Sheriff from Warden Francis's office and told that official he had "better come down the river with his commitment" if he wished to serve it to-day.

Klein, unless he is pardoned, which is not at all unlikely, will serve three and a half years. His voluntary trip to the penitentiary, accompanied only by two county detectives, is taken to mean that the District Attorney and Grand Jury is now through with him, having gained all the information the little riverman is able to furnish.

Clerkships in different shops have been provided at the penitentiary for William W. Ramsey, Joseph Wasson, and William Brand, who have just begun serving sentences for participation in the Councilmanic bribery scandal. Ramsey was formerly a bank president. Brand and Wasson, were members of Common Councils.

COLUMBUS INDICTS FIVE.

Forty-nine Counts of Rendering False Bills Returned Against Them.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 30.—The Franklin County Grand Jury late to-day returned forty-nine indictments against five men on the charge of rendering false bills and collecting money thereon.

Those indicted are Judge John T. Gale, President of the Ruggles-Gale Company of Columbus; G. L. Ruggles, its Vice President; George E. Wood, clerk under ex-Secretary of State Lalin; Harry E. King of Warren, Ohio, ex-clerk under Railroad Commissioner Morris; J. E. McCafferty, and J. T. Paine.

BINGHAM LIBEL SUIT UP.

Lawyer, Angry, Cries, "We Said He Was a Scoundrel, and We Stick to It."

The argument before Justice Greenbaum on a motion to strike out parts of Mayor Gaynor's answer to Gen. Theodore A. Bingham's $100,000 suit for libel attracted a large attendance to the Special Term of the Supreme Court yesterday. The session abounded in picturesque feaures.

"When this moving picture show of motions is over, and we get into a 24-foot ring with a referee," said Stephen Baldwin, attorney for the Mayor, "it will be the issues drawn in this amended answer which the trial Judge will be compelled to submit to the jury. This preliminary sparring cannot last forever.

"The justification of a libel must be as broad as the charge itself. We said Bingham was a scoundrel and we stick to it! The gravamen of the libel in this letter is its statement of facts; and the law holds that if we prove our facts we need not defend our epithets. The libel, if any, is in the whole letter.

"Every time a police officer arrests a man without a warrant and photographs him, he is guilty of assault in the third degree, under Section 219 of the Penal Code. Our answer sets up that this was called to the plaintiff's attention. Surely we have a right to plead that. This man cannot shelter himself behind the decision of the Special Term of the Supreme Court. He is presumed to know the law. We have said he was lawless; and lawless we will prove him. We have a right to plead his lawlessness in justification."

Attorney Baldwin worked himself up to a high pitch of eloquence. At one stage he could not find a paragraph he sought in one of the papers and Attorney E. C. Crowley, who represented Gen. Bingham, stepped over to help him.

"Get back into your own corner!" Baldwin shouted. "I can do my own finding."

Attorney Crowley attacked the defense that the letter about the Duffy case was a privileged communication to the Mayor by stating that it had been given to the press and printed before Mayor McClellan had received it and that its expressions showed malice. Decision was reserved.

TRAIN KILLS 21 SOLDIERS.

Injured Number 139 in Accident Near Mulheim-am-Rhein.

MULHEIM-AM-RHEIN, March 30.—The North German Lloyd express train from Hamburg and Bremen for Genoa ran past danger signals to-day and crashed into the rear of a train filled with soldiers who were returning to Strasburg after their Easter leave.

Four cars of the latter train were telescoped and many of the soldiers were killed outright or injured. The official list gives 21 soldiers dead, 39 severely injured, and more than 100 slightly injured.

None of the passengers on the steamer express was harmed, and they continued their journey to Italy.

Democrats Renominate Cline.

FORT WAYNE, Ind., March 30.—Cyrus Cline, Representative in Congress from the Twelfth Indiana District, was unanimously renominated by the Democrats here to-day. The resolutions denounce the Payne-Aldrich tariff and criticise the Taft Administration. The candidacy of Edward G. Hoffman of Fort Wayne for the United States Senate was indorsed.

CONNERS NOT READY TO YIELD CONTROL

Declares He Will Call Meeting of State Committee When He "Gets Good and Ready."

MADE NO PROMISES, HE SAYS

And Is Ready to Contest His Retirement from the Chairmanship to the Bitter End.

William J. Conners, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, who is in town looking after certain private business affairs, says that he is far from eliminated from control of the party organization in the State. When seen at the Waldorf yesterday afternoon he was in a most pugnacious mood and expressed himself most emphatically as being ready to fight the issue to the bitter end. He declared that he would call the State Committee together when he "gets good and ready," and that he is "in no hurry about it, either."

His manner was not at all consistent with the general understanding after the meeting held by the committee at Albany a month ago, when it was supposed that Tammany and the up-State anti-Conners element had the votes to turn him out, but for the sake of harmony allowed him to hold over for a while. It was understood that he would call a meeting of the committee this month, at which he would quietly step down and out.

"When are you going to have the committee meet?" he was asked.

"I don't know whether I will call a meeting or not," replied the Chairman.

"But the understanding was that you were to do so this month, was it not?"

"There has been a lot of 'understanding' that wasn't based on fact. Let me tell you that I did not promise Murphy or anybody else anything. There has been a lot said about my signing resignations and things of that kind that wasn't true."

"But did you not say at Albany that you did not care to serve as Chairman after your term had expired?"

"I said that I wanted to serve my term out."

"When will it expire?"

"Some people say the term is for two years, and there has been a custom of having it extend from one State convention to another. In recent years there has been a reorganization of the committee in the Spring of National election years. That's where they get the idea that my term is up this Spring. Now, I am going to call the committee together when I feel like it. Of course, there will have to be a meeting before long to formulate plans for the State campaign this Fall.

"We've got to show these Republicans up. They are not passing any decent legislation up in Albany. Why don't they take a drive at Wall Street and why don't Gov. Hughes have a personal registration law passed which will cover the whole State?"

Conners will start up-State the last of the week and will probably stop off several times before he reaches Buffalo.

Leader Murphy of Tammany Hall has left Hot Springs, Ark., where he has been spending the last few weeks, and will probably be in town to-day or to-morrow. Then further fireworks in the Democratic organization may be expected. Local members of the organization were of the opinion last night that Conners "is welching on the promise which he made to save his neck at Albany."

Sail to Secure Escaped Burglar.

Two detectives, John M. Shea and John P. Hannegan, from the St. Louis Detective Bureau, sailed yesterday on the Lusitania for England to bring back Frank Mathusic, a bank burglar who escaped from a moving train on the Missouri Pacific Railroad nine years ago, when being taken to the Jefferson City Jail to serve a twelve-year sentence. Scotland Yard a few days ago notified the St. Louis police that they had arrested him in London.

RECOVER JENKINS DIAMONDS.

Found Near New York, So Chicago Hears—Jump in Their Value.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, March 30.—The Jenkins diamonds, mysteriously stolen from the apartments of Mrs. J. W. Jenkins in the Hotel Lorraine, New York City, last December, have been as mysteriously recovered. The arrest in Chicago of three men suspected of complicity in the theft of the jewels was followed by an increase in the reputed value of the gems from $60,000 to $127,000.

There is much uncertainty about the time, place, and manner of the recovery of the diamonds, and officers of the private detective agency that handled the case have shown no disposition to make the details public.

After following a suspected man from New York to Chicago, arresting him and two others with several thousand dollars' worth of jewelry in their possession, and after having discharged the prisoners upon the apparent showing that the jewels could not be identified by Mrs. Jenkins, the detective agency now announces that the Chicago prisoners had no connection with the Jenkins robbery, which was the work of a comparatively unknown thief.

According to W. B. Soule, Chicago Superintendent of a private detective agency, the Jenkins diamonds were recovered in a rooming house, "within 100 miles of New York." The room of the thief was entered during his absence, and he did not return to it after the visit of the detectives. No person has been arrested since the recovery of the diamonds and no promise is made that any one will be arrested.

"The diamonds were recovered about a week ago," said Mr. Soule. "I cannot say just where the recovery was made. The identity of the thief and the location of the diamonds was revealed by some one who had knowledge of the crime.

"The Chicago prisoners know nothing about it, and their release was not due tot any information they gave. The publicity given the arrest of these men was, I believe, the indirect cause of the betrayal of the real thief. About $120,000 worth of jewelry was recovered from the room of the man who stole the diamonds.

"The total value of the jewelry stolen was about $127,000. At the time of the Chicago arrests we estimated the value of the stolen property too low."

that jewelry valued at $300,000 had been stolen from her apartments on the eighth floor of the Hotel Lorraine, Fifth Avenue and Forty-fifth Street. Inspector McCafferty took charge of the case, but no trace of the thief could be found.

After a thorough examination of Mrs. Jenkins's apartments and close questioning of the servants of the hotel, the detectives reported that the case smacked of an Arabian Nights tale.

Later Mrs. Jenkins cut her valuation of the missing jewels to $150,000. The police did not give up the case, but Inspector McCafferty said that his investigation was "not along the lines of the reported robbery."

Mrs. Jenkins told the police that she had left the hotel at 3 o'clock on the afternoon of the robbery, and that her companion, a Miss Russell, was also away from the apartment all afternoon. When she returned two hours later Mrs. Jenkins said she found the drawers of her dressing table in disorder and the jewels, which had been placed in a black leather case, missing.

TO PICK TAFT CANDIDATE.

Administration Leaders in Ohio Likely to Name Prof. Thompson.

Special to The New York Times.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, March 30.—Wade H. Ellis, Chairman of the Republican State Executive Committee, and the Taft leaders in the State, will meet here to-morrow to discuss a new candidate for Governor, Prof. William Oxley Thompson. It is believed that Prof. Thompson has already been practically decided upon by the Taft element. Prof. Thompson is President of the Ohio State University and President of the Board of Education of Columbus. For three years he was President of the Miamai University, and he is a warm friend of President Taft's father-in-law, John W. Herron. President Taft is said to have been approached in the matter and found not adverse to the plan.

The chief argument used in Prof. Thompson's favor is that he is entirely free from factional alliances, and could unite all of the different elements of the party.

These $16.50 suits of ours will appeal to both classes—to the former because they possess all the distinction and character that the high-priced tailor imparts to his product—to the latter because the price is no higher than is asked for mediocre clothes. THIEVES FIGHT OFF POLICE MEASURERS

BOTH HAVE LONG RECORDS

Ten Sleuths Required to Guard the Prisoners on Their Way to Court—Held in Heavy Bail.

Commissioner Shields waited in his office at the Federal Building for more than an hour yesterday afternoon for the arraignment before him of Frederick Cunningham and Frank Chester, the two men who were arrested in the Grand Central Station on Tuesday night charged with having stolen $85,000 worth of stamps from the Post Office at Richmond, Va. The officials at Police Headquarters telephoned that they would have the prisoners before him immediately, but still they did not come. The reason was that they put up one of the biggest fights the police have ever had to contend with in order to escape being photographed and measured.

At the regular line-up before the detectives in the morning, Cunningham was recognized by Detective Lieutenant Peabody as Eddie Fay, a noted crook. His picture is in the Rogues' Gallery, and he has, according to the police and Post Office Inspector Mayer, a long record in which Post Office robberies are prominent. It was also thought for a time that Chester was known to the police as Denison, but his identification was later decided to be a mistake. The Pinkertons, however, furnished him with a long pedigree.

As soon as the prisoners were led to the Bertillon room the troubles of the police began. The prisoners made a dash for the apparatus used to measure them and take their pictures, and did their best to smash it. Several detectives were called in to help, and seized them by the legs and arms, but the men fought on.

"Cunningham, for his size, is one of the strongest men I have ever known," said Lieut. Dunn afterward.

From 10 o'clock in the morning till 2 o'clock in the afternoon the conflict lasted, and in the scuffle Edward Tobin, the official photographer, was burned through the flashlight going off at the wrong time. The prisoners, when overpowered and tied in their seats, tried by screwing up their features to make photography useless. In the end the police had to give up the attempt to take the pictures, but were less dissatisfied because they have already an excellent portrait of Cunningham, or Fay, from the Chicago gallery.

When the prisoners were taken from Police Headquarters to the Tombs they were guarded in the patrol wagon by ten detectives. After being formally admitted to the prison they were taken at once in charge of Marshal Henkel to the Federal Building. As they were led handcuffed into Commissioner Shields's room they hung their heads and did all they could to hide their faces.

There the proceedings were brief. The Commissioner had before him an affidavit from Post Office Inspector Frank R. Barclay of the Washington District charging them with the robbery in Richmond and of bringing $30,000 worth of the stolen stamps into this city. In the absence of counsel for the defense the Commissioner appointed William M. Byrne to look after their interests. The Commissioner fixed bail at $20,000 each, and in spite of Mr. Byrne's protests refused to reduce it, on the ground that it was believed that the prisoners still had $50,000 of Post Office property in their possession. Inspector Mayer appeared as complainant and Assistant United States District Attorney Wemple prosecuted. The examination was put over till next Wednesday afternoon.

Here is the criminal career of Eddie Fay, with whom the police identify Cunningham: On Aug. 6, 1897, with Thomas O'Brien, he was arrested at Springfield, Ill., charged with robbing the money drawer of a saloon. Both were sentenced to indeterminate terms in the Chester (Ill.) Penitentiary, and Fay was paroled Nov. 11, 1898. On June 28, 1902, he was arrested at the Washington Park race track on suspicion, photographed, and released. On April 8, 1904, he was arrested in Chicago, charged with robbing the Post Office at Superior, Wis., in October, 1903. Extradited to Wisconsin, he was imprisoned in the Jaresville (Wis.) jail, from which he escaped on Aug. 26, 1904. On Feb. 25, 1906, with several companions, he robbed the Japanese-American Bank in Los Angeles. On Feb. 25, 1906, with several companions, he broke into the Post Office at San Diego, Cal., stealing $10,738 in stamps and $4,000 in gold. He was also concerned in the robbery of $74,000 in stamps from a Post Office in Chicago in 1891, and in the robbery from the United States revenue office in Peoria, Ill., of $30,000 worth of stamps.

Fay is said by the police to have used the names of Eddie Smith, J. D. Cummings, and J. W. Campbell, and perhaps Charles J. Adams. He registered at the Hotel Avery here as Charles Hatfield of Buffalo. He is said to have a comfortable fortune and to own a racing stable in the West.

The Pinkertons supplied Inspector Mayer with some interesting information as to Chester and declared that his real name is Richard Harris, and that he is known to his friends at "Little Dick" Walsh and also as Frank M. Willis, Willie, James, Frank Holden, James Wilson, and Frank Mason. The Pinkertons set him down as a bank and jewelry store sneak thief and burglar and declare that their records of him read thus:

Nov. 6, 1891, arrested at Denver with James McGuire, alias Cap Roach, on information furnished by William A. Pinkerton; discharged.

July 7, 1895, arrested at Ostend, Belgium, with Harry Russell, George Woodward, alias Diamond Swallower, and Anne James; five years in Bruges prison.

May 20, 1898, arrested at Detroit for a jewelry robbery at El Paso, Texas, in 1895; released in October, 1899, on $1,000 cash bail; disappeared.

Aug. 30, 1903, arrested in East St. Louis, Ill., with Edward Fahey, under the name of James Mason. He had in his possession a fine kit of burglar's tools. For this he served two years in the Southern Illinois Penitentiary, Chester, Ill.

Post Office Inspector Harrison of Washington, who was in this city yesterday, called attention to the Post Office robbery at Chicago, because it was from a temporary office there of much the same type as that broken into in Richmond. At Chicago, however, the safe was drilled into from a runway underneath, while in Richmond a hole was drilled into the door of the safe, a few inches to one side of the combination and the lock broken off.

A number of clerks were working in the sorting room on the same floor while the robbers were at work in Richmond, but they moved a case out from the wall so as to partially conceal them. One of the clerks said he had heard a noise like a man turning off an electric light, but no one else seems to have noticed any unusual sound.

The stamps carried off, Inspector Harrison said, were in the 2, 3, 4, 5, 8, 10 and 13 cent denominations. In a grip with soiled clothing were found $8,000 worth and in a trunk $27,000. Somewhere floating around the country is another trunk with $50,000 worth of stamps in it, and perhaps with it is the third man, whom the police believe had a hand in the job. The three trunks weighed together 685 pounds, and this with the presence in Richmond at the Alhambra Hotel of three suspicious characters gave the clue. The rest, the Inspector said, was "a stroke of luck, I guess."

Detectives Daly and Bedner of the Central Office yesterday found two more trunks and a satchel said to have belonged to the Post Office thieves. In one trunk they recovered $17,500 worth of stamps, and in the satchel $8,500 in stamps.

The first trunk was found at the Westcott Express Company's branch in West Twenty-third Street. It contained what the police declare is the finest set of burglar tools they ever saw, of even a better quality than those found in the trunks on Tuesday night. Each tool was in a separate case made of expensive Russian leather. Several jimmies were found wrapped in tissue paper beside highly tempered drills. An assortment of locknicks running from four to eighteen inches in length were also in the trunk, and six sets of fine skeleton keys. There was also some clothing, from which the name of the dealers had been cut.

In this trunk the detectives found a notebook containing facts about banks in the South and Southwest. The names of hundreds of banks were given, the location in each city, town, or village, and the names and address of the Treasurer, cashier and janitor. After the name of one janitor was marked "O. K.," and after another "dope."

The next trunk—making the fourth to be recovered—was found at the Grand Central Station. This contained $17,500 worth of stamps, but nothing more. There is yet a fifth trunk to be found, but it has been lost somewhere, the detectives say, and will have to be traced. It was evidently mislaid on some railroad line.

In the checking room of the Hotel St. Denis a satchel containing $8,500 worth of stamps was found, which had been checked there by one of the men.

Post Office Inspectors James and Jacobs last night found the fifth trunk, and in it recovered $17,000 worth of stamps. The trunk contained nothing but stamps.

This trunk was found at the Pennsylvania Railroad Station at Cortlandt Street, and was taken to Police Headquarters, where the other trunks are. This makes $73,000 worth of the stamps that the Post Office authorities have recovered out of the $85,000 worth stolen.

ORDERS INSANE MAN ON TRIAL

Court Believed Slayer Cured; Now Will Give Rehearing.

After a short time in the Tombs, James Courtney, alias "Leadville Jimmy," an old-time yeggman, will be sent back to the Matteawan Asylum for the Criminal Insane to-day, to await a rehearing of his case by Supreme Court Justice Tompkins, at Nyack. He is charged with the murder of Mrs. Clara Englehardt at 73 Delancey Street, in 1900.

Backed by letters from Dr. Lamb, Superintendent of the Matteawan Asylum, District Attorney Whitman, on March 8, recommended the dismissal of the murder indictment against Courtney, on the ground that he was incurably insane, but on Tuesday he learned that the man had been pronounced sane by Justice Tompkins and committed to the Tombs to await trial. As the indictment had been dismissed, Mr. Whitman wondered whether the legality of the man's commitment to the Tombs would be questioned.

When informed of the state of affairs, Justice Tompkins telegraphed yesterday that perhaps "the full facts" had not been laid before him, and promised to sign an order for a rehearing and a recommitment to Matteawan. Such an order was rushed to Nyack yesterday afternoon by special messenger, and Courtney will be taken to Matteawan to-day.

In the meantime Mr. Whitman had prepared for a new indictment on the old charge, in case it should be needed. Detectives reported late in the day that of the witnesses to the murder of Mrs. Englehardt some had died and none of the others could be found.

Courtney obtained his release by his own petition for a writ of habeas corpus, followed on Saturday by a hearing before Justice Tompkins. Dr. Lamb disapproved the release, but Justice Tompkins decided he had recovered his sanity.

The flaw in the proceedings lay in the fact that District Attorney Mack of Duchess County had not had the eight days' notice allowed by law for him to appear in opposition. At this second hearing, which probably will be held next Saturday, Mr. Whitman will be represented by Assistant District Attorney Johnstone.

Following the murder of Mrs. Englehardt in 1900 Courtney went to California, where he spent several years in San Quentin prison for his share in the murder of a policeman. At the end of his term he was brought back to this city in 1907, placed on trial, adjudged insane, and committed to Matteawan by Supreme Court Justice Kellogg.

EX-ARMY CAPTAIN HELD.

Collapses with Heart Trouble After Arrest on a Bad Check Charge.

A man who said he was Stephen Reynolds White, an ex-Captain in the United States Army, formerly attached to the Forty-seventh Infantry, was arrested yesterday by Central Office Detectives Hooker and Maddocks on the complaint of Gilbert Hennessy, proprietor of a Williams Street café, who charged White with giving him a fraudulent check for $20 drawn on the Mercantile National Bank of New York and signed "J. H. Ashcroft."

On being taken to the Tombs White collapsed and was sent to the Hudson Street Hospital, where he is under guard suffering from organic heart trouble. He was arrested at the Astor House and said he came to New York a few days ago from his home in Concord, Mass. The police say that White is a nephew of Gen. Brooke and comes of a prominent Massachusetts family. He told the detectives that while serving in the Philippines during the Spanish-American war he was shot in a skirmish, sustaining an injury from which he can never recover.

With White when the check was cashed was Stafford Krone, who lives at 826 Park Avenue, Hoboken. Krone was known to Hennessy and it was on his representation that the check was good that Hennessy cashed it. Krone also was arrested.

In the Tombs Court Krone said he had known White only a few hours when they entered the café together. Magistrate Kernochan held Krone in $500 bail on a short affidavit charging petty larceny.

Stover Selecting Walks Where Children Can Draw on the Asphalt.

Park Commissioner Stover is selecting several places in Central Park to be set aside for the use of kindergarten classes in the daytime. The classes, under the supervision of teachers, will be allowed to congregate at the places chosen and draw designs and figures on the asphalt.

Heretofore the children have been restricted from marking the walks in the parks. The Commissioner will select similar places later in every park in the city.

TELLS NEW VERSION OF GILA RIVER FIGHT

BLAMES MURPHY'S MEN

Defense in the Government's Suit to Dissolve Union Pacific Merger Ends To-day—Rebuttal Begins Monday.

A new version of the famous fight in the Gila River cañon, Arizona, between construction gangs of the E. H. Harriman lines and the Phoenix & Eastern Railway Company, not long after the acquisition of the Southern Pacific by Mr. Harriman, was told yesterday before Special Examiner Sylvester G. Williams, who is hearing testimony here in the Government's suit to dissolve the Union Pacific merger.

In the early stages of the Government's suit the Gila River cañon fight received much attention, and many stories were told of how the hardy graders in the employ of Harriman and the Southern Pacific hurled rocks down upon the heads of the construction gang of the Phoenix & Eastern; how the opposing factions set off blasts of dynamite under each other's very noses, and how bitter the feeling raged between the opposing gangs, each trying to blast its way first through the cañon.

In the early stories all the blame for this fight was placed upon the Southern Pacific and on the man who had just come into control, for at the time of the fight Harriman was trying to blaze a way through Arizona and New Mexico for his projected transcontinental railway system.

The lawyers who represent the Union Pacific in the present suit reserved the company's version of this fight in the cañon until the closing hours of the defense, and yesterday they called upon Eugene S. Ives, general counsel for the Harriman lines in Arizona and New Mexico, to tell the railroad's version of the fight.

"The Phoenix & Eastern was organized by Frank Murphy, an Arizona promoter, to build a road, according to its charter, from Phoenix, Arizona, to Benson, New Mexico," said Mr. Ives, who hails from Tucson, Arizona. "The construction proceeded along the south bank of the Gila River. There was no interference of any kind from us with the construction, nor were legal proceedings brought by any representative of the Harriman lines.

"The construction of the road would have proceeded to Benson without interference if Murphy and his men hadn't departed from their own right of way and crossed to the north bank of the river, and had attempted to file a location on which the Harriman interests had previously filed.

"This act by the Murphy people we regarded as an attempt to obstruct the Harriman lines in the interests of the Santa Fé Road in the construction of a low grade Southern Pacific transcontinental line by way of the Gila River cañon to Bowie, Arizona.

"The two sets of graders came together about sixteen miles west of the cañon's mouth. Instead of the Southern Pacific graders hurling rocks at the Murphy people, as has been said, there was blasting by both sets of graders.

"The Murphy gang dislocated quite as many rocks as did the Harriman men, and for awhile there was a lively time, each set of graders setting off mighty blasts, which endangered the lives of those on each side."

Ives also told how the Southern Pacific bought out the Phoenix & Eastern from the Santa Fé and expended more than $1,000,000 in the cañon, where work is still going on. He declared that progress had been delayed by the Government's reclamation project, by which it was proposed to build a dam in the cañon.

"This reclamation controversy," Ives said, "has been settled during the last few days in favor of the Southern Pacific, and work in the cañon will from now on be pushed."

The upshot of the Gila River Cañon fight for the right of way, according to Ives, was that when the Southern Pacific took over the Phoenix & Eastern, the Santa Fé reserved the right to use its tracks.

The testimony of Promoter Frank Murphy was also read into the record, also that of his chief engineer. This was to the effect that the Phoenix & Eastern was a Benson line and that the building of tracks through the Gila River Cañon had never been contemplated.

According to the Union Pacific lawyers Murphy admitted that he was acting for the Santa Fé during the days just after Harriman secured control of the Southern Pacific and planned his transcontinental line.

The defense of the Harriman lines will probably be concluded to-day, and it is likely that the rebuttal for the Government will begin on Monday. The suit to dissolve the Union Pacific merger began in December, 1908. Hearings have been held in a dozen large cities and the record of testimony contains more than 2,500,000 words.

This record has been taken entirely by Robert S. Taylor of St. Paul, the same man who took down the entire record of the Government's dissolution suit against the Standard Oil Company, the longest record of testimony probably ever taken in any one case. The number of words in the Standard Oil case, including the exhibits, was about 11,000,000.

ELECTRICIAN'S WIFE MISSING.

McLaughlin Has Had No Trace of Her Since Jan. 24.

At the request of Charles A. McLaughlin of 366 West Thirty-fifth Street, an electrician at the Hackett Theatre, the police have sent out a general alarm for his wife. She was a housekeeper at 351 West Thirty-fifth Street, but he has lost all trace of her since January.

McLaughlin was ill with rheumatism in Bellevue Hospital from December to Jan. 24, and Mrs. McLaughlin visited him regularly.

He was then transferred to St. Francis's Hospital, and when he wrote to inform Mrs. McLaughlin of this his letter was returned by the Post Office.

On his discharge on Feb. 11 he found that she was not at home, but had left all her clothes there, and he now fears some misfortune has overtaken her, as he has no reason to believe she would go away voluntarily.

She is 28 years old, 5 feet in height, with dark hair and blue eyes. When McLaughlin last saw her she was wearing a brown suit and a large black hat.

Herein is a big heating lesson

Many attractive-looking buildings offered for sale or to rent will not bear basement investigation. Shrewd buyers and renters now-a-days make it their first step of investigation to lay bare the basement secret: "It's a cold house—no wonder the cut price!" A poorly heated house is shunned as if it were haunted, whereas houses warmed by are eagerly sought because no house is really worth living in unless the temperature in all rooms can be absolutely controlled in all kinds of weather; and they bring freedom from the back-breaking work, ash-dust and poisonous coal-gases which attend the use of cheap heating devices.

You have noticed that the first question asked in buying or renting is: "How is it heated?" This is because it has come to be recognized as most important. Please note the serene satisfaction and the convincing air of the real estate agents who answer: "The building is perfectly warmed by an IDEAL Boiler and AMERICAN Radiators." TAFT RAILROAD BILL CHAMPIONED BY ROOT

New York Senator Declares That the Roosevelt Policies Are Being Carried Out.

AMENDMENTS ARE PUT IN

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—Senator Elkins, on behalf of a majority of the Inter-State Commerce Committee, to-day introduced seven amendments to the Administration's Railroad bill, and Senator Root of New York began a long speech in defense of the measure and the amendments. As had been expected, Senator Aldrich returned to his seat to-day, and the insurgents are convinced that there is a close connection between his return and the introduction of the amendments intended to meet some of the objections to the measure.

The amendments are far from meeting the full desires of the insurgent and Democratic Senators. As described by an insurgent, they include only the smaller amendments asked for, and not all of those. No provision is made for a review of traffic agreements by the Inter-State Commerce Commission, the sections dealing with stock and bond issues are left unchanged, and no amendment is offered to the amendment permitting railroads to acquire competing lines in which they already hold 50 per cent. or more of the capital stock.

Such amendments as are conceded are apparently generally acceptable to the insurgents, with the possible exception of one making it clearer than ever that water lines are excluded from the operation of the act.

The first concession specifies that the commerce court's power of review of the orders of the commission shall not exceed that now vested in circuit courts. This amendment Mr. Wickersham formerly expressed a willingness to insert in the bill, but Senator Aldrich objected.

The next amendment provides an appeal from the interlocutory decrees of the commerce court to the Supreme Court of the United States when the decrees enjoin or continue injunctions against orders of the commission. It is further provided that the injunctions in question shall issue on hearing after not less than five days' notice to the commission.

On the question of allowing the complaining shipper to be represented by counsel a half concession is made in the form of an amendment authorizing the court to permit such counsel to be heard. Some insurgents afterward expressed themselves as not at all satisfied with this concession.

The last amendment provides that the bill shall go into effect sixty days after its passage.

Mr. Root spoke for nearly two hours, holding the entire attention of the Senate, but interruptions presented him from concluding his remarks. He caused surprise in his opening sentences by saying that the court of commerce provided in the bill was one of its provisions for which he cared little. On general principles he said he was opposed to the establishment of new courts, but in view of the fact that the President, the Attorney General, the Inter-State Commerce Commissioners, and practical railroad men all agreed that the technical questions involved ought to be handled before a specially trained tribunal, he declared himself willing to waive his more indefinite objection.

"On the whole," said Mr. Root, "I consider the bill a decided, positive, and progressive means toward accomplishing the purposes for which the law creating the Inter-State Commerce Commission was adopted."

Mr. Root read from Mr. Taft's speech of acceptance, and compared his lanaguage with that of various messages of President Roosevelt setting forth the need of amendments to the Inter-State Commerce act, and argued that Mr. Taft's policy continued that of the two previous Administrations. The insurgents, it can be said, were not much impressed with this effort on Mr. Root's part to harmonize the declarations and policies of Mr. Taft with those of Mr. Roosevelt. It is not unlikely that one of the insurgents to-morrow will call Mr. Root to a close reading of the text of the papers from which he read, and ask him to explain certain alleged discrepancies.

"There are many indications of the triumphant success of the rate law," said Mr. Root, "and one of them is the disappearance of cases dealing with rates in themselves unreasonable. I well remember when the bill was under discussion that Washington rang like a boiler factory with talk of the damage it would do to commerce. But this past Winter the President of the biggest railroad line in my State told me that if he could wipe that law from the statute books by simply turning his hand he would not do it."

Mr. Root spoke strongly in favor of the provision putting the conduct of cases in defense of the commission's orders in the hands of the Attorney General. He said that he thought the tendency of Government bureaus and commissions to employ "sporadically" their own counsel was one of the worst symptoms of the Governmental trend of the day, and one against which we should set our faces. All the law business of the Government, he said, should be under the supervision of the Attorney General.

The insurgents besieged Senator Elkins this afternoon to find out what hope there was of other amendments to the bill being accepted by the committee, and the Chairman gave them some encouragement. He said that at an early date an amendment would be brought in providing for the review of traffic agreements by the commission.

"What is happening," said an insurgent afterward, "is that the lawyers are trying to frame up an amendment that will seem to do something it leaves undone. That takes lots of trouble and no little genius."

MAY TRY JAPANESE SPIES.

War Department Thinks Philippine Law May Cover Case.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The War Department is studying the Philippine law with a view to determining whether or not there is good ground for trying and punishing the two Japanese who were arrested in Cavite charged with attempting to bribe an American soldier to supply them with plans of the fortifications of the harbor of Manila.

The officials have satisfied themselves that the United States law does not cover the case, but they are by no means sure that the Philippine law, which is a composite of modern American law and the ancient Spanish code, may not suffice to meet this case.

SMITH'S GAME FIGHT.

Earns Draw Against Paddy Sullivan with One Eye Closed.

Fighting the greater part of the distance with one eye closed, Sammy Smith made a game rally in the last few rounds of the ten-round battle with Paddy Sullivan at the Sharkey Athletic Club last night, and at the end made an even fight of a bout which at one stage looked overwhelmingly in favor of Sullivan. In the tenth Smith jabbed Sullivan with a wicked left and sent across several hard rights to the head which started blood flowing from a cut over Sullivan's right eye. Smith was the stronger of the two when the bout ended.

Sullivan was the aggressor at the start, and rushed Smith against the ropes under a volley of short arm jolts. In the second Sullivan pounded his right against Smith's left eye so hard and so often that before the round ended the eye was closed and bleeding. Half blinded, Smith fought on gamely for four or five rounds, while Sullivan forced the fighting and tried to get over a knock-out punch. Smith ducked cleverly, and many of Sullivan's blows went wild, although he punished his man badly up to the sixth round. Smith rallied in the sixth and let Sullivan run into straight left jabs several of which rocked him. The seventh was an even thing, both men slugging and trying in vain to land a telling punch. Sullivan forced the fighting in the eighth, but tired toward the end, while Smith seemed to get stronger. In the ninth Smith worried Sullivan with smashes to the face, while Sullivan kept hammering wicked jabs against Smith's badly damaged eye. Toward the end of the round Smith, with a burst of speed, sailed into Sullivan and drove him to the ropes with a shower of right and left hooks to the face. Sullivan opened up the cut over Smith's sore eye again, and both fighters were tired. Smith rallied again in the tenth and jolted Sullivan with blows on the head and body which made him wince. Smith's fast finish won the approval and cheers of the crowd. In the preliminaries there were two knockouts. Young Mitchell put Tommy Clarke away in two rounds and Young Phillips knocked out Kid Gans in two rounds.

MAY PREVENT BIG FIGHT.

Church Federation Will Take Legal Steps Against Bout at Emeryville.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 30.—The Church Federation of this district began to-day a fight against the holding of the Johnson-Jeffries fight at Emeryville July 4 by instructing counsel to take legal steps to prevent the contest.

BOXING AND WRESTLING.

Stanley Ketchel wired to New Orleans from Pittsburg canceling the match for a twenty-round bout which he was to have fought with Hugo Kelly near that city April 10. In his message Ketchel stated that physicians had declared that one of his hands is broken.

Frank Gotch, the champion wrestler, who witnessed the Zbyszko-Mahmout bout in Chicago Tuesday night, which Zbyszko won, made the following comment: "Zbyszko is one of the greatest defensive wrestlers I ever saw, and in addition to this his great strength makes him most formidable. Mahmout showed the greater cleverness, but it brought him nothing when matched against the powerful Pole."

After fighting nineteen rounds and apparently gaining a slight lead over his opponent, Jack Burns of Salinas, Cal., lost the contest in the twentieth and final round to Jim Barry of Chicago Tuesday night in San Francisco. Burns took the count four times in this round and was saved from a knockout by the bell.

At the next show of the Marathon Athletic Club of Brooklyn the attraction will be a ten-round exhibition between Sailor Burke, the local middleweight, and Jack (Twin) Sullivan of Boston. The Sailor declares that the middleweight title looks so easy for him to annex that he is going right down the line until it is his own. This sounds like a rather strong statement from Burke, but Jimmy Johnson, who is now looking after his affairs, is willing to back him up in it and says that after Burke gets through with Sullivan he will immediately match him with Frank Klaus of Pittsburg.

Owen Moran, who is finishing up his training at Lakewood, N. J., for his bout with Abe Attel at the Fairmont Athletic Club to-morrow night, sends a tip to New York in these words: "Put a bet down on me to beat Attel. I was never in better shape. I've always had it on Attel and I'll prove it even in the short period of ten rounds. Some people think I need the distance to beat him. That is a mistake. I'll win to-morrow night all the way."

SORG MAKES NEW COACHING RECORD

A new world's coaching record for a long-distance trip was made yesterday when Paul A. Sorg, the prominent horse show exhibitor, drove his four-in-hand to the Holland House from Atlantic City. The distance covered was 134 miles, while the actual time on the road was 12 hours 18 minutes, including stops and unavoidable delays. At several stages of the journey considerable time was lost through delays at ferries and failure to have the relays ready owing to the fact that the coach arrived at the various stations ahead of time. Deducting these delays the actual time Mr. Sorg was driving was a trifle over ten hours, which averaged 13:04 miles an hour for the entire journey.

The second half of the journey began yesterday morning at Lakewood when Mr. Sorg with twelve passengers on the coach All Sport left the Laurel House for New York. The conditions from Lakewood somewhat handicapped the coaching party owing to the poor condition of the roads and the loss of time at the Tottenville and St. George ferries.

When the coach left Lakewood the record from Atlantic City had been reduced forty-five minutes, and Mr. Sorg, with Charles A. Baudouine on the box, started to complete the record-breaking journey. The first change of horses was made at Farmingdale. From this point the relays were made at Freehold and Wickatunk in New Jersey. The coaching party was held up for nearly ten minutes at the Tottenville Ferry. With a change of horses at this point a cockhorse was pressed into service for the Staten Island hills.

The cockhorse was dropped at New Dorp, where another change of horses was made. The coach continued its journey to St. George, where a few minutes were lost in waiting for the ferry. Thirty minutes were consumed in crossing the bay. Leaving the Battery, Mr. Sorg, driving his regular town, four passed up Broadway to Fourth Street, from thence to Washington Square to where the coach swung into Fifth Avenue and proceeded to the Holland House, which was reached at 2:09 P. M., which by a peculiar coincidence was exactly the same time the coach reached Lakewood on the preceding day. The run from the Battery to the Holland House occupied twenty-seven minutes. This was due to the congested condition of the traffic. On the trip to Atlantic City the journey between these points made on Sunday morning was made in nineteen minutes, when the coaching party was not held up by the traffic.

One of the features of this world's record-breaking trip was the fact that Mr. Sorg carried twelve passengers on the top of the coach, while the interior was filled with baggage, which materially handicapped the driver during the entire route.

The best previous time accomplished by a four-in-hand was made by James Hazen Hyde, who drove from New York to Lakewood in 8 hours and 50 minutes. The route taken by Mr. Hyde was different from that covered yesterday by Mr. Sorg, and as a result the times do not compare in the record.

WESTON AROUSES GALESBURG

Special to The New York Times.

GALESBURG, Ill., March 30.—Edward Payson Weston, the veteran pedestrian, arrived in Galesburg to-day at 2:10 P. M. on his transcontinental journey, eleven days ahead of his schedule. About 12:30 P. M. a delegation of members of the Galesburg Athletic Club left the city to meet him, and they walked almost to Surrey, where they greeted him. A much larger delegation was present at the city limits. When the water works was reached, six blasts of the whistle were given to apprise the people of Weston's arrival, and a delegation swelled the ranks at that point. Here Weston raised his cap and green flag in salutation to the Mayor.

At West Main Street crossing a large crowd was assembled and heartily cheered the veteran. At every street crossing the crowd was augmented, until fully 500 persons followed him to the hotel, where they remained, shouting lustily for the plucky traveler for several minutes.

At West Main Street Police Chief Hinman met Mr. Weston and escorted him to the hotel. Weston left Smithshire, 31 miles from this city, at 6:30 this morning, and made excellent time during his morning's jaunt, and was royally welcomed at all the country towns through which he passed. As he arrived at the railroad station he looked at his watch and, noting it was 2:20, remarked: "Well, I have made thirty-one miles in the last nine hours." He at once made his way to the Union Hotel, where accommodations had been engaged beforehand, and went immediately to his room to escape the crowd. He was much pleased at the courtesy shown by the people of this city, and left at 4 o'clock bearing a multitude of good wishes for his ultimate success.

He stated before leaving that he would not stop in Chicago, as he intended to decline all invitations there and continue eastward over the turnpike.

CAPT. HART EXAMINED.

Commission Says There Is No Reason Why He Should Not Play Football.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., March 30.—As a result of a charge recently made that Capt. Edward J. Hart of the Princeton (1910) football team risks his life every time he plays football, because of an injury to his neck received some years ago, Prof. McLenahan, Chairman of the Faculty Committee on Outdoor Sports, issued a statement to-day. This statement declares that Hart is running no greater risk than any other football player has to encounter, and it states that a specially constructed headgear is a needless precaution.

Incidentally, one of the physicians quoted is a Yale graduate and another is a Harvard alumnus. Prof. McLenahan's statement follows:

First—The original injury in no way affected the bony or ligamentous structures of the spine. It consisted in the rupture of some small and unimportant tendinous or muscular structure.

Second—There is no reason why he should not play football with the facility and safety that pertain to the ordinary individual.

Third—No special apparatus is required either for safety or efficiency.

Dr. Gibney, acting as Chairman of the commission, says in his report to the committee, of which I am a member, that he has gone over the case of Mr. Hart very thoroughly. We have had a number of X-rays taken, and we are unanimously of the opinion that he has never sustained a fracture of the vertebrae or of any part thereof, and we further find there is no serious danger to his neck and nothing to prevent his playing football. There is no reason why he should have a head mask or protection of any kind unless it be a high collar of leather or some soft material to prevent strain.

In spite of all rumors to the contrary, this examination, held on March 11, 1910, is the only physical examination which Mr. Hart has undergone since the close of the last football season.

A commission consisting of Dr. V. P. Gibney, Dr. C. L. Gibson, and Dr. John A. Hartwell of New York was requested to examine the condition of Mr. Hart. After a thorough examination of Mr. Hart and of a large number of X-rays taken by Dr. E. W. Caldwell of New York the commission reached the above conclusions unanimously.

SENAC DEFEATS ROSSI.

Contestants Object to Decisions—Frenchman Wins by 4 Points to 3.

Prof. Louis R. Senac defeated Prof. John Rossi last night in a double fencing contest at Carnegie Lyceum for the championship of America by the score of 4 to 3. The weapons used were foils and duelling swords. In the latter Prof. Senac excelled by the scant margin of one touch, while the former contest resulted in a tie, but one touch being made in this event by Prof. Senac, which was protested, and if later awarded to him will add to his lead.

In the opening event, which was an amateur contest between G. Pardigon of the French School and J. Schiaffino of the Italian School, theformer was victorious by a large margin, scoring 16 points to his opponent's 1. This started a general dissatisfaction among the Italian competitors and officials, which was carried into the final bout.

Immediately after the decision of the event was announced to the spectators G. T. Conti, a celebrated swordsman of the Italian-American Fencers' Club, took the floor and made an announcement in which he tried to explain that although his countryman had been defeated, from an Italian point of view he was practically the victor by virtue of the fact that he had disarmed his opponent.

In the final bout for the championship both contestants, particularly Professor Rossi, became furious during the bout, when touches which he thought he had made were not awarded to him. On one occasion when Professor Senac scored a clean touch and was awarded the point Rossi protested against the decision, throwing off his mask and for a time refused to continue.

The first contest of the championship resulted in a victory for Professor Senac and after the combatants had retired to the dressing room for the intermission a heated argument occurred in the Italian's room, in which Rossi refused to enter the final bout. The officials finally persuaded him to finish the competition after a great delay. The summaries:

G. Pardigon, French School, defeated J. Schiaffeno, Italian School, 16 to 1.

Duelling Swords, Championship.—Prof. Louis R. Senac defeated Prof. John Rossi, 2 to 1.

Foils, Championship.—Prof. Louis R. Senac and Prof. John Rossi fenced a draw, 2 to 2.

Durland Wins Indoor Polo Fete.

The final game for the National indoor polo championship was played last night at Durland's Riding Academy, Sixty-sixth Street, west of Central Park, when the Durland team defeated the Cricklewood trio by the score of 7 goals to 1. The contest was one-sided throughout, the Cricklewood team scoring its only goal in the last thirty seconds of play. The women's Fue de Barre was won by Miss Lillian Krauss after an exciting competition with Mrs. John Gerken. The musical ride, in which fifty couples participated, was led by Mr. and Mrs. John Gerken.

Benefit for Riding Masters.

The benefit for the riding masters of the Central Park Riding Academy was held last night at the riding school, Seventh Avenue near Fifty-ninth Street. The programme consisted of a fancy dress ride, a quadrille by the pupils of the academy, an international military drill, a mounted drill by a detachment of the First Company Signal Corps, N. G. N. Y., and various other manoeuvres.

SHEPPARD BOYS LOSE FAMILY RELAY

Melvin's Brothers So Slow in Early Stages That the Bacon Boys Finally Won.

That speedy running is not a trait of the Sheppard family as a whole was shown last night in the games of the Loughlin Lyceum at the Forty-seventh Regiment Armory of Brooklyn when the world's champion middle distance runner's brothers lost so much space in the first two stages of a "family" relay that Melvin was unable to make up the distance in the final relay. The Bacon family won. There were four teams to start in this novel event, the Bacons, Garings, Rileys, and Sheppards. The first Sheppard was not much of a sprinter, and in his 100-yard task he finished a bad last. The Garing tribe had the honors at the end of the first relay, with the Rileys close behind.

On the second relay the Sheppards fell behind nearly half a lap, and it would have taken even more than the champion's ability to make up the big handicap on Frank Riley and "Charley" Bacon. Riley ran a fine race, and made up nearly twenty yards on Bacon, and was beaten by only one yard.

The five-mile scratch bicycle race furnished a lot of excitement through numerous spills during the running, and at the finish the big crowd hissed the tactics of Hugh Brown and Walter Raleigh, who pocketed "Billy" Vandendries, the star board floor performer. They effectively shut out the latter, who was the only survivor of a big field, but Raleigh was disqualified and Vandendries moved up to second place.

The games were one hour late in starting, and drills and dances took up much of the time between events.

The summaries:

100-Yard Dash, (Handicap.)—Won by F. E. Holloway, Central Branch Y. M. C. A., (8 yards;) W. J. McKenna, New York A. C., (7½ yards,) second; D. J. Ferris, Loughlin Lyceum, (8½ yards,) third. Time—0:10.

Class A Pool at Doyle's.

In the Class A amateur pool tournament in progress at John Doyle's Billiard Academy, Forty-second Street and Broadway, E. Raynolds easily defeated R. Fischer yesterday afternoon by the score of 75 to 43. Raynolds played a good game throughout, making some hard shots. In the evening game H. Phelps defeated C. Emery Emerson by the score of 75 to 50. In to-night's game C. Emerson and R. Fischer will be the contestants.

Red Sox Lead Cincinnati Reds.

HOT SPRINGS, Va., March 30.—The best that the Cincinnatis can now possibly do in the schedule of fifteen games with Boston of the American League is to win to-morrow and make the series a tie. The American League is one game ahead now. Rain this afternoon prevented play, which shortens the series by one game and leaves but one more to play.

New Baseball Park for Cape May.

A new baseball park will be provided for the team at Cape May, N. J., this year, the location being on the Thomas Robb track, near the Hotel Chalfonte. A grand stand to seat 2,000 persons will be built on the ocean side of the park, while the bleachers will have the north side, and will seat 3,000 persons.

NO RACING AT JAMAICA.

Metropolitan Club's Events Will Be Run on Aqueduct Track.

It has been definitely decided that the Spring meeting of the Metropolitan Jockey Club will be conducted at the Aqueduct track of the Queens County Jockey Club. For some time rumors have been rife that there would be no Spring racing at the Jamaica track, but it was not until yesterday that it was decided that the programme would be run off at Aqueduct.

No change will be made in the programme as originally intended for the Jamaica meeting, and the only alteration in the schedule is making use of the Aqueduct track, which, with its long stretches, is a much more desirable course over which to race. This change will make the Aqueduct meeting continue from April 15, the opening of the racing season, until May 12. Under the date schedule agreed upon formerly the sport was to be conducted at the Jamaica course from April 29 to May 12.

Another important change that has been made is that, in consideration of the Spring change, the Queens County Jockey Club has forfeited its Fall dates, and they will be shared by the Empire City Racing Association and the Metropolitan Jockey Club. It has not been decided whether these dates will be run off at the Jamaica track or the Yonkers course presided over by James Butler.

MAY BET IN CALIFORNIA.

Money Passes Freely Again at the Races at Oakland.

OAKLAND, Cal., March 30.—As a result of the decision rendered by the Supreme Court yesterday, upholding the right of a stakeholder in connection with oral betting, money was passed freely in making wagers at Emeryville to-day. Paying winning wagers after each race was also allowed.

H. G. Bedwell shipped part of his stable to New York to-day. The rest will leave to-morrow.

Two Turf Victories for Turner.

PARIS, March 30.—Nash Turner carried off two first prizes and W. K. Vanderbilt twice secured second honors in the racing at Maisons-Laffitte to-day. In the Prix d'Epone of $600, six furlongs, Mr. Turner's Restless Girl finished in the van and his Alby won the Prix du Paddock of $800 for a distance of ten furlongs. Mr. Vanderbilt's Oversight and Messidor III. finished second, respectively, in the Prix Perplexe of $2,000, seven furlongs, and the Prix des Haras Nationaux of $3,000, for three-year-olds, distance eleven furlongs.

No Horse Show at Speedway Parade.

The Road Drivers' Association at a meeting last night at the Hotel Cadillac decided to abandon the horse show, which for the past four years has been the feature of the annual parade of the association. In addition the parade will be materially curtailed and a series of brushes will be substituted. The question of making the Sunday brushes more attractive was discussed, and a committee was appointed to arrange impromptu races. Dr. Foster, Chairman of the Brush Committee, reported that he had collected more than $200 for the Executive Committee and Board of Directors Cups, and that the rules and regulations governing the Speedway matinees would be submitted at the next meeting.

The feature of School 77's games, which will take place in the Eighth Regiment Armory, Ninety-fourth Street and Park Avenue, on April 9, will be the contests of aeroplanes built by the boys of the school. Frank Hader a thirteen-year-old lad, has constructed a Wright model, which is perfect in detail and looks to have some merit as a real flier.

Individuality is a fundamental trait of mankind.

It is as characteristic of feet as of faces. In fact some feet defy a fit in a ready-made shoe.

Fitting such feet as these is a specialty with us, and we fit them perfectly, too.

This is how we do it.

The orthopedic specialist in charge of our Custom-Made Shoe department makes a thorough examination and prescribes the remedial construction in the case of crippled, deformed or abnormal feet, which will overcome natural deficiencies.

Plaster casts are then taken of the feet, on which our skilled workmen construct the shoes.

The result—a remedial shoe that follows every line of the foot.

We use only English Bend Sole Leather in our custom-made shoes, because it is the best sole leather obtainable—durable and flexible.

And so, many persons with perfectly normal feet are now wearing our custom-made shoes because they are perfect in fit, and wear so long they are the most economical shoes in the end.

New York's Gas Service The Best in the World

It will take 810,000 tons of coal and 90,000,000 gallons of oil to furnish gas this year to the consumers in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx.

From this mountain of coal and sea of oil your Company will give you gas of 22-candle power, a gas of higher grade than is furnished in any other American city. It requires 20,250 cars to transport the coal, each car carrying 40 tons, that means a train 127 miles long.

Before gas became the chief lighting, heating, cooking and power fuel, the one-ton coal cart was a familiar sight in our streets. Imagine 810,000 coal carts passing through our crowded city every year, and the consequent dirt—and your drudgery.

In 1902 there was a coal famine. You had to have gas, and 62,250 tons of coal were imported from Wales at a cost of three-quarters of a million dollars.

Nowadays we take the coal, extract the work, drudgery, dirt, ashes, smoke and part of the price. We do all the handling and shoveling, and you get all that is of value in coal—the cleanest and most perfect of fuels.

Your company desires to serve your interests in every way. Information cheerfully given at any gas office.

Chicago Catcher Found Guilty of Violating Laws of Organized Baseball.

CINCINNATI, Ohio, March 30.—John G. Kling, the premier catcher of the Chicago Nationals, will be reinstated in organized baseball upon his payment of a fine of $700, according to the decision of the National Commission, made public to-day. The decision was signed by Chairman August Herrmann and Thomas J. Lynch, President of the National League. B. B. Johnson, President of the American League did not sign.

The commission will require Charles W. Murphy, President of the Chicago Nationals, to show cause why he should not be fined at least $200 for the violation of Rule 47, which forbids a club to submit a new contract to an ineligible player. Furthermore, the Chicago Nationals will not be allowed to trade, sell, or release Kling for one season, nor will it be permitted to pay Kling's fine, directly or indirectly, under a "severe" penalty.

Kling was not fined for his failure to report to the Chicago Club, nor for the violation of his contract, but solely for his connection with the Missouri Athletic Club's semi-professional team of Kansas City, and his playing with and against ineligible players during the time he was with that club.

Kling was fined $200 for "his action with reference to his connection with the Missouri Athletic Club, and particularly in permitting an ineligible player (Frazer) to participate in games with that club." He will also be required to pay a fine of $200 for his violation of Rule 47 and $300 additional for his violation of that rule in defiance of a notice from the commission not to do so.

Kling will also be required to carry out the terms of his original contract, which still has one more season to run. This called for a salary of $4,500 a year. The commission states that Kling's action cannot be termed a "violation of contract," as it has been understood and accepted in baseball law.

In speaking of the leave of absence granted Kling by Murphy on April 26, 1909, the decision says that Murphy's statements are misleading. It says that the leave of absence has no bearing on the case, as "it was not one entered into or agreed upon in good faith."

The statements of Kling that he did not know he was playing with or against ineligible players about Kansas City and in the series played at Chicago are termed "not correct or true" in the decision.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., March 30.—"Although the terms imposed by the National Commission are pretty severe, I shall abide by them, and it will afford me the greatest delight to play with Chicago again," said John Kling to-day when apprised of the decision of the National Commission to his case.

"I think the fine is too high, and it is not to my liking to play for a salary of $4,500, but I love baseball, and I am willing to meet the conditions imposed against me in order to get back into the game," said Kling.

"I have received no official notice of any kind," he said, "but expect to receive it soon, and I shall join the Chicago Club within five or six days after I receive notice."

YANKEES IN GOOD FORM.

Sudden Brace in Playing Gives Them Easy Victory Over Montreal.

Special to The New York Times.

ATHENS, Ga., March 30.—After losing the third straight game to the Yankees this morning by the score of 10 to 4, Montreal's Eastern League team bade adieu to Athens to make way for Fred Lake's Boston Nationals to-morrow afternoon.

To-day was the first time the New Yorks looked like a real ball club. Not so much because the Royals were soundly beaten, but every player in the Yankee line-up looked the part of a major leaguer. The play of each was full of snap and vigor. The aggregation showed inside baseball and plenty of hitting. Most of the ten runs were earned. Sixteen hits with a home run, three triples, and two doubles thrown in will go far toward winning any baseball game. The score:

COLLEGE BASEBALL.

Columbia Nine Defeated.

The Columbia baseball nine went down to defeat in the game played with Manhattan College on South Field yesterday afternoon by the score of 6 to 5. The hopes of the Morningside team were raised when they rallied in the eighth inning, increasing their number of runs from one to five. They could not overcome the lead of the Manhattan team in that inning, however, thus losing their only chance for a victory, for the game was called in the beginning of the ninth on account of darkness. In spite of the good form in which the Blue and White team backed up Ulrich, their freshman pitcher, the strong hitting on the part of the visitors was too much for them. Ulrich pitched throughout the game, Murray, Lee, and O'Neale being saved for later games. The score:

MATTY AND RUBE SCORE A SHUTOUT

Birmingham Team Gets Only One Hit Off Each of New York's Pitchers.

Special to The New York Times.

BIRMINGHAM, Ala., March 30.—Manager McGraw and his regular team of Giants defeated Birmingham this afternoon by a score of 1 to 0 in one of the prettiest-played games of the Spring season. It was a nip-and-tuck fight all the way through. The Giants had great difficulty in hitting the curved ball pitched by Lowell and Manuel, but after they had made one run they felt comfortably safe, for there was no chance of the minor leaguers hitting Mathewson and Marquard.

Early in the game Mathewson saw that his team mates were going to have trouble in hitting, so he turned loose a beautiful display of scientific twirling. The fans of Birmingham were so pleased that they cheered him at the end of every inning. Only one man got a hit off Matty, and he was the only one to reach first base, as Matty never allowed a base on balls, and there was no error to help. Marquard succeeded Mathewson, and he was equally as effective. He relied on his speed, and batter after batter struck out. He also allowed only one hit.

The run made by New York was in the first inning. After two were out Murray hit to deep left for three bases and scored on a hard-driven single by Seymour. During the afternoon Seymour got two more hits, but neither of them came at a time when they could count in the score.

In the eighth inning Devore fell while running for a foul ball and sprained his ankle so badly that he had to retire from the game. He was succeeded by Shaw, who made two beautiful catches. The score:

Central New York League.

ALBANY, N. Y., March 30.—The Central New York Baseball League was organized here to-day with these cities represented: Geneva, H. L. Trimble; Cortland, H. Guinion; Oswego, H. Paige; J. L. Bacon, Rome; T. J. Donovan, Oneida; Thomas Donovan, Auburn. J. L. Bacon of Troy was elected Temporary President.

Applications for admission were received from four other cities and referred to a committee to decide upon the most desirable cities to complete the circuit. Application will be made for protection as a Class D. League.

It was voted to open the season May 12 and close it Sept. 10. The schedule will be adopted at a meeting in Syracuse April 16.

Brooklyn Team at Nashville.

Special to The New York Times.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 30.—The Brooklyn Club arrived here to-day in time to see the Chicago Cubs defeat the Nashville team 9 to 2. There are twenty in the Dahlen party, twelve men having been left behind at Chattanooga as a second team, which goes to Knoxville on Saturday to play Tennessee University. The Dodgers will play three games here, and then jump to Richmond, Va.

Giants' Second Team Idle.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, March 30.—The proposed game between the second team of the New York Giants and the Dallas Club to-day was canceled because of rain. The New Yorkers have been unable to practice either yesterday or to-day on account of wet weather.

BASEBALL NOTES.

Manager McDermott has arranged a long list of good games for the Fordham Preparatory School baseball nine, the first of which will be played on Saturday with Townsend Harris at Fordham. The schedule consists of twenty games, seventeen home contests and three trips. Nearly all of the local high schools are booked to play the interscholastic champions of several seasons' standing. The team of 1910 is a far better outfit than the 1909 team, and Manager McDermott looks for another successful season.

The Ridgewoods will oppose the Royal Giants in Meyerrose Park, Covert Avenue "L" station, Ridgewood, on Sunday at 3:15 P. M. The Brightons and Hanovers played another tie game last Sunday, and they have been booked to play the early contest next Sunday at 1 P. M.

The All-Nationals and Royal Giants will be the attraction on Saturday at 3:30 P. M. at Bronx Oval, 163d Street and Southern Boulevard, in the first Saturday game of the season at the Oval. Thomas and McClellan will do the pitching for the Royals, with Bradley behind the bat. Sunday's game at the Oval will be between the Bronx Athletics and the Springfield team of the Connecticut League.

Walter Johnson, the Washington American League team's star twirler, yesterday signed his contract for the coming season, the management finally having come to his terms.

Champion Batsman Ty Cobb of the Detroit Club, who has failed to report to the Tigers for Spring training for some unknown reason, is keeping himself in shape at Augusta, Ga., by wheeling Ty Cobb, Jr., about in a baby carriage.

Billy Gilbert, the old second baseman of the Giants, released two years ago, has been engaged by the Wilkesbarre Club of the New York State League.

RICE SHAKES UP CREW.

Columbia 'Varsity Eight Takes Three Men from Second Boat.

The Columbia 'Varsity boat suffered a considerable shake-up yesterday, the boating order being altered by the addition of three men from the second eight. As the boat stands now, it is much heavier than before the change, and greater speed was gotten out of the new combination in the trial sprints with the second boat.

Not only were new oarsmen added to the first 'Varsity, but the men already in the boat were moved into radically different seats. Steinschneider was shifted from No. 7 to the bow oar, thus sending Snevily back to the second eight. Murphy was left at stroke. Miller was moved down from No. 3 to No. 7, and Dellenbaugh and Culman were moved from the second 'Varsity to fill the places at No. 6 and No. 7, respectively. By this latter shift Downing and Pitt were sent into the other shell. Moore was left at his old position at No. 4, and Hamann at No. 3. The seat at No. 2 is still the one that seems to be the most unsettled, and Downing, Clapp, and Pulleyn are being tried out for it. At yesterday's practice, when this new order was tried for the first time, Clapp was sent in.

Coach Rice said yesterday that he intended to work indefinitely with this order, but in spite of this more shape-ups are looked for each day.

Wray to See Yale Crews at Work.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, March 30.—John Kennedy, the crew coach at Yale, has invited Jim Wray, Harvard's rowing coach, to stop over at New Haven on his way back from the Harvard-Navy race at Annapolis next month to remain as his guest. Wray will undoubtedly accept, and while here will go out on the Yale launch to watch the crews practice. This is the first time that Wray has been invited to New Haven to watch the Yale oarsmen at work. When Harvard rowed Columbia on the Charles River last year Kennedy was Coach Wray's guest during that race and was subsequently entertained by Wray at the latter's home in Cambridge.

Courtney Shifts Cornell Oarsmen.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., March 30.—Ferguson, No. 3 oar in the Cornell 'Varsity crew since the combination was formed in February, has given way to Beyea, an older oarsman. Ferguson was in the freshman boat last year and now goes back to the junior 'Varsity, where six of his old rowing mates are seated. Beyea, the new man, has rowed in minor crews. In place of Gosman, the freshman bow oar, who died recently, Coach Courtney has given Brown a trial. Trimpl has been shifted to the junior four.

Engineers' Athletic Cracks Training.

The Twenty-second Regiment Engineers will profit by the military athletic championship meet which will be held April 11, for their meet will be on Monday night, and cracks who are training for the championship meeting will take this occasion to try out for the big affair a week later, as the Monday night winners will naturally be picked to represent the Engineers in the championships. There are fourteen events on the programme, which will be followed by a promenade and reception. The games will start promptly at 8:15. In addition to the many track and field athletes, will be Van den Dries, who will try to equal or lower the American record in the two-mile bicycle race.

Bob Ganley for the Newark Team.

Bob Ganley, former Captain of the Washington team of the American League, who was one of the outfielders of Connie Mack's Athletics last year, declines to play with Danny Shay's Kansas City team. Last Fall Mack told Shay that he could have Ganley, and the Kansas City manager offered a good price to secure him. When it came to reporting time this Spring Ganley refused to sign a contract unless he received a major leaguer's salary, or something like $4,000 for the season, so it is contended. This proposition was quickly turned down by Shay, who has called off the deal, and Ganley reverts back to the Athletics. Now it is said that Manager Joe McGinnity wants Ganley for his Newark team, and the "Iron Man" expects to get him when Connie Mack goes to Newark next Sunday to pit his team against McGinnity's men at Wiedenmayer's Park. If terms are agreed upon it is proposed to play Ganley at left field for Newark in place of Kelly.

Special to The New York Times.

PINEHURST, N. C., March 30.—Walter J. Travis, former British and National Golf champion, led a high-class field in to-day's thirty-six-hole qualification round of the tenth annual united North and South amateur championship golf tournament, winning the gold medal offered with a card of 147. Close after him, in 152, came W. R. Tuckerman of the Chevy Chase Club.

Scores of 174 and a triple tie between H. H. Cutler of Blue Mound, S. D.; Wyatt of Fond du Lac, and L. D. Pierce of Woodland marked the limit of admission to the first division, Mr. Cutler winning the play-off.

The entrance field numbered 106, and in the way of class and representation the tournament is without a parallel. Match play continues through Saturday, concluding with thirty-six-hole finals in six divisions. The scores:

Big Entry for Brooklyn Meet.

More than 400 athletes will participate in the annual athletic meet of the Central Young Men's Christian Association and Fourteenth Regiment Athletic Association, which will be held at the latter's armory Saturday night. This number of entries is the largest ever received for a meet conducted by these organizations. Many teams have been entered in the inter-club medley relay race. Each team will consist of four members, the first man will run 220 yards, second 880 yards, third 440 yards, and the fourth 220 yards. A dozen teams from New Jersey and Greater New York will compete in the combination one-mile handicap relay race.

Athletics in West Unwieldy.

CHICAGO, March 30.—At a conference held at the Chicago Athletic Association between President Everett C. Brown of the National Amateur Athletic Union and Secretary James E. Sullivan of the same organization, plans were discussed which may lead to a redistricting of some of the Western territory under the control of the governing body.

"We have been requested to consider the matter of rearranging certain territory west of the Mississippi River," said President Brown. "Those who request this action argue that at present the district is too large, and that their athletic activities require a more central location. If the step is taken about the same general scheme will be followed as was done on the Pacific Coast."

Tire Lecture at Long Island A. C.

The monthly meeting of the Long Island Automobile Club was held last night at the Park Plaza clubhouse, Brooklyn, when Edward H. Whitman gave an interesting talk on tires. The subject was specifically treated and enjoyed by a big crowd. It was announced during the evening that Colgate Hoyt will deliver an illustrated lecture on automobiling abroad Friday evening, April 8, which will cover a trip over Northern Africa and the Island of Sicily.

The man who wants to be sure of having a car that is always ready, day or night —that will take him to his office in the morning, can be run by his family all day—then take them to the theatre the same night

—a car that you don't see in the "repair shops"

—a car that doesn't have to be adjusted every time it is taken out

—a car made of the "stuff" that can't possibly be excelled in cars costing $2,000 or $3,000 more or twice as much

—then that man ought to take the time to stop in our showrooms at Broadway and 51st Street—and see for himself the Oldsmobile.

While each year has produced a new model in Oldsmobiles, it is not a New car, but one that has made good for Twelve years.

In finish, lines, symmetry—and that indescribable something called "class"—the Oldsmobile is always in with the few leading American makes.

A critical and minute examination will prove the car's qualities. Therefore, our invitation is cordial and sincere that you stop in to see the 1910 Oldsmobiles—four and six cylinders.

WHITE

CHAPTER II

The White gasoline car is designed and built to run at a lower cost of upkeep, mile for mile, than any other car on the American market. Some of the factors which ensure economy both in fuel consumption and in cost of maintenance are:

Intake Gases Heated

By including intake passages within the block engine casting, intake gases are heated. As a result, every particle of gasoline is completely vaporized and each cylinder receives a uniform mixture of the proper richness, thus insuring very low fuel consumption.

Exhaust Gases Cooled

By water-jacketing the exhaust passages, the temperature of the exhaust gases is reduced as soon as they leave the cylinders. As a result, the pressure of these gases is greatly reduced and there is a minimum loss of power due to back pressure. This factor also results in low fuel consumption.

Four-Speed Transmission

The direct drive is on third gear and practically all driving in town is done on this gear. For high-speed running, the fourth gear is used. There is, therefore, no racing of the engine and no undue strains upon it when the car is run at high speed. Furthermore, the engine may always be run at very close to its most economical speed.

Valve Mechanism Enclosed

There is no chance for dirt and grit to work their way into the bearing surfaces and cause wear and faulty timing, as is the case when the valve mechanism consists of a series of external and unprotected springs, rocker-arms, push-rods, etc.

Accessibility of Every Working Part

The cost of making an ordinary adjustment on any car is determined largely by the accessibility of the several parts. In the White, accessibility has been developed to a much greater degree than in any other car. For example, as there are no external manifolds, or no overhead valve contrivances, a valve may be removed for regrinding without removing or disturbing any other part. As another example, the magneto and water-pump are on opposite sides of the engine and are driven independently, so either may be reached without disturbing the other.

SENATOR CONGER.

The case of Senator Benn Conger is a curious one, and by no means clear. He has rendered great service to the Senate. Without his disclosure of the offense of Allds, his public accusation of him and the vigorous and effective action he took to sustain his accusation, it would have been entirely impracticable to expose and punish that unfaithful legislator. The process has been a costly one to Mr. Conger, not only in money, which he must have expended in liberal amount, but in his personal humiliation and the destruction of his political prestige. Since he first decided to make charges against Allds he has not flinched for a moment. His behavior and his utterances before the Senate were candid, courageous, and of the utmost value in promoting justice. They compelled the admiration of even his foes, and it is not to be denied that he has foes, of whom at the present moment, he has reason to be proud. There was something not short of heroic in the spectacle of this Senator facing with calmness and determination as dreadful a trial as a reputable man could be subjected to, resolute in doing the duty before him, and unsustained by the consciousness of an innocent and honorable past.

Yet it is impossible to ignore that past, or the transactions in it that distinctly were dishonorable. By his own testimony he connived at bribery. He put his brother in possession of the purposes of the corruptionists. He promoted the carrying out of the bribe giving. He acted as guide and go-between in the miserable transaction. He maintained silence as to the offense for years. When he disclosed it to some of his fellow-Senators it was at a time when he was contending against the advancement of the bribe taker and he made the disclosure in "confidence." When his story became public it was only with reluctance that he reached the decision to pursue the honorable course we have referred to. By these facts it cannot be denied that he was deeply involved in a particularly base and harmful transaction, and if the Senate should now proceed to examine his "qualifications" as they did those of Allds he could hardly complain, nor could the result be very doubtful, save for one consideration. That is the consideration that he has offset his previous conduct by his recent conduct and that the high qualities he has shown within the past few weeks may be balanced against those he had before manifested. To this is to be added the reflection that to disgrace Mr. Conger now would be to discourage in the future the kind of service he has rendered.

In these circumstances it is probable that the best course for Mr. Conger to adopt would be to offer his resignation. Surely he must be aware that his usefulness as a Senator is practically gone. To insist on remaining in the Senate for the rest of the year is only to challenge treatment such as has been accorded to Allds. On the charges that would be brought he could not hope to be adjudged innocent. The best that he could expect would be a decision by the Senate that the wrong conduct which he has testified to did not, in view of his after service, constitute sufficient reason for his expulsion. That would be scant comfort.

WHY WORK SO HARD?

It is curious that the harder our faithful legislators work the less gratitude is shown by the inappreciative beneficiaries of their labors. Yesterday the Federal income tax was before the Assembly Committee for ratification. Nobody appeared against it. It is also true that nobody appeared in favor of it, and while the Assemblyman who is pressing the friendless proposal droned through his argument the committeemen were surreptitiously busying themselves about other matters. The same conditions were reported from some other States which felt called upon to act one way or the other. There is no popular vitality in the matter.

The same listlessness is apparent regarding the burning issues before Congress. Senators are equally reluctant to support or oppose the Administration Railway bill, which was revised nine times before introduction, and although then certified as perfect is yet to be improved by some official amendments. The idea that either House is preparing the bill is humorous considering these facts. There is no sign that the postal savings bank is a "thriller," and the investigation of the mysterious source of life in the Subsidy bill is a weak parody of the continuous performances in the State Legislatures.

At State and Federal Capitols alike the show has now reached the stage where something is accustomed to be put on with a view to emptying the benches and getting in a fresh crowd. Why cannot our statesmen hear the shouts to "get the hook"? If only they would appreciate that there is nothing they can do so agreeable for their admiring and grateful constituents as to pass indispensable laws and adjourn!

A MISCHIEVOUS BILL.

Now comes Senator Depew with a bill that gives exemption from "interference" and priority of dispatch, in time of peace, to radio-electric messages in behalf of the Army and Navy over the wireless messages of commerce.

It is a mischievous measure. Must the splendid wireless operations of the transatlantic liners and of the radio-telegraphic companies on land, which are showing such marked development, be suspended whenever two subalterns choose to greet each other through the ether? It is granted that, in time of war, naval and military messages should take precedence over commercial messages. But during peace the rights of commerce should always and everywhere be held paramount.

This bill is doubly mischievous in that it confers upon the Secretary of Commerce and Labor, an official who can know nothing about the technical demands of private wireless business, practically unlimited power of determining its conduct. And why should wireless companies, which pay their proportionate share of taxes in each State, be compelled to pay an additional license fee when no such fee is exacted from wealthy land companies? The Depew bill shows other unjust discriminations and some vagueness in its terms. But its vital defect is its assumption, in these piping times of peace, that the most important business of the Nation is that transacted through the Army and Navy.

THE MAYOR AND LIQUOR SELLING.

The Mayor proposes something like a revolution in the regulation of liquor selling. The two features of the plan which are most important are that policemen shall cease to make arrests for violations of the law which they have witnessed or procured, but shall proceed to secure warrants for offenders, and that they shall be held to a strict accountability for all violations of the requirement as to a clear view of liquor selling places from the outside, reporting them to their superiors and to the District Attorney's office. This involves the abandonment of the practice of entering saloons in plain clothes to detect offenses and making arrests therefor. The Mayor condemns this practice in severe terms as tending inevitably and irresistibly to corruption. In this he is clearly justified by the experience of the past. It is to be remembered, however, that this corruption would have been practically impossible without the connivance of superior officers, and also that the Mayor's plan will throw the detection of offenses almost wholly into the hands of the agents of the Excise Commissioner of the State, who are hardly more above temptation than policemen.

The organization of the force of the Excise Commissioner is not adapted to this task. He has but one Deputy Commissioner, for example, in the Boroughs of Manhattan and the Bronx, and one in Brooklyn. He has the authority to employ only sixty agents in the whole State, and these agents are not wholly devoted to the detection of violations of the law. If the entire force were concentrated in either one of the three principal boroughs it would have its hands full. Any reasonable share of the force that could be put to work in the city at large would hardly suffice to inspect the traffic and to do the necessary work of detection and of securing evidence. As nearly as we can make out from the Mayor's letter to the Commissioner of Police, the city police are to be limited to such activities as they can carry on outside the saloons by careful and continuous observation, with especial reference to reporting any obstruction to the view from the street. It will be a matter for experiment how far this function will go in securing the punishment and suppression of illegal traffic.

Obviously if the police are to be restricted, no matter for what good reasons, in the exercise of their powers as detectives, this restriction must be accompanied by the greatest possible thoroughness in the enforcement of discipline and in the discovery and uprooting of corruption and favoritism in the force in all its grades, and even more in the higher than in the lower grades. It is undoubtedly true that the practice of entering saloons in plain clothes and making arrests after display of the shield gives opportunity for blackmail and bribery. But, as we have already said, this evil could not exist in any serious degree and escape the knowledge of competent and vigilant and honest superiors. What the Mayor calls this "eating canker of corruption" has not been and could not be confined to the patrolmen, and its ravages in the upper members of the police body will not be remedied or the canker eradicated by limiting the opportunities of the lower members. If the Mayor's somewhat novel scheme is to have the success that all good citizens will wish for it, it must be accompanied by a radical and stern reform of the whole force. We are aware that this is not an easy task. The present policy only makes the performance of the task more imperative.

A "LIVE AND LET LIVE" POLICY.

The New Haven Railway has filed notice with the Inter-State Commerce Commission that, having raised the wages of its employés, it would also raise the rates it charges to its patrons. Any other concern than a public utility would raise the price of what it sells without that formality, but a railway must get permission from a body none too friendly, and the question arises what view the Commission and the public should take of the proposal.

Why should not the two proposals be recognized as natural complements? The rates, not having been complained of before, must be assumed to be natural and reasonable, and, if costs are to be increased, they must be paid from earnings, the only possible source of income. Doubtless the railway's patrons would prefer that the owners should forego dividends. The owners' reluctance to have their incomes reduced in order that the incomes and the convenience of strangers may be increased is natural, but may be disregarded in any consideration of the interests of the community at large.

The general interest is simply that railway service should be good. It is essential that it should not be discriminatory, but it is not essential that it should be cheap, and it is undesirable that it should be furnished below cost, or at the cost of anybody except those who receive it. The supply must stop if it is not furnished at a profit. Nobody can be expected or compelled to supply anything at a loss, and railways less than others. The reason is that railways must charge enough not merely to live, but to grow. If they do not grow the communities they serve cannot grow. Mr. Hill said yesterday that the railways need $9,600,000,000 within six years for growth alone. It can be found if the dividend fund is not reduced, but it cannot be found if either the wage fund or the dividend fund is starved.

Fortunately there is no need for starving either. The services of the railways supply the resources from an infinitesimal percentage of the profits which they supply to the patrons of the railways. The money does not come out of the shippers' pockets, but out of the price of the products they ship, the cost of which, including freight, they collect from consumers of goods. This places the burden where it ought to fall, and proportions it exactly to benefits received. Dividends are merely calculated by capitalization. They are earned by services performed, regardless of either capitalization or wages. There could be no swifter or surer check to prosperity than to reduce the purchasing power of the railways, and the surest road to ruin is to lessen the dividend fund or the borrowing power which is proportioned to credit based upon dividend record. We have had so recent an experience of the unfortunate result of jealousy and parsimony toward the railways that it may be hoped that all concerned have profited by the experience and are willing that a "live and let live" policy should be practiced toward them, and by them toward their employés.

THE CLAUSEN CASE.

The brazen and defiant Philistine will have his loud guffaw over the Clausen case. Here was a painter, Homer Martin, who during his lifetime was quite unnoticed by the collectors, connoisseurs, the patrons, and the pretentious critics of art. They regarded him, so far as they regarded him at all, about as Mr. Matthew Arnold would have regarded Bloodgood H. Cutter, had his attention been called to the works of that amiable and industrious Queens County poet. Only a few friends, frequent and attentive observers of Martin's art, appreciated its charm.

Martin died in poverty, and lo, in a few years his canvases, that were hardly salable at $250, jump up to $5,000 or $10,000. A little late it is seen that he was a great artist. He is counterfeited. Spurious Martins are heard of here and there. A collector, supposedly impressed with a profound and subtle knowledge of painting, suddenly begins to have his doubts about two Martins which he has long cherished among the treasures of his gallery. He brings suit against the dealer who sold him the pictures, and the fight begins. Artists and critics testify in court that the pictures are certainly spurious. Martin couldn't possibly have painted them. Upon the other hand, the cocksure and voluble Mr. Hopkinson Smith, who in one of his avatars was an artist, insists that nobody but Martin could have painted them. Other artists and connoisseurs give testimony to that effect. Then the deft, persuasive Dawson takes the chair and interests the jury with the story of his picture jugglery—as a "restorer," of course.

The upshot of it is that the jury disagrees, 11 for Clausen and 1 for Evans. Probably that one had some disqualifying knowledge of art. Unfortunately nothing is proved as to the genuineness of the pictures in question, and a verdict one way or the other would have proved as little. The question is not one for a jury, and expert testimony muddles rather than enlightens upon such an occasion. But what of the experts themselves? Is it not deplorable that they should differ in such a matter? Is there no quarter from which an authoritative announcement may come, or must every man make up his mind for himself? The point is reinforced by the unfortunate experience of Dr. Bode. He is a very lion among experts, the greatest in the German Empire. Upon his judgment that a certain wax bust was the work of Leonardo da Vinci, $40,000 was paid for the thing, and it stands in the National Gallery in Berlin, attested only by Dr. Bode and the Kaiser. Since patchwork quilts and British newspapers of the eighteen forties have been fished out from the inside of the bust, other experts and the laity have shaken their heads. Now that it is proved that the wax was mixed with spermaceti, a substance never used by Leonardo, doubts ripen into convinced denial of authenticity. Even the Kaiser may backslide and leave Dr. Bode alone. As Mr. Benson's elderly Englishman remarked, it is "most distressing."

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Claim to be Disallowed. In explaining what he did to earn the huge sum for which Mr. Hartridge is now suing Harry Thaw's mother, that eminent representative of the legal profession gives prominent place to a service the reality of which we strongly advise her present counsel to question. In our opinion, indeed, they will be in no danger if they deny it utterly. For Mr. Hartridge says that during Thaw's trial he daily saw the reporters of all the New York papers and influenced them to make only friendly comments on his client and the court proceedings.

Just what significance Mr. Hartridge attaches to the words "saw" and "influenced" we do not pretend to know. Perhaps he means he bought the friendly comments, perhaps merely that he presented convincing reasons why the comment should be friendly. It makes no difference, for in either case he is wrong. The only reason why the lawyer saw the reporters daily was the excellent one that it was their business and duty to see him. Doubtless they accepted gladly and used freely such information as he could offer them, but any assertion that otherwise than by giving publicity to facts he affected the tone of the printed reports of the trial, if Mr. Hartridge makes it sincerely, proves that he has remained amazingly unsophisticated for a man who lives in a big city, while if he makes it insincerely it indicates that he hopes Mrs. Thaw and her lawyers know strangely little about the way metropolitan newspapers are conducted.

The report of a trial is no place for comment, friendly or unfriendly, and, if necessary, copy readers and editors have and exercise effective means to prevent any of it from getting there. For the general fairness of the printed narratives that interested her so deeply Mrs. Thaw need not pay Mr. Hartridge a single dollar or one cent, since it was the result of no efforts of his. Such comment on her son as the newspapers did contain was not marked, as we remember it, by any special friendliness. It is only fair, however, to acquit Mr. Hartridge of all responsibility for the severity occasionally shown. How much or how little that gentleman's services were worth is not for us to say, but we can confidently declare that he didn't earn a penny by influencing the press, and did not incur any expenses in doing it. For him to put in such a claim was equally foolish and impudent—to characterize it charitably.

Teaching a Prince His Trade. Letters from the Crown Prince of Germany form a part at once surprising and interesting of the evidence presented here this week in the trial of a man accused of misusing money invested—all too permanently—in his mine. They are very confidential and intimate letters, written by the Prince to a close friend, and it is rather hard that they should have been made public, but as they contain nothing not creditable to the author, he will only be embarrassed, not injured, by the disclosure of how he views himself, his imperial father, and the relation of both to the State.

For in the letters appears nothing of the traditional hostility between the heir apparent and the wearer of the crown for which he is waiting. Instead, in this instance, the heir expresses only a mild rejoicing that he is at last permitted to gain something of the knowledge he would like to have in regard to the conduct of public affairs and the art of ruling a nation. He presents the situation as he sees it in curious and naïve metaphor, which, in the rude translation filed with the court, reads:

> Papa, too, is now always very kind toward me, and we have approached one another a good deal. Some days ago he has talked with me for a long time about politics. I am so thankful for it, feeling as if the oldest sailor of a vessel never is allowed to conduct it, still knowing that very moment the steersman may have to be replaced by him.

That is badly in need of editing, but the young man's meaning is sufficiently clear. He takes himself very seriously, as becomes a Hohenzollern, and doubtless kept his face quite straight while writing of himself as "the oldest sailor." Yet he reveals a lurking suspicion of his own incompetency, and that shows progress, for probably it is a feeling which his beautifully self-confident father never entertained for a moment. Neither the Kaiser nor his son will be pleased by the publication of these letters in this irreverent and too humorous country, and presumably the Prince will be advised with some emphasis to refrain hereafter from discussing family matters and domestic scenes with young aristocrats who have rashly plunged into the troubled waters of American mining promotion.

Robbers Well Captured. Real detectives cannot, of course, do quite as good, in the sense of as wonderful, work as do those of the skilled romancer, since they are obliged to attack the problems of crime from the hard instead of from the easy end, and to move toward an unknown, not a known solution. Nevertheless, their achievements occasionally approach those of their imagined rivals, and a case in point is the swift pursuit and prompt capture by the Government Inspectors of the men who robbed the Richmond Post Office.

The thieves were evidently experienced, expert, and well equipped, and probably as intelligent as thieves ever are. They made a big haul of stamps and cash and escaped to what they had some reason to consider safety. Their one danger lay in the fact that their booty had to be carried away from Richmond in trunks, and trunks in course of transportation by rail cannot be concealed and can be traced. This tracing was done by the Inspectors with what, at least, looks like wonderful skill, and certainly with success. After the trunks had been followed and found in this city, they had only to be watched till called for.

The task seems simple after it has been accomplished, but the chances of failure were many and the avoidance of them all was a notable triumph of detective skill. Luck probably had something to do with the success, as it has with most successes. Luck, however, chooses its favorites with discrimination, and to have it is usually an indication of superiority and desert in one form or another—a truth which the lucky are always ready to recognize, while to the unlucky it is less often clear.

MARRIED WOMEN'S RIGHTS.

Mrs. Johnston-Wood's Suffragist Complaints Are Here Contradicted.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It seems desirable, even necessary, to correct two misstatements made in "Laws Discriminating Against Women in the State of New York," by Harriette M. Johnston-Wood, as quoted in The Times of March 26. Mrs. Johnston-Wood says, "A wife cannot make a binding contract with her husband to pay her for services within or without the household."

In Section 51 of the Domestic Relation law, 1909, we read:

> A married woman has all the rights in respect to property, real or personal, and the acquisition, use, enjoyment, and disposition thereof, to make contracts in respect thereto with any person, including her husband, and to carry on any business, trade, or occupation, and to exercise all powers and enjoy all rights in respect thereto, and in respect to her contracts, and be liable on such contracts as if she were unmarried; but a husband and wife cannot contract to dissolve the marriage or to relieve the husband from his liability to support his wife.

Again, Mrs. Johnston-Wood says, "The father's right to the custody of the child is paramount." I suppose she refers to Section 80 of the Domestic Relation law, but she omits to quote, and, therefore, fails to make it clear, that when "a minor shall acquire real property the guardianship of his property * * * belongs first to the father, and second, if there be no father, to the mother." Section 81, however, deals with the child, and not his property, and that declares: "A married woman is a joint guardian of her children with her husband, with equal powers, rights, and duties in regard to them." And * * * "Either the father or the mother may in the lifetime of them both, by last will duly executed, appoint the other the guardian of the person and property of such child during its minority."

It is not less desirable and necessary to correct the general impression made by Mrs. Johnston-Wood in her compilation of laws regarding women and labeled as discriminating against them, because unless any set of laws is considered as a whole we get those half-truths which are always dangerously deceptive.

The "common law," on which the law of this State is based, has always recognized the family as the social unit, and held the husband and father responsible for its welfare. There is in the minds of some persons at present, and Mrs. Johnston-Wood seems to be one of the number, a disposition to ignore, or decline to recognize, this point of view, and to declare that the individual, in contradistinction to the family, is the social unit. To insist upon reviewing the law as it stands while refusing to recognize the spirit which gave it birth, and to look at it through the distorted medium of deliberate misunderstand, is as foolish and misleading as it is disingenuous, and quite unworthy of even a special pleader.

Because the husband and father was and is responsible for the subsistence of his wife and family therefore he was recognized as logically the proper person to administer and inherit the property of the family; but as time wore away the barriers raised for protection had become coercive between the family and the world; as industrial life began to call women out of the home, and property amassed by the wife was claimed by the husband and used sometimes for his benefit rather than hers, the gradual changes began to take place which have in the last thirty or forty years entirely changed the relation of the wife toward property and the guardianship of her children. This change has all been in the favor of the wife and mother, and one after another the privileges which men had over the property of their wives and the guardianship of their children have not only been lost but many of them have been actually reversed. The legal relations are as though they were unmarried, excepting that they cannot alter or dissolve the marriage. The wife cannot release the husband from the obligation to support her.

The italics above are mine, as I wish to call attention to the fact that throughout these laws it is assumed as an unalterable condition that when a man marries and makes a woman the mother of his children he thereby incurs the responsibility for her and their support, a responsibility which the wife never shares no matter how much property she may have.

For over thirty years a woman has been able to hold and enjoy her separate property, however acquired, even when it has been given by her husband, freed from any interference or cotrol by him, and from all liability for his debts. A husband is, however, liable for necessaries purchased by his wife and also for money given his wife by a third person to purchase necessaries, and he is bound to support her and her children without regard to her individual or separate estate. Even when a separation occurs a husband is compelled through the payment of alimony to continue to support his wife, nothing short of infidelity on her part and consequent divorce relieving him of that liability. No obligation, however, to furnish necessaries to a husband rests upon the wife under any circumstances whatever.

A woman may sell, assign, or transfer her real and personal property and carry on any trade or business and perform any labor and service on her separate account, and her earnings are her own sole and separate property. Mrs. Johnston-Wood says that "the joint earnings of husband and wife belong to the husband," but she forgets to add that out of those joint earnings the wife must be supported, and that if they are large enough to be invested in real estate it becomes impossible for the husband to sell or devise it except subject to her dower right. Through this "dower right" Mrs. Johnston-Wood complains that a husband is obliged to lease only one-third of his real estate to his wife, and that she has only a life interest in it. But this right of hers attaches to any he owns at the time of marriage, or acquires during the marriage, and no act of his can divest her of it. On the other hand she can buy, sell, give, or will away her real property as freely as though she were unmarried without any right of interference by him, and without any claim of his upon it. This dower right is a very real and active line upon a husband's estate, while the so-called "courtesy right," which is supposed to offset it, is a very shadowy affair, and has been so seldom exercised as to make it difficult to find authorities defining its exact limits and privileges.

A husband has no right to any of his wife's estate until after the birth of a living child, and this right is so lightly considered that a wife may absolutely defeat it at any time without the consent of her husband, either by conveying her real property during her lifetime or by devising it by will. Should he inherit through "courtesy" right his, too, is only a life interest.

A husband is not obliged to leave his personal property to his wife, but neither is the wife obliged to leave any to her husband. There is no "discrimination against," they stand on an equality.

Mrs. Johnston-Wood complains that a woman cannot make a binding contract with her husband to be paid for her services. But she doesn't have to do so. He is obliged to support her, but she can go into any business she pleases, keep all the profits, and still demand support from him. A husband has no claim against his wife's estate for having supported her, but if she supports him, as by keeping a boarding house, and he acknowledges the debt, she has a valid claim for reimbursement against his estate.

Generally speaking the rights of a wife against her husband are such as he cannot deprive her of, while his rights against her depend entirely upon her consent, and she can deprive him of them at any time with the greatest ease.

NO NATIONAL COAL STRIKE.

Pennsylvania and Illinois Will Be Tied Up, Says President Lewis.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., March 30.—"The members of the National Executive Board will have their instructions as to the direction of whatever strikes in the bituminous coal districts may be necessary when they leave Indianapolis to-morrow night," said Thomas L. Lewis, President of the United Mine Workers, to-night. "I shall go first into the Illinois field. At midnight to-morrow there will be a suspension of work in some districts, but it will last only a few days, and no one will suffer loss. The miners will get their uniform advance in wages of 5 cents a ton all over America, and there will be no bad strike."

President Lewis declared in Cincinnati to-day, before leaving for here, that "Pennsylvania and Illinois will be completely tied up." The miners in those two districts number 190,000. Pennsylvania's annual production is 150,000,000 tons and that of Illinois is 50,000,000 tons.

Under the plan adopted by the miners' special convention there will be no country-wide strike. All mines will be idle, as usual, on April 1, which is the holiday anniversary of the eight-hour day, and no miners are to return to work next day unless ordered to do so by their district officials. These officials are not allowed to give that order unless all the mine owners in the district or sub-district have signed the preliminary agreement adopted by the convention.

THE NORMAL COLLEGE.

Why Do Its Four-Year Pupils Fail to Qualify as Teachers?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In the report of the City Superintendent of Schools for 1908—the latest report published—it is stated that 195 young women who were graduated from Normal College applied for license No. 1 to teach in the public schools. Examination by the Board of Examiners showed that 54 of these, or 27 per cent., were unfit, and they were therefore denied the license.

The Training School for Teachers had during the same year so much more efficient a corps of pedagogical experts to train its pupils that some negligible quantity—only 1 per cent. or so—failed to qualify. These figures are much the same as those of previous reports, and when the report for 1909 is available there is no reason to apprehend that there will be much difference. Both institutions are supported by the city, the Normal College having a four-year course, as against the Training School's two-year course.

A graduate of the Normal College used to be licensed as teached by the fact of graduation. We are now, however, in changed circumstances, and perhaps young women aspiring to become teachers could do no better than go to the school where, by some get-wise-quick methods, they can secure more certain results than by the four-year methods of the Normal.

Perhaps there is some other explanation of the situation so disastrous to Normal graduates. When they fail same say to them: "Get a coach." ROBERT F. GREEN.

Liquor Traffic in New Jersey.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your correspondent, Mr. Schaefer, would seem to claim that where the liquor business flourishes by legal permission the advantages to the community are greater than in localities where it is restricted, or prohibited. My home State of New Jersey enjoys the distinction, borne by two or three far Western States, of being the only State east of the Missouri without the privilege of voting locally upon this question. Here are a few "results" of a practically unrestricted operation of the business:

We have in our State's prison and two penitentiaries (not including our jails and reformatories) one convict to every 1,367 of population and one case of insanity to every 413 people, being part of the "dividends" we enjoy from possessing one saloon to every 214 of population.

New England, with one liquor dealer to every 632 people, has one convict to every 3,162 of population and one insane to every 493 inhabitants. Our convicts increased last year by 115, notwithstanding our probation system, using every means to limit the State's prison "population." In the six New England States, with a population vastly greater than New Jersey, the increase was only 77, while in the great States of Minnesota, Nebraska, Missouri, Kentucky, Indiana, Michigan, Iowa, Ohio, and South Dakota there was an actual decrease of 483 in number, although their united population is ten times greater than ours. At the same time our State prison cost us taxpayers $48,000 more than all the States' prisons of this great group of States, and $12,780 more than all the prisons of New England! (And there the jail population is made up in a marked degree by illegal liquor sellers who are sent to prison, instead of to the legislatures, or other "honorable bodies," as here, in some cases.) If this liquor business is such a beneficent affair, why not persuade railroad managers, bank officers, merchants, and other employers of myriads of men to remove the boycot on the business which is spreading throughout the land? Dr. Anna Mercy's Campaign.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a reader of your paper, and also an anti-suffragist for patriotic reasons, I should like to know by what process of reasoning as to facts Dr. Anna Mercy claims a monopoly of patriotism for a small minority of women calling themselves suffragettes. If Mr. Oliver is "indifferent and hostile" to the best interests of a large number of his constituents, Dr. Mercy would seem to be engaged in a very good work in fighting against his election. Her very success will confirm the claim of the antis that the best political work is to inspire and criticise and arouse public opinion, and not to cast a vote. ELLA C. BREHAUT.

Workingman for the Parks.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I noticed in your paper a letter signed "Amo Publicum," who favors using the parks for public buildings. I am far from having an "attack of softening of the brain." I am a poor workingman with a family, working twelve hours each day for $12 a week, and am delighted when the opportunity comes (which is only Sundays) to take my family to the park, the only outing which I can afford. I am sure the majority of working people will agree with me that the parks should not be molested. A POOR WORKINGMAN.

Personal Taxes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

When taxation is placed upon all other property than titles to land it makes every form of labor's product, capital, houses, and personal property dearer and harder to get. Hence personal property taxation is a detriment alike to capital and labor, and as so much necessary taxation is omitted from land monopoly it is an advantage to monopoly to put it on property. It would be in order, then, to at once take steps to have an amendment proposed to the Constitution omitting the word "personal from it."

THE FEMALE BODY POLITIC.

With men a body politic can somehow be attained
Without that so-called body being more than rudely strained!
They seem to get together as by mutual consent,
And though he's but a finger every man is well content.

But when it comes to women it is quite another thing;
Of female body politics none wants to be the wing;
And none will be the pedals or the torso,
it is said,
But each and every woman is disposed to be the head.

CLAUSEN JURY UNABLE TO AGREE

Art Dealer Says They Were 11 to 1 in His Favor and He Calls It a Victory.

THINKS THE CASE IS ENDED

William T. Evans Declares Fraud in Sale of Alleged Martin Pictures Will Be Proved at the Next Trial.

The jury in the suit of William T. Evans against William Clausen for the purchase price of two paintings alleged to be by Homer D. Martin, and whose authenticity Mr. Evans disputed, reported a disagreement yesterday morning and were discharged by Supreme Court Justice Page. Justice Page refused to allowed the jury to be polled.

"I regard the disagreement as a moral victory in my favor, an absolute vindication," said Mr. Clausen last night. "They failed to prove even the slightest of their allegations against me. I bought the pictures in good faith. I sold them in good faith. I still believe they are genuine. Nothing occurred during the trial to shake my belief in them.

"I believe Mr. Evans was the goat for Ranger, and some of his other witnesses.

"This talk of a new trial is, I think, a lot of wind. But I am ready for them. I am sure the jury was 11 to 1 in my favor. It was a great surprise that the jury did not give me a verdict."

William T. Evans said: "My only object in the suit against William Clausen has been to develop the truth, rather than to recover damages. A verdict in any favor, if rendered, would have had very little money value—much less than the expense of trying the case. The case will again be brought to trial and such additional evidence will be offered as will, I believe, convince the most skeptical person that the charges of fraud which have been made are well founded. The date of the trial will be decided upon the return of Judge Hatch, my counsel, from the South, where he has been summoned by the illness of a member of his family.

"I learn reliably that the jury stood 9 to 3 and not 11 to 1 as has been stated."

Brian G. Hughes, a practical joker and member of the Thirteen Club, planted a fake Homer Martin near the court room yesterday morning and publicly destroyed it, causing consternation for the time. Several confederates aided in the scene.

NO SUPREME COURT DELAY.

Justices Will Not Go to Kansas for Burial of Late Justice Brewer.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The Supreme Court of the United States will not only convene Monday, but in all probability will remain in session throughout the day announcing decisions and hearing arguments in the Hertz inheritance tax case. At a later day memorial services will be held in honor of the late Justice Brewer, and the court will attend the funeral services here to-morrow.

In a statement given out to-day regarding the plans of the court as to the funeral Chief Justice Fuller said:

> In view of the time to be consumed in going to and returning from Leavenworth and the probable postponement of the public business which would result, the members of the court, after submitting the matter to Mrs. Brewer, have determined with her entire approval not to go to Leavenworth to be present at the ceremonies there. The court as a body will be present at the funeral ceremonies at the residence and as honorary pall bearers accompany the remains to the Union Station.

At the Capitol to-day there was a rumor that a bill would be introduced in Congress to allow Justice Moody to retire on a pension. The retirement of the Massachusetts Justice thus would leave two vacancies for President Taft to fill.

Friends of Justice Moody say, however, that he expects to resume his duties on the bench at next October's term, and has been told by his physician that he will completely recover.

Talk to-day of the probable successor to Justice Brewer centres around Solicitor General Bowers, who is from Pennsylvania and is known widely as a lawyer of reputation.

The name of Gov. Hughes has been mentioned again for the place. Following the death of Justice Peckham, Gov. Hughes's name was referred to as his successor. It is pointed out here, however, that as the Governor would be very unlikely to accept the place if it were offered him, the President probably would hesitate long before tendering him the post. The opinion here seems to be that Mr. Hughes is holding himself for the Presidency.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, March 30.—With the exception of echoes from Washington, nothing is heard here about Gov. Hughes succeeding Justice Brewer. The same reason that would prevent the Governor from accepting a renomination would prevent him from considering any such offer.

He must return to the practice of law to provide for his family, his four years as Governor having drained his financial resources.

TAFT BARS SCHOOL VISITS.

White House Stormed by 2,000 New Englanders and Public Business Halted

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The White House was stormed to-day by nearly 2,000 excursionists from New England. The members of the delegation came principally from Massachusetts, Vermont, New Hampshire and Maine, and included many school teachers and high school students. Several New England Congressmen accompanied the visitors, who sat about the White House lawn, picnic fashion, while waiting for the President to receive and shake hands with them.

When the doors of the Executive Office were opened the crush to get inside was such that several women had their clothes torn and hats knocked awry, and one was rescued from the throng just as she was about to faint. Moreover, the long line leading from the Executive Office doors to the White House gate attracted the attention of passersby, several hundred of whom attached themselves to the party. The President had expected some 800 callers only and the line was halted after about 2,000 had passed. The reception entirely put a stop to Presidential business for more than an hour.

Hundreds of schools each year conduct Easter excursions to Washington. The President has canceled all engagements to receive any more of the schools this week owing to the press of public business.

1,000 FAILED TO PAY TAX.

Corporation Levy Has So Far Put About $3,000,000 in Treasury.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—One thousand corporations in existence at the time of the enactment of the new tariff law last Summer failed to make returns to the Internal Revenue Bureau under the provision imposing a tax of 1 per cent. on their net income above $5,000. A number openly disregarded the statute requiring them to submit such returns by March 1, and they will be subjected to heavy penalties; others obtained an extension of time, while in numerous cases the organizations had dissolved before the close of the calendar year. As to these Attorney General Wickersham has been asked for an opinion on which will depend the question whether action shall be taken for the recovery of the taxes which they should have paid.

About $3,000,000 has been paid to the Treasury on account of the corporation tax. Forty-two clerks are at work examining the 315,000 returns made and are disposing of them at the rate of 10,000 a day. Their labors will be completed by May 10. The assessments which will be payable by the end of the fiscal year will be in the hands of the corporations by June 11.

PRESIDENT ATTENDS MISS HOYT'S WEDDING

MISS BROWNSON A BRIDE

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—The President was a guest at the wedding this noon of Miss Constance Hoyt, daughter of the Counsellor of the State Department, and Mrs. Henry M. Hoyt, to Ferdinand von Stumm, Second Secretary of the German Embassy, the Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, officiating. Simplicity marked the details of the wedding, the decorations being entirely in Spring blossoms and the bridal party limited to a best man in the person of the bridegroom's brother, Herbert von Stumm, with Mrs. Philip S. Hichborn and Miss Mary von Stumm, sisters of the bride and bridegroom, as matron and maid of honor.

The bride entered the drawing room, where the ceremony took place, with her father, and a few minutes after the arrival of the President, accompanied by Capt. A. W. Butt, was announced. The wedding gown was of soft but rich white satin, with modish treatment of old lace forming the overdress, with enormously long train and tulle veil. The bridegroom, who is a Cuirassier of the Guard in the German Army, wore the picturesque white and gold uniform of that regiment.

The marriage of Miss Caroline Brownson, youngest daughter of Rear Admiral and Mrs. Willard H. Brownson, to Lieut. Commander Thomas C. Hart, U. S. N., took place like the Hoyt-Von Stumm wedding at home and with only a small company witnessing the ceremony. Miss Brownson, however, had a larger wedding party, and a portion of the Marine Orchestra to furnish the nuptial music during the reception and breakfast which followed.

The guests included the Admiral of the Navy and Mrs. Dewey, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Sealord Schroeder, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Richard Wainwright, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Richardson Clover, with many of the younger officers and their wives now stationed in Washington.

BENEFIT FOR SUFFRAGISTS.

Three Short Plays to be Given at Maxine Elliott's Theatre.

A suffrage matinée will be given this afternoon at Maxine Elliott's Theatre, Thirty-ninth Street, between Broadway and Sixth Avenue, which Miss Elliott has given for the occasion with the orchestra for the benefit of the Equality League of Self-Supporting Women. Three plays will be given: "Before the Dawn," "A Woman's Influence," and "How the Vote Was Won." Miss Elliott, who is a suffragist, will recite a suffrage poem by Mrs. Charlotte Perkins Gilman in one of the intermissions, and Mrs. Stanton Blatch and Forbes-Robertson will speak. Tickets can be obtained at the office of the League, 43 East Twenty-second Street, at the theatre to-day, or at Tyson's. The matinée has been organized by Miss Beatrice Forbes-Robertson.

Wittek May Head Boston Orchestra.

There is a well-authenticated rumor to the effect that Anton Wittek, the concert master of the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra, will succeed Willy Hess as concert master of the Boston Symphony Orchestra. It has been stated that Mr. Hess will go to Berlin next season, but his successor has not been officially announced.

Irish Plays for Normal Settlement.

At the special matinée at the Knickerbocker Theatre to-morrow afternoon, given under the auspices of the Junior League for the benefit of the Normal College Alumnae Settlement, Mme. Estelle Bloomfield-Adler will sing Irish songs, and members of the Cumann Na Rinnce, an Irish dancing club, will give an exhibition of folk dances. The rest of the programme will consist of two Irish plays by Seumas MacManus.

Creole Booth for Actors' Fund Fair.

An added attraction just arranged for the Actors' Fund Fair will be a Creole booth, contributed by the business men of New Orleans. It will represent a typical palmetto shack, built in the fashion adopted by the fishermen of the marshes of Louisiana. It will be in charge of Creoles, and will contain many Creole delicacies. This will be separate from the regular Southern booth.

Anna Held to Open New City Theatre.

The new City Theatre in Fourteenth Street, near Fourth Avenue, will be opened on April 18 with Anna Held in "Miss Innocence." This theatre is to be a "combination" house, playing attractions that have outlived their Broadway popularity. It will in some ways take the place of the Academy of Music, almost across the street, which goes into the hands of the motion picture people early in June.

"Die Meistersinger" Sung Again.

The remarkable performance of "Die Meistsinger," which was introduced to the public last Saturday afternoon under the direction of Mr. Toscanini, was repeated at the Metropolitan Opera House last evening with the same interpreters that had been concerned in the earlier performance, Mme. Gadski, Miss Wickham, and Messrs. Slezak, Sooner, Goritz, and Reiss, in the principal rôles. The audience was large.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The date for the formal opening of Nazimova's Thirty-ninth Street Theatre, with Mme. Nazimova in "Little Evolf," has been set for Monday evening, April 18.

When "A Skylark" is presented at the New York Theatre next Monday the juvenile role will be played by Lester Gaze, who has replaced Harry Fairleigh at short notice.

Earle Browne of the "Alias Jimmy Valentine" company has completed the manuscript of a play designed for the use of Wilton Lackaye next season. The story deals with the intrigues of the French court during the peace negotiations following the American Revolution, and the principal character is Benjamin Franklin.

"Lulu's Husbands," with Mabel Barrison and Harry Conor in the principal parts, will follow Forbes-Robertson at Maxine Elliott's Theatre, opening there on April 11. Forbes-Robertson will start on a tour of Canada on the same date.

"Die Foerster Christ'l," ("Christ'l, the Forester's Daughter,") will replace "The Rajah's Bride" at the Irving Place German Theatre to-night, and will be continued the rest of the week, except on Saturday afternoon, when "Wilhelm Tell" will be presented.

Mrs. Edward Lyman Short of 9 East Thirty-ninth Street gave a theatre party last night at Daly's Theatre, where Mme. Olly is appearing in "The Whirlwind." The party occupied all the boxes in the theatre.

When "Caste" is presented at the Empire Theatre, following Ethel Barrymore's engagement in "Mid-Channel," G. P. Huntley will play Eccles, a role very different from the comedy parts he has been playing for the last few years. Before he took up musical comedy work he was a member of the Kendals' company, and appeared with them during their first visit to America.

MUSIC NOTES.

Heniot Levy will play the piano parts in the violin and piano sonatas which Alexander Sebald, the Hungarian violinist, will play at his recital in Mendelssohn Hall this afternoon.

Scenes from the operas in concert form will be a feature of a series of Sunday evening concerts to be given in the Berkeley Theatre during the coming months by the Franco-Italian Philharmonic Society.

SOCIAL NOTES.

Mr. and Mrs. James Brown Potter are returning from Tuxedo on Friday and will stop at the St. Regis.

HAMMERSTEIN GOES ABROAD APRIL 13

ALSO NEW STRAUSS OPERA

To Conclude Negotiations for Myratore, Tenor, and Mme. Litvinne, Soprano.

Oscar Hammerstein sails for Europe April 13 on the steamer Mauretania in his search for new singers and new operas for next season. He has obtained the sole rights for Massenet's new opera, "Don Quixote," now being sung in the Opera at Monte Carlo, and the sole rights of the opera, "Chiquito," as well as the new Richard Strauss opera, "Ochs von Lerchenau," which is of a light and melodious character, totally different from the somber and gruesome "Salome" and "Elektra."

He will also conclude a large number of pending negotiations with artists, among whom are Muratore, the first tenor of the Paris Opéra, and Mme. Litvinne, the dramatic soprano. His travels will extend to Cairo, Algiers, St. Petersburg, Moscow, Vienna, Budapest, Berlin, and all through Italy.

The subscription for the New York season already surpasses that of last year, and four of the former grand circle boxes abolished last year will be restored.

A meeting of the subscribers and prominent music adherents has been called by the Box Committee of the Philadelphia Opera House, consisting of Messrs. Stotesbury, Cassat, and Leaming, for next Monday afternoon at the Philadelphia Opera House, to consider means by which Mr. Hammerstein is to continue opera in Philadelphia without any such risks as those which have almost forced him to abandon his season in Philadelphia, and to prevent the Opera House from being devoted to other purposes than grand opera.

THE PHILHARMONIC CONCERT.

Music by Pfitzner, Bruckner, and Strauss at Last of Historical Series.

The Philharmonic Society gave last evening the last concert of its historical series, which, like several of the recent ones in this series, have been concerned wit hmodern composers a little out of chronological sequence. Thus, Bruckner was the central point of this concert, and with his name were joined those of Hans Pfitzner and Richard Strauss. Pfitzner is known only by name to the New York musical public. The composition played last evening was the overture to a Christmas fairy play called "Das Christelflein"—the "Little Christ Elf." It would go far to confirm what the composer has declared about himselm, that he is an old-fashioned melodist." Its themes are largely old-fashioned melodies, though there is a modern spirit in some of Pfitzner's harmonic treatment and some modern refinements of orchestration. And there is furthermore the suggestion of a legend, a dramatic narrative in the music, which is agreeable and interesting without being profound or eloquent.

Bruckner's fourth symphony, called the "Romantic" symphony, had not been heard in New York for many years. Anton Seidl first played it here in 1888. Yet last night's performance showed it to be considerably more worth rehearing than the symphonies of Bruckner that have been played here in recent years. It is more interesting in its substance, more spontaneous, more concise, than those others. It has a more truly symphonic structure, and its themes are more significant and truly musical. There is less of the laborious and arduous work in development, dry elaboration in counterpoint, and other technical devices in which the composer so often loses himself. It is, in fact, a work that can be listened to with true pleasure, without weariness to the flesh.

Some of this impression no doubt was due to the truly superb interpretation which the symphony received at the hands of Mr. Mahler—a performance that proclaimed even more unmistakably than they have been proclaimed before the mastery and authority of the conductor. It showed his insight and entire sympathy with Bruckner's music, of which he is a chief exponent, and, as well, the fine skill of the orchestra, which is steadily gaining for itself the right to be called a virtuoso organization. The freedom, breadth, and brilliancy of last night's performance, its many-sided eloquence, did much to carry conviction for the music. The exposition of the first movement is superb, with its themes of real beauty and expressiveness. The andante, like a solemn march, is also an interesting and in certain passages a noble and deeply touching movement, with a beautiful solo for the viola.

The Scherzo is filled with the music, and the rhythms of hunting horns; and there are delightful effects of rhythm and of orchestral color. The finale is more commonplace, and shows Bruckner's weakest side, the lack of organic structure and logical development; a fondness for repeating in different keys and intervals the same phrase leading nowhere, of beloboring his material with fruitless toil. The instrumentation in this symphony is singularly fine, with effects that are new and striking. And yet it might easily be that this work, which seemed so interesting and that really touched and thrilled, as it was played last evening, might lose much of its effect in a performance less masterly than Mr. Mahler's.

The music of Strauss that was played, consisted of the preludes to the first and second acts of the opera "Guntram." Strauss is far from at his best in them, and they doubtless lose something, besides, by being cut off from their dramatic connection. At the end came a dazzlingly brilliant performance of the "Till Eutenspiegel" tone poem. The audience at this concert was deplorably small.

By the death of Levi C. Weir, who died on Monday, March 28, 1910, in the 68th year of his age, this corporation has to record the loss of one of its most valued members.

Mr. Weir was elected a Director of this company in April, 1902, since which time he had taken an active interest in the promotion of its welfare. In April, 1903, Mr. Weir was elected a member of the Committee on Claims and Losses, serving until April, 1904, when his activities were transferred to the Finance Committee, on which committee he served with eminent ability. His keen discernment, sound judgment, loyalty, and prudence rendered him an exceedingly valuable and safe adviser, and of especial benefit to the company.

He was a man of strict integrity—dependable—and with his uniform courtesy and geniality made friends of all who knew him, and who will, with us, mourn his loss. His continued cheerfulness and intense earnestness, even under health impaired, served to lift the burden of daily care and dispel discouragement, and his impressive personality will be sadly missed by those who knew him best.

Resolved, That this testimonial of our regard and esteem be incorporated in the minutes of this meeting, and a copy thereof, properly engrossed, with an expression of our sincere sympathy in this time of their bereavement, be sent to the family of our deceased friend. C. L. TYNER, Secretary.

EMERGENCY MONEY TO SOLVE A PROBLEM

Vice President Cannon of Fourth National Would Have It Ready at Sub-Treasuries.

CLEARING HOUSE TO DRAW IT

Issuing Its Certificates of Double Amount, Secured by Collateral, in Exchange—Effective Guarantees.

A United States emergency currency in readiness at Federal Sub-Treasuries to be issued on the deposit of Clearing House loan certificates by Clearing House in Sub-Treasury cities was advocated last night by James G. Cannon, Vice President of the Fourth National Bank, in a speech before the Finance Forum in the West Side Auditorium as the best solution of our currency problem. Mr. Cannon said in part:

In order to provide for this emergency currency which is so greatly needed at times, I would have the Clearing House in each of the Sub-Treasury cities, viz.: Baltimore, Boston, Chicago, Cincinnati, and San Francisco, incorporated, recognized by law and prepared to do business with the United States Government. I would have a United States emergency currency printed in large quantities and held under proper safeguards at each of these Sub-Treasuries.

I would permit the Treasurer of the United States, upon proper application, to receive Clearing House loan certificates of the associated banks in any of these cities, as collateral security, and advance 50 per cent. of the amount of such certificates deposited, in emergency circulation, to such association.

Such circulation should bear 6 per cent. interest, so that it would be retired at once when no longer required. This circulation would thus cost the banks 12 per cent., as they would be obliged to pay 6 per cent. on the full face value of the loan certificates deposited with the Sub-Treasuries as collateral for the issuance of this kind of currency. I would have this United States emergency currency retired by the deposit of lawful money with the Treasurer of the United States, just as National bank circulation is now retired.

This would seem to me to provide a safe emergency circulation, having behind it, first, the credit of the individual institution and its collateral; second, the fact that a large margin of collateral is required before the certificates are issued; third, that the bank members of associations by which certificates are issued agree among themselves to assume their pro rata of any losses that may occur through their issuance, which practically means that all the assets of all the bank members of the Clearing House Association are pledged to the payment of the certificates it issues; fourth, the fact that the Government is asked to advance only 50 per cent. of the face value of these certificates, and fifth, the certainty of the prompt retirement of the emergency currency with lawful money of the United States.

Mr. Cannon observed that in the last panic the mercantile interests of the country stood like a rock, and there were few failures. The New York Clearing House at that time held collateral, against the certificates it issued, amounting to $453,000,000. Of this total, he said, $330,000,000, or nearly 73 per cent., was commercial paper. The rest was stocks, bonds, and short-time railroad notes. He thought this demonstrated the feasibility of using the emergency currency he favored.

Speyer Takes New Rock Island Notes.

The Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway has sold to Speyer & Co. $6,750,000 4½ per cent. equipment notes, Series D, secured by equipment costing $7,500,000. The issue is dated May 1 this year and matures in thirty semi-annual installments of $225,000. The bankers announced that they had placed the entire issue partly in this country and partly abroad.

ATCHISON BONDS DECLINE.

New Issue Drops from 110 to 103¾ Owing to Convertible Clause.

The new 4 per cent. convertible bonds of the Atchison, which sold on Tuesday soon after the issue was announced at 110, dropped 4½ points over night and during yesterday's trading sold down 1¾ points more to an extreme low figure of 103¾.

Misapprehension over the conditions of the convertible clause in the new bonds was held responsible for the sudden break from the first estimate.

Former issues of Atchison convertibles were made exchangeable into stock from the date of issue. The terms of this new issue provide that the bonds shall not be convertible after June 1, 1913, and thereafter until June, 1923. The first announcement of the issue made after Tuesday's meeting of the directors of the road at which the $43,000,000 issue was authorized did not give all the details and this left the way open for the assumption that the terms of exchange would be the same as in the other issues. The formal announcement of the issue advertised by the road yesterday removed this expectation.

The first sale yesterday was at 105½. There was about $450,000 of the bonds traded in during the day. At last night's closing price of 104 the sales at Tuesday's price of 110 meant a loss of $600 on every $10,000 lot of the bonds.

The subscription rights to the new bonds, which sold Tuesday at 1⅛, dropped yesterday to 3-16.

LITTLE BOARD ELECTION NEAR

Three Candidates for President and Lively Canvass Going On.

The Consolidated Exchange is having a lively canvass just now for the coming election of officers. Former President Ogden D. Budd, who was succeeded by President Badeau, now in office, is one of the candidates for the Presidency, and R. M. Jarvis, a member of the Board of Governors and Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, and S. A. Luther, now First Vice President, are also candidates for first place. At the meetings of the Nominating Committee, Mr. Jarvis has appeared to be the favorite. He has been a member of the Exchange since 1896, and has served a number of terms on the Board of Governors. As Chairman of the Ways and Means Committee for the last two years he has taken an active part in the reform measures put through by the "Little Board."

BANK MERGER IN ABEYANCE.

No Conclusion in Negotiations Between the Phenix and Bank of New York.

An official of the Phenix National Bank said yesterday regarding the report of the merger with the Bank of New York that it had been proposed, but that so far no definite conclusion had been reached in the negotiations. It was likely to take some time, he said, to work the matter out and as yet there was no certainty that the plan would carry.

It was reported yesterday that the Mills Estate holdings of Bank of New York stock had been taken over by individuals interested in the negotiations for a merger with the Phenix. The possibility of the Chatham National Bank being made a third factor in the consolidation is being discussed.

STOCK EXCHANGE LISTINGS.

The following securities were admitted to listing on the Stock Exchange yesterday:

Syracuse Lighting Company, $500,000 additional first mortgage 5 per cent. fifty-year coupon bonds, due 1951, making the total listed to date $2,560,000.

New York Telephone Company, $12,500,000 first and general mortgage thirty-year 4½ per cent. bonds, due 1939, for $500 each, and £2,500,000 for £200 each and £100 each. In dealings in pounds sterling bonds $5 shall be the equivalence of one pound sterling.

Comstock Tunnel Company, $4,000,000 capital stock and $2,769,000 first mortgage thirty-year 4 per cent. income coupon bonds, due 1919.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Cotton Fabrics Containing "Cords" Are Held Not Subject to Extra Duty.

In sustaining a claim filed by McConnell & Co. the Board of United States General Appraisers held yesterday that figured cotton cloth of the kind in controversy is not subject to an additional duty of 2 cents per square yard, because the goods do not contain other than the ordinary warp and filling threads. The Government alleged that the cloth does contain other than the ordinary threads, and that therefore the additional tax was justified.

The case arises under the tariff of 1909, and the decision now made by General Appraiser Howell is the result of a rehearing of the issue at which the importers submitted additional evidence in support of their contention. The General Appraiser goes into a technical discussion of the law as it relates to textiles of the kind under protest. He reaches the conclusion that the provision in the Act of 1909 for cloth in which "other than the ordinary warp and filling threads are used to form a figure," being a substantial reenactment of the provision in Paragraph 313 of the Act of 1897, for cloth in which other than ordinary threads are introduced, merchandise that during the entire life of the Act of 1897 was uniformly held not to be within Paragraph 313 will, under the rule with respect to long-continued practice, be held to be excluded from Paragraph 323 of the subsequent act.

It appears that the cloth was so woven that certain warp threads were grouped together and covered on the face of the fabric with another warp thread, so that a so-called "cord" was formed. This cord is held not to be other than ordinary, the importer's claim being upheld.

THE COMMODITIES MARKETS.

Wheat Sustained by Dry Weather—Other Grains Dull and Heavy—Provisions Weaker—Cotton Irregular.

The storm which caused heavy precipitation in the Rocky Mountain region brought a very light rainfall in the plateau sections of the country; there was none shown in Kansas officially; none in Nebraska, and only a little yesterday in Oklahoma, and very little in Texas. Prices advanced about 1c a bushel on the continued dry weather, but on the advance there seemed to be a disposition to take profits, and in the absence of any volume of outside buying, the market sold off, losing part of the advance. The reports were very conflicting again from the Southwest. The Kansas dispatches continue of a most pessimistic character from the bulls, but of a comparatively optimistic character from the bears, and unless there is serious further damage the outlook there does not seem to be as serious as claimed. The movement of wheat continues liberal, and the stocks are increasing, but on account of the amount of damage reported in the Southwest but little attention is paid to the daily statistics. Some export business was reported in Manitoba wheat. Cash prices quoted: No. 2 red, Winter, elevator, $1.25½; No. 2 red, spot, nominal, $1.26½, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, opening, $1.26; No. 2 hard, Winter, nominal; No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, $1.18¼.

Corn was quiet and firm during the morning, influenced by the smaller receipts and rather light offerings in futures, but late in the session the effort of early buyers to realize resulted in a loss of the advance, and the market was only about steady at the close. Cash corn was quiet, with a moderate car-lot business. Cash corn quoted: No. 2, nominal; No. 4, 62½c, and steamer, 65c.

Oats were dull and rather heavy most of the day. This seemed to be due to the weather conditions. While there were no rains in Kansas, there were fairly good rains in Illinois and in portions of Iowa. The seeding has advanced rapidly under the very favorable weather conditions of late, and the rains will be very beneficial in permitting the early germinating. Northwest advices indicate very favorable progress in seeding of small grain in the Northwest. Cash oats quoted: Natural white, 49@51c; white, clipped, 50½@53c.

Provisions were weaker, and did not seem to have any support. Live hogs were lower, although supplies were not large. The market sold off rather easily, and in the afternoon displayed considerable heaviness.

COTTON.

Cotton was irregular with fluctuations rather narrow. The market apparently was prepared for a good deal of precipitation in the Far Southwest, but the official map did not confirm the private advices and prices sold up a few points after the opening, but later lost the rise and were rather heavy in the afternoon. The official report showed no rain in Texas or Oklahoma. There were some rains in Arkansas. The weather was cloudy in the Southwest and the market sold off, partly influenced by private dispatches reporting rains in a number of counties in Texas, and there were predictions of more. The reports that come from Texas again varied all the way from fairly good to very bad, and neither one nor the other seemed to have very much influence on the speculative trade. The near-by deliveries were generally heavy, excepting April, which was advanced to 10 points over May on the switching of about 15,000 bales to May and bidding for about 50,000 bales more at the same price. The bidding was ascribed to the bull interest, which, it was stated, were trying to get control of the cotton as soon as possible for the purpose of shipping it out, and also were endeavoring to influence Southern holders. On the other hand considerable cotton intended for May, it was stated, will be delivered in April on account of the premium and the saving in carrying charges. Southern spot markets unchanged.

New York spot cotton quiet, 10 decline. Middling uplands, 15.20; middling Gulf, 15.45.

COFFEE.

Coffee was not active, sales amounting to 12,000 bags, but there was more interest than for several days. There was considerable selling credited to Wall Street and against coffee, but offerings were well absorbed. The French market was ¼ franc lower, but Hamburg, after showing a decline of ¼@½ pfennig, recovered, and closed net unchanged. Brazilian markets were firm, with Rio 25 reis lower, and Santos unchanged. The visible supply of coffee in and afloat for the United States was 3,365,084 bags, against 3,982,310 bags last year and 3,819,068 bags two years ago. IRON AND STEEL NOTES.

Rolling Mills Active, but Pig Iron Keeps Low and Domestic Rails Are Light.

The Iron Age, commenting on conditions in the steel industry, says:

Rolled products, in contrast with raw materials, continue to give the best account of iron trade conditions. The volume of business seems well maintained, and if steel works and rolling mill capacity were not more than that of 1907 we should doubtless be entering upon a period of rising prices. That prices are so generally maintained, with production at such an unparalleled rate, and with open markets in all departments of the trade, is good evidence of sustained buying.

Pig iron is still out of line. Prices are lower in all markets; more noticeably so in the Central West, since activity is greatest there. It is now possible to buy No. 2 foundry iron at $12.50, Birmingham, for delivery into the third quarter.

Domestic rail sales have been light, but rail orders for foreign shipment reached the unusual aggregate of 70,000 tons last week, distributed among several mills. The largest interest sold 12,000 tons for shipment to Queensland.

Car orders reached the total of 8,200 last week, and for March will amount to more than 20,000. The Steel Corporation is placing forty-six locomotives for the Elgin, Joliet & Eastern Railroad and 1,000 steel cars for its Union Railway.

The outlook in structural steel is excellent. Fabricators at Chicago are bidding on 50,000 tons of bridge work, of which the largest single inquiry is for 12,000 tons for the Northern Pacific. The Rothschild Department Store at Chicago will take 8,000 tons.

Little anxiety, The Iron Age adds, is felt over the disagreement at the conference of bituminous miners and operators at Cincinnati. In the Chicago district in particular, it says, consumers are well stocked, and in a number of districts in the Central West from sixty to ninety days' supply is being carried.

The Coming Paris Salons

Representative paintings from the "old" Salon and the Beaux Arts will be reproduced in fine half tone in the Pictorial Section of Next Sunday's Times.

The Magazine Section will be filled with articles of unusual interest and timeliness. Among them will be the following:

A New Diamond Trust — The Syndicates now controlling the market are to have a rival, and it may cause a lowering of prices of the glittering gems.

Finland Faces a Crisis — The situation since the Czar's recent action in regard to that country is decidedly interesting.

The Fascinating Countess Tarnowska — The murder trial at Venice, in which she is the centre of interest, grows more dramatic every day.

Economical Use of Meat — The United States Government has had experts trying to solve this problem. Their report is worth your reading.

"Land of the Almighty Dollar" — Opinions of two Frenchmen who made a quick trip through America and wrote about it.

The Weather Man on the Weather — Willis Moore, head of the Bureau at Washington, writes of many phases of the work.

Social Geography of East Side — Remarkable study by a Professor of Economics of New York's area of many strange tongues.

Hy. Mayer's Clever Cartoons — This satirist with the brush pictures the passing events of the week in a happy vein.

FIFTY PER CENT. CASH DIVIDEND BY LEHIGH

Stockholders to Get, in Addition, Rights to Subscribe to New Shares at Par.

Morgan and Moore-Reid Interests, Recently Acquired, Approve the Plan—Miller to Succeed President Thomas.

The expected distribution to stockholders of the Lehigh Valley Railroad will take the form, it was understood in the financial district yesterday, of a 50 per cent. cash dividend, accompanied by an offer of new stock at par, the present stockholders having the right to subscribe to one new share for each share now held. The cash dividend will give the stockholders half of the subscription price. The proceeds of this new stock, after allowing for the 50 per cent. cash dividend, will give the company funds for future requirements, including the payment of $6,000,000 bonds which mature Sept. 1. The Lehigh Valley has outstanding $40,334,800 stock, so this special dividend will give the stockholders more than $20,000,000.

In connection with the plan which is understood to have been worked out with the approval of the Morgan and Moore-Reid interests, which recently purchased a large share of Lehigh stock, it was reported yesterday that H. I. Miller will succeed E. B. Thomas as President, and that Mr. Thomas will become Chairman of the board. Mr. Miller was until recently President of the Chicago & East Illinois.

The listing of Lehigh Valley on the New York Stock Exchange is looked upon as likely to follow. The cash dividend is intended as a return to stockholders of benefits derived from the large sums which have been spent on improvements out of earnings. The surplus, with such additions as will be made to it this year, is large enough for the dividend.

METAL MARKET REPORTS.

At the Metal Exchange yesterday a little more business was transacted, prices ruling steady. Copper was unchanged. Tin was up ⅛c in the bid; a sale of 10 tons of May was made at 33.25. Lead was firmer in the bid.

On the London Metal Exchange yesterday copper at the close remained unchanged over the initial prices of the day, but registered a decline of 7s 6d from the final figures of Tuesday for both commodities. The market finished steady, closing quotations ruling at: Spot, £58; futures, £59 2s 6d.

Tin ended steady, with spot and future deliveries each up £1, to £150 15s and £152 15s, respectively. Cleveland warrants were quoted at 51s 7½d. Spanish pig lead was steady and unchanged at £12 18s 9d.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Active and Lower—Call Money Rates, 2½@3 Per Cent.

THE TRADING PROFESSIONAL

Selling by Speculative Element Unopposed and Provokes Some Liquidation—Exchange Moves Up.

There was repeated on the Stock Exchange yesterday the price movement of Monday. In the early part of the session the market was narrow and inactive, but around midday the traders and speculators in a large way, whose operations have for a fortnight or so dominated the market, renewed their attacks upon prices, which yielded easily, and at the low levels invited a larger volume of genuine liquidation than has been the case in any similar decline in the recent past. A half-hearted recovery marked the closing moments of the trading, but prices of active shares at the end represented losses of from 1 to 2 points as compared with the corresponding figures on Tuesday night.

The move against the market was based, according to the professions of those engaged in it, upon the very sharp rise in demand sterling in the foreign exchange market, promising early exports of gold, the prospect of much cooler weather in the West, with possible frosts, owing to the severe snowstorms moving in that direction from the Rocky Mountains, and the possibility of a decision in the Tobacco case on Monday next, following the determination of the Supreme Court Justices not to accompany the remains of Justice Brewer to Kansas. Such arguments as a reason for weakness in the stock market hardly bear analysis, however adequately they may serve the momentary purposes of speculators. It is obvious, for example, that substantial shipments of gold from this side to London may enable the Bank of England to meet the extraordinary demands being made upon it just now without recourse to a 5 per cent. discount rate, and it is naturally to the interest of our own financial situation that money stress in London be averted. So far as cooler weather for the crop country is concerned, as a stock market argument it is enough to note the fact that the investigators now in the field have expressed the opinion that this was exactly what is needed. Again, early decisions in both the Tobacco and Standard Oil cases are in every way desirable, and if the fact that the Supreme Court is to meet as usual on Monday next means a verdict in the Tobacco case the fact forms no cause for anxiety. It will probably be discovered, as was true in the Northern Securities affair, that the outcome has been pretty thoroughly discounted. Actual developments of the day included such a noteworthy occurrence as the voluntary increase in wages made by the Pennsylvania Railroad to practically all its army of employes, an incident which it is difficult to construe as anything but favorable, since the managers of this great property would hardly have taken the step had they not felt confident of the business future; the averting of a soft coal strike through a decision of the Central Association to leave the settlement of all questions to State organizations, and the semi-official announcement of a handsome distribution of profits for the stockholders of the Lehigh Valley Railroad, an announcement which had considerable to do with the firmer tone of prices in the closing minutes of business.

As a result of the day's advance in the exchange market demand sterling came within less than a half cent of the figure at which gold usually goes out directly to Europe. Shipments are plainly indicated, inasmuch as sales of bonds to foreign investors have fallen away, while the European selling of our stocks speculatively held is fairly general and the trade balance continues adverse. In banking quarters no disquiet exists over the prospect of exports. Save for the hardening of the money market incidental to the April 1 disbursements and current corporation financing conditions promise ease sufficient to provide for the prospective exports without embarrassment.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Substantial Declines in Many Issues, with Fair Volume of Trading on the Curb.

COPPER STOCKS SELL OFF

Ray Central Active on Decline—Heavy Loss in "When Issued" Contracts for New Atchison 4s.

Trading was in somewhat better volume on the Curb yesterday, and there were a number of substantial recessions, particularly in the coppers. Miami dropped from 22⅜ to 21⅜ on transactions of 1,000 shares, and Nevada Consolidated sold 3,000 shares, between 21⅝, which was the opening price, and 20¾, closing at 21. Ray Consolidated sold 2,000 shares between 20⅜ and 19½, closing at the low figure, which was ¾ below the opening level. Giroux sold 4,000 shares from 8½ down to 8, and Ray Central, which was unusually active, sold from 3 7-16 down to 3 3-16, closing at 3¼, after transactions of 15,000 shares. Butte Coalition and Greene-Cananea on the other hand made small gains. The Rubber shares also sold off. In the bond list there was a notable decline in the "when issued" contracts in the new Atchison 4s. On reported transactions of $450,000 the price dropped from the opening at 105½ to 103¾, the close being at 104.

CHICAGO, March 30.—On the local exchange to-day extreme dullness characterized trading. A number of the leading issues were traded in, but only in a small way. Illinois Brick at one time was up a point, but did not hold. Prices for other stocks were generally steady, and bonds were also unchanged.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Big Railroad Earnings.

Several railroad statements for February, which came to hand yesterday, showed large increases in gross and generally a favorable showing in net earnings. The Southern Pacific, with a gross increase of $1,544,108 and a net increase of $509,772 for the month, held the lead in these statements. The Union Pacific reported an increase of $1,342,461 in gross and $384,893 in net. Less favorable relation between gross and net was shown in the statements of some other roads, including the Erie, which with a gross increase of $261,738, reported a gain of only $21,579 in net. The increases reported by the Harriman roads brought their earnings for the short month of February up to more than $10,100,000 for the Southern Pacific and more than $6,300,000 for the Union Pacific.

Bond Market Decline.

Besides the sharp drop in the new Atchison convertible 4 per cent. bonds, several issues which figured in the day's bond trading on the Stock Exchange showed further losses to those recorded on the earlier days of the week. Among them were the 4 per cent. bonds of the Union Pacific, which sold under par for the first time in a very long while. The great value of the assets owned by the Union Pacific and the enormous equity over these bonds represented by the other outstanding bonds and stock of the Union Pacific, have placed these bonds in a position of more than special strength and their decline to under par attracted, therefore, all the more attention. The fact of the matter, as bankers put it, is that investors are no longer satisfied with the rate of interest which they formerly were glad enough to take, and the low interest-bearing bonds are feeling the effect of this attitude on the part of investors.

Hawley Inspection Party.

Edwin Hawley and other officials of the Chesapeake & Ohio and other Hawley roads started yesterday for a trip of inspection over the Chesapeake, the newly acquired Hocking Valley and other roads included in the Hawley group. President Stevens, of the Chesapeake & Ohio, and Chairman Frank Trumbull of that road will be in the party with Mr. Hawley. Mr. Hawley and his associates are in the habit of making these trips of inspection at fairly frequent intervals, as a way of keeping in close touch with the business of the roads and of their needs in the way of improvements and other such matters.

May Buy Hetty Green' Road.

Officials of the St. Louis & San Francisco had nothing to say yesterday when asked about the report that the 'Frisco or interests allied with it, would take over the Texas Midland, control of which was purchased some years ago by Mrs. Hetty Green, and of which her son is President. It is a line about 125 miles long. The report was that the 'Frisco was planning to acquire it, with a view to using it in connection with other lines.

Chance of Gold Exports.

The conviction in bankers' minds that this country will soon have to export gold to Europe was strengthened yesterday by a further advance in sterling exchange rates to 4.87¾ for demand bills, which brought the market much closer to the gold export point. The unfavorable showing made by the country's foreign commerce in the matter of the excess of imports over exports is pointing clearly to the likelihood of gold exports in considerable volume. The only escape from gold exports, it has been thought, lay in the possibility that Europe would buy enough of our securities to offset our debit balance to Europe. Europe recently took a considerable amount of our bonds, but not enough, it is thought, to offset the balance due by us to Europe on other items, and now securities are again coming this way, increasing the chance of our having in the very near future to send gold to Europe.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE.

Wednesday.

Most of the leading stocks sold on the Consolidated Stock Exchange at prices ⅛ to ¼ of a point under the low figures touched on the New York Stock Exchange. Selling pressure against the market was pronounced throughout the day. It represented both the operations of professional traders on the floor on the bear side and the closing out of impaired accounts by commission houses. Sales were on a heavy scale, totaling 115,150 shares.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, March 30.—A violent jump in Lehigh Valley in the last hour's dealings was the feature of the Philadelphia trading to-day. There was a rumor that the company would soon declare a 50 per cent. dividend in either stock or cash. The stock rose from 115 to 118. About 6,000 shares were traded in during the session, a large proportion of which changed hands during the last hour. Notwithstanding this it was one of the dullest sessions in some time. United States Steel was by far the most active as well as the weakest feature, while Lehigh Valley, as already stated, was a feature of strength. Philadelphia Electric fell back to 15½, but rallied again at the close. United Gas Improvement held steady.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

Brown Brothers & Co. announce that the entire issue of $1,650,000 Bangor & Aroostook Railroad, Washburn extension 5s, has been sold.

Warren, Gzowski & Co. of 25 Broad Street announce that their 1910 edition of "Cobalt Facts" is ready for distribution. Copies may be had on request.

The State of Oklahoma has designated the National Reserve Bank to act as fiscal agent of the State for the payment of all bonds and coupons issued by the State or any county, city, school district, or Board of Education, which, by the terms of the bonds and coupons, are made payable in the City of New York.

Speyer & Co. have purchased from the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railway Company about $6,750,000 4½ per cent. equipment trust notes, Series D, secured on standard equipment about $7,500,000. The notes are dated May 1, 1910, and the issue matures in thirty semi-annual installments of $225,000 each from Nov. 1, 1910, to May 1, 1925. The notes have all been sold privately by the bankers here and in Europe.

DELAWARE & HUDSON GAINS.

But Its Coal Earnings Were Less Owing to Depression in Trade.

A decrease of $7,506,000 in the gross receipts of the coal department and an increase of $1,025,000 in the gross earnings of the railroad are reported by the Delaware & Hudson Company in its annual pamphlet report for the year ended Dec. 31 last, issued yesterday. The coal department earned $16,340,000 gross and $507,875 net on 6,238,000 tons, 575,547 tons less than the 1908 output, a loss explained by President L. F. Loree as due to the general depression of the year in the coal business.

The railroad's gross was $19,525,000, its net $8,067,000, an increase of $378,000, and the company's net income was $5,194,000, or 12.22 per cent. on the capital of $42,501,000. President Loree reported increases of $101,000 in capital stock, $7,395,000 in first and refunding gold bonds, and a decrease of $4,175,000 in floating debt. Referring to the "commodity clause" decision, Mr. Loree said the Delaware & Hudson was within the law, since it sold in the State of Pennsylvania all coal mined by it.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Americans Advance, Then Ease Off at Close in London.

LONDON, March 30.—Money was in strong demand and higher to-day. Discount rates were easy.

On the Stock Exchange the settlement occupied much of the attention of traders. Carryover rates were higher, Americans ranging from 5 to 6 per cent.

New speculative business was brisk in Kaffirs, copper, and rubber shares, and Mexican rails, while investors supported home rails and Japanese bonds at improving prices. Otherwise the movements were narrow, but the tone was firm.

American securities opened a fraction higher, and during the early session improved on covering induced by better labor news. Canadian Pacific shares were strong. Prices remained near the high point until the afternoon, when New York offerings caused a relapse, and the market closed easy.

Bar silver steady, 24⅛d per ounce.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, March 30.—The selling movement in the local market which was in evidence in a small way during the first hour this morning got well under way in the afternoon and continued through to the close of the session, with the result that prices went off again sharply. The Lake issues were the worst sufferers, the two leaders, Lake Copper and North Lake, breaking 5½ and 2⅝ points respectively. Amalgamated was sold freely, the prices running off over 2 points, and this started the other Butte issues, North Butte declining a point, Parrot a point, and Butte Coalition a large fraction.

IN THE REAL ESTATE FIELD

Activity in the Loft Building Zone Continues—New Twelve Story Loft for West 24th Street—The Lorenzo Sold—Another Co-operative Apartment for Park Ave.

Activity in the loft zone both in sales and building operations continues without cessation. Yesterday the sale was announced of the plot at 30 and 32 West Twenty-fourth Street, 45 by 98.9, and the purchasers, the Marmac Construction Company, represented by S. B. Goodale & Son, intend to improve the plot at once by a twelve-story fireproof loft building, for which plans are now being prepared by Frederick C. Browne. The two old five-story houses on the property will be torn down within a short time. The plot was owned by Mrs. M. Livingston and was sold through D. Y. Swainson of the real estate firm of L. J. Carpenter. The Marmac Construction Company has been a large operator in the loft section. The plot about to be improved for business purposes marks the fourth big operation of this character to be undertaken within the past year in the block bounded by Fifth and Sixth Avenues, Twenty-third and Twenty-fourth Streets. It is east of the new twelve-story Masonic Temple annex, and adjoins on the rear the yard of the famous old Schermerhorn residence in Twenty-third Street, the only private house in that block which has thus far resisted the encroachments of business.

Ten-Story Loft for West 14th Street.

Mooyer & Marston have sold for M. A. McLaughlin to Mme. Leuicomme De Pless the property 235 and 237 West Fourteenth Street, two four-story buildings, on plot 31.6 by 132.

As soon as possession can be arranged it is the intention of the new owner to improve the plot with a ten-story loft building. The last transfer of the property was in 1896.

Deal in "Penn" Loft Zone.

Ames & Co. have sold for the Prudential Real Estate Corporation 242 West Twenty-seventh Street, a three-story dwelling, on lot 24.10 by 98.9, to Joseph C. Strout. The buyer will alter the building and use it as a garage.

Investor Buys the Lorenzo.

The Lorenzo, a seven-story apartment house, at 225, 227 and 229 West Thirty-fifth Street, has been sold by George W. Eggers to an investor.

The property, which occupies a plot 42.4 by 98.9, lies between Seventh and Eighth Avenues and adjoins the Boys' Home on the west. Last month the property was reported sold to a syndicate, but the deal was never consummated.

The Taylor-Sherman Company has sold for Thomas O'Neil and Frederick J. Kelly 238 and 240 West Fifty-sixth Street, two four-story dwellings, on a plot 45 by 100.5.

Another Co-operative Apartment.

Clifton G. Marshall has resold the three four-story dwellings, on plot 100.5 by 60, at the southeast corner of Park Avenue and Sixtieth Street.

The purchaser is a company in which Walter Russell, the artist, is said to be interested. A co-operative apartment house will be erected on the site.

John J. Kavanagh has sold for the estate of Brian McKenny, 1,021 Madison Avenue, a four-story dwelling, on lot 20.4 by 75, adjoining the southeast corner of Seventy-ninth Street.

Big Apartment on 79th St. Plot.

An $80,000 Deal in Jersey City.

August Laterman, President of the Greenville Real Estate Company, sold to J. McLaughlin of this city, for the owners, the Jackson Construction Company, the five two-story and store brick buildings in course of erection at the southwest corner of Bayview and Jackson Avenue, Jersey City, at a price said to be $50,000. The property at the northwest corner of Myrtle and Jackson Avenues, which is similar in type, changed hands for a consideration of $30,000. The fact that these buildings are practically sold from the plans lends added interest to the sale.

H. L. Moxley & Co. have sold for James N. Heatherton his country seat, known as Ivy Court, at Ridgewood, N. J., consisting of an old mansion and about seven acres of ground. It was held at $50,000.

Thomas of Simsbury, Conn., as owner, replacing two of the old-fashioned four-story dwelling houses in the Gramercy Park East district. It will be finished in brick covered with cement plaster and decorated with mullion bays of leaded glass, and a roof of tile, the design being by Frederick J. Sterner as architect. The building is to cost $50,000, and will be opposite a group of three dwellings adjoining the Hotel Irving, one of which Mr. Thomas owns.

Dreamland Property Sold.

The Dreamland Company's property at Coney Island was sold yesterday in friendly foreclosure proceedings to settle the security of the debenture bonds. William H. Smith of Brooklyn conducted the sale, the property being disposed of in two parcels, and was bought in by the company for $50,000 and $30,000 respectively.

The proceedings were begun in the Supreme Court by Eugene Wood and Joseph Huber, the largest holders of the debenture bonds, to secure additional security for the amounts invested in the corporation. The debenture bonds, which were issued in addition to the mortgages placed on the property, have been partially paid off from the receipts, but owing to the need of expending large additional amounts in improvements about $500,000 of these have not been discharged.

New Hotel for Times Square.

Plans were filed yesterday for a new six-story hotel for George F. Considine, proprietor of the old Hotel Metropole, to be built from drawings by George F. Pelham, architect, on the sixty-foot plot at 147 to 151 West Forty-third Street, adjoining the Hotel Cadillac. The building is to have a façade of unusual design formed of ornamental brick set in a decorative pattern around tiers of small-paned windows. It is to cost $250,000.

A twenty-one years' renewal of the lease of 149 and 151 West Forty-third Street was recorded yesterday from Alonzo Hornby to George F. Considine at $21,000 per year.

Loft on Belmont Residence Site.

Henry Ives Cobb, as architect, filed plans yesterday for a new twelve-story loft and store building to be erected for August Belmont on the site of the latter's and August Belmont, Jr.'s, residence, 44 and 46 East Thirty-fourth Street, respectively extending 107½ feet back to Thirty-third Street. It will front 53.2 feet on Thirty-fourth Street and 24½ feet on Thirty-third Street. The façades will be of cut limestone and terra cotta, finished with a cornice of Gothic pinnacle pattern. The façade will be decorated with small carved figures and ornamental trimmings. The building is to cost $225,000.

Building Boom in Yonkers.

During the first twenty-two days of March twice as many applications for building permits were filed with Building Inspector Bartley of Yonkers as were filed during the entire month of March last year, and the applications are still pouring in. There were sixty applications for permits in three weeks.

Notes.

The Title Guarantee and Trust Company made the first advances yesterday on two building loans of $60,000 each to the Fogliasso-Clement Building Company on the seven-story brick and iron fireproof buildings to be erected on the west side of Macdougal Street, near Bleecker Street.

To-day the twenty-eight parcels belonging to the Appley-Shrady estate will be offered at auction by Joseph P. Day at the Vesey Street Salesroom.

A member of the Board of Trustees of the Congregation B'nai-Jeshurun of Sixty-fifth Street and Madison Avenue denies that the congregation has purchased a new site at Eighty-seventh Street and Central Park West.

Exteriors and Value.

THE drawing qualities of an apartment house or office building depend greatly upon the exterior.

It costs as much to lay a poor brick as a good one. The difference in cost of material may be but slight; but color, richness of tone, durability of color, may mean the success or failure of a building as an investment.

Want Philosophy.

Selling your services is a good deal like selling shoes, automobiles or fur coats, so far as advertising is concerned; it is giving a good description of the article and telling the price.

There are bargain sales in services as in dry goods. A man says: "Will start on $100 month if there is good opportunity to advance."

Isn't that an indication that he feels he is worth more, but in order to get started will cut his price—temporarily?

But he must tell more than the price if the advertisement is to be entirely successful—he must give a description of himself, just as the man who advertises cloth and silks. If he offers silk for sale, reduced from $1.50 to 98 cents a yard, that's only half the story—he's got to tell whether it's a yard wide, 40 inches wide, 42 inches wide, or "double width." This description tells the quality, and tells a woman whether a dress will cost $7 or $15 to $20.

If it's double width, the woman who wants to spend about $7 will make a purchase; if it's single width, the woman with more money to spend will respond.

That's the way Want advertising should be done—tell just about what you are, how broad your experience is, in detail, and just about what you've done.

Then the man who actually needs your services will be most likely to send for you.

Get to the point—if you don't know just how to write a good detailed advertisement without making it spread out to an unreasonable cost, call or telephone The Times, 1000 Bryant—have your advertisement written without extra charge.

GAYNOR ASKS PITY FOR UNFORTUNATE

"Don't Be Rough or Oppressive," He Tells Them in Outlining Their Proper Procedure.

Mayor Gaynor had the City Marshals, who are attachés of his office, before him yesterday at their request, and delivered to them a further exposition on the administration of the law. He told them that they must consider themselves his direct representatives in the administration of their duties, and instructed them to be as "gentle" as possible in the serving of dispossess notices.

"Don't be rough or oppressive," said he. "Be careful, prudent, and good to people. You have to do many a hard thing, to be sure. I know it is a pretty hard thing to go into a house and take a man's goods away. When you have to do it, do it as silently and in as gentlemanly a way as you can."

This is the speech the Mayor made:

"I think you can always get advice through my office. You are my appointees, and in a sense a part of my staff. That is why I want you all to be very careful about what you do, not do wrong things or stretch the law, or be oppressive because you represent the Mayor. In a sense you are a part of the staff of my office, and that is why I have inquired into the conduct of some of your members, and had some of them removed from office, and I am not through with that yet by a good deal. Most of you are reputable men and want to do right, and I expect you to uphold me in weeding out from your number men who are oppressing people by virtue of their shields and their authority, which is unlawful.

"While I am on that head I want to call your attention to the fact that in the case of goods levied upon I find that almost invariably there is an excessive charge made for transportation and storage, sometimes when there is neither transportation nor storage. Now, that ought to cease. You should not swell these expenses to make them larger than they are. You are dealing mostly with people that can ill afford to lose anything at all, and the truth is you only hurt yourselves by any excessive or oppressive charges, because people stay away from you, won't have anything to do with you, won't employ you. When complaints come up for these excessive charges I am bound to tell you I will have to take note of them. The law does not permit it. And in all cases you are to furnish itemized statements of your charges where they are asked for by either party to the action or by the party who employs you. And in the case of foreclosure of chattel mortgages, you have got no official character whatever. You have got no right to use your shields or your official authority. You are not any more than any private citizen.

"Anybody can foreclose a chattel mortgage, you know. You don't need a marshal or a sheriff to foreclose a mortgage, and where you make use of your official place and shield to use force in such cases or do things that a private citizen could not do, you are liable to be sued, and also be removed from your office. I do not say you should not foreclose mortgages. You have a right to do that as a private citizen, but you have no right at all conferred on you in that respect by virtue of your being marshals any more than the sheriff of the county has. I can foreclose a mortgage, you know, not as Mayor but as a private individual, and that I am Mayor would not help me a particle, nor confer any authority on me, nor have you any authority in that respect. I want to caution you to proceed like orderly men, and above all things be gentle in the performance of your duty. Don't be rough or oppressive; be careful, prudent, and good to people. You have to do many a hard thing to be sure. I know it is a pretty hard thing to go into a house or place and take a man's goods away. When you have to do it do it as silently and as gentlemanly as you can. Don't make levies where it is doubtful. Let the parties bond you.

"Where your own judgment tells you a man doesn't own the property, don't make a levy. That will regulate itself anyway, because you are liable on your bond for that, as you all know.

"This thing about the legal advice—you can always get that through this office.

"In those cases of dispossess proceedings the unfortunate people put out will have to take their goods away as best they can. If they are not able to, generally some charitably disposed people will take care of them. There are certainly people enough roaming around the east side in the name of charity to take care of the goods of dispossessed people.

"As to calling on police officers to preserve the peace. You are a policeman. Why call a policeman? You are a Marshal, with authority to arrest. Any citizen can make an arrest. A policeman has got no more power of arrest than any citizen without a warrant. I should call on the police as little as possible if I were you. Exercise your own authority, and let them keep to their posts. There are times, of course, of violence when you may have to call in a policeman in such case to help you, but that must be very seldom, according to my experience. People are orderly, and when you go and show your warrant from the court it is very seldom any one will gainsay it or resist it."

The Mayor met the Marshals at their request. They have an association, and they asked him to receive them and give them advice as to how he would like them to carry out their duties.

JUSTICE PATTERSON MEMORIAL

Bench and Bar Honor the Memory of the Late Jurist.

Memorial exercises for Edward Patterson, Presiding Justice of the Appellate Division of the First Judicial Department, who was on the Supreme Court Bench of New York for twenty-three years, were held yesterday by the bench and bar of New York County. The immediate family of the late Justice, all the Justices of the Trial and Special Term of the Supreme Court, the Justices of the Appellate Division, and many lawyers were present. The speakers were Joseph H. Choate, former Justice Dillon, ex-Justice Morgan J. O'Brien, and Prof. William A. Parrington of the New York University Law School.

The exercises, under the supervision of the Association of the Bar of New York County, began at 4 o'clock in the courtroom of the Appellate Division Court House, Justice Ingraham presiding. Letters of regret were received from Gov. Hughes, Senator Root, and Chief Judge Cullen of the Court of Appeals.

"Justice Patterson," said Mr. Choate, "was an honor to his profession. He regarded the law as a close fraternity and it an honor to belong to it. By natural instincts he was a Republican, but by action he was a Democrat, and attracted the attention of both parties. His nomination was compelled by the system that prevails in Massachusetts of getting the best man for judicial office. As a Judge he was no respecter of persons. He knew no rich, no poor, none with influence, and none without. He knew only the cause and he tried to do justice to all."

Ex-Justice O'Brien pointed out that of the original seven Justices who were appointed to the Appellate Division, only one remained on the bench; four, including Justice Patterson, had died.

NO TRACE OF BUGHER GEMS.

Police Here and in Washington Are on the Lookout for a Servant.

WASHINGTON, March 30.—No trace has been found of the valuable jewels belonging to Mrs. Henrietta Bugher, mother of the Deputy Police Commissioner of New York, which were stolen in this city on Monday from the home of Mrs. Nicoll Ludlow, where Mrs. Bugher was a guest.

A servant in the Ludlow household, who disappeared about the same time it was discovered that the jewels were missing, and for whom the police have been asked to look, has not been arrested yet.

Mrs. Bugher's jewels were valued at nearly $25,000. Mrs. Bugher declined to discuss the robbery.

A dozen detectives have been assigned to trace the jewelry here. The pawnshop squad also has received special instructions to be on the lookout for the [illegible]

THIS THE NEW WORLD'S ROME.

So Says Archbishop Farley to the St. Francis Xavier Sodality.

That it was their duty to make this city go down in history as "the Rome of the New World," was the message of Archbishop Farley to the 200 Catholics at the annual dinner of the Xavier Alumni Sodality last night at the Hotel Astor.

"I met a Southern lady to-day," said the Archbishop, "who said she was proud to come to the greatest Catholic city in the United States. 'It is the Rome of the New World,' she said, and I believe it. In my travels through Europe I found nothing to change my belief that New York is the greatest Catholic city in the world.

"Our co-religionists are few and not so well off, but here you are sustained by a community of Catholic men such as you will not find anywhere else. Your ancestors brought about toleration to the Catholic faith here, and it is your duty now to keep it up."

The Rev. Thomas J. McCluskey, S. J., President of St. Francis Xavier's College, told the diners that even if a man has contracted a non-Catholic marriage, his first duty is to his wife.

"If he has plighted his love to her, even by a ring which is not blessed," he continued, "let his duty be to her first, for she is 'bone of his bone and flesh of his flesh,' and 'what God has joined together let no man put asunder.'"

Father McCluskey also put in a plea for greater support of Catholic educational institutions, and urged that Catholics in this State take a greater interest in civil rights. He urged the establishment of a Catholic press which should receive financial support from Catholics, and free them from slothfulness.

"The greatest power in the world today," he said, "is the press. Even President Taft only the other day almost went down on his knees to the press."

Other speakers were Dr. Francis J. Quinlan, President of the Sodality; Congressman Thomas A. Brennan, Robert N. King, Percy J. King, and John D. Moore.

THE FIGHT ON 'DEATH AVENUE'

Coming Mass Meeting Against the Central's Use of Eleventh Avenue Tracks.

A mass meeting to protest against the New York Central Railroad's continued occupation of Eleventh Avenue will be held on April 7 at the Amsterdam Opera House in West Forty-fourth Street under the auspices of the "League to End Death Avenue."

Herman W. Beyer, President of the league, will preside. Representatives of many reform, taxpayers', and labor bodies will speak, and there will be music and an entertainment.

The league, which was organized three weeks ago, held its third meeting last night in Reisenweber's Hotel, on Columbus Circle. Besides planning for the mass meeting, a committee was appointed to ask Corporation Counsel Watson whether Clarence J. Shearn, whom the league plans to retain as its chief counsel, may co-operate with the Corporation Counsel in the latter's endeavor to oust the Central from Eleventh Avenue.

Referee D Cady Herrick three weeks ago handed down a decision against the city in the injunction suit which the Central brought to restrain the municipal authorities from tearing up the railroad tracks. Yesterday the city entered judgment against itself in the suit so that it might take an immediate appeal.

The league is also planning to bring a taxpayer's suit against the Central on the ground that the tracks are a menace, a nuisance, and an impediment to business.

YOUNG MORGAN GIVES PRIZES.

Distributes Diplomas to New York Trade School Graduates.

J. Pierpont Morgan, Jr., handed the nineteen honor men of the graduating class of the New York Trade School their diplomas last night at the commencement exercises of the institution. Mr. Morgan, who is a Trustee of the school, did not make a speech. Mrs. Morgan sat with her husband on the stage.

R. Fulton Cutting, President of the Trustees, presided and made a short address, in which he told the graduates that they would meet with prejudice against trade schools when they got out into the world, but urged them "to stick to it" and make their work tell for them.

It was the twenty-ninth annual commencement exercises of the school held in the Assembly Hall, at Sixty-seventh Street and First Avenue. Among the other Trustees present were F. Augustus Schermerhorn, Francis C. Huntington, and J. Roosevelt Roosevelt.

FOR THE TABLE.

Chantecler with a red comb and a tail of aristocratic sweep appears on the corner of place cards.

Attractive baskets of dark brown willow holding vases of iridescent glass are pretty to hold a few flowers for the centrepieces at Spring luncheons. The baskets may be in any color and are finished in white enamel.

Mushrooms are good at seventy-five cents a pound.

The new fresh vegetables are coming in. Asparagus sells at sixty cents for a bunch of from twelve to fourteen large stalks, or larger bunches of smaller stalks in less expensive shops can be had for twenty-five cents.

A good stuffing for squabs is the tender part of celery cut fine. The birds are filled very full with this, with a large lump of butter and salt for seasoning.

Salt mackeral is a good dish for a Spring morning meal if it is well cooked. A good way is to soak it over night, with the skin side up, in a large dish of water. Place it in a shallow buttered baking pan, skin side down, place small pieces of butter on the top, pour over some cream or rich milk, and let bake in the oven half an hour.

Some housekeepers soak the mackeral twenty-four hours and then hang twenty-four hours to become firm and hard again. When it has been treated in this way it can be fried in a pan with butter, first on one side and then on another, the big centre bone loosened, if desired, while the fish is cooking, removed before the fish is put on the platter, and a part of a cup of cream or rich milk, which has been heated and seasoned with a little salt and pepper, is poured over it as it is sent to the table.

'I KICKED NOBLEMEN OUT,' SAYS BARNES

Defendant in Copper Case Says They Wanted Count to Desert His Family.

THE DEFENSE IS BEGUN

More Letters to Crown Prince of Germany from von Hochberg Are Read at Trial of the Mining Promoter.

At a night session of the criminal branch of the Supreme Court last night, before Justice Goff, where Noan E. Barnes is being tried for grand larceny in connection with the affairs of the Cottonwood Creek Copper Company, the prosecution closed its case and counsel for Barnes opened the defense in a short address.

"We will show you," said he, "that Barnes had no money of the Cottonwood Creek Copper Company on the dates charged, and we will be very specific as to those dates. We will show you that in the main the statements of Count von Hochberg were false and knowingly so. We will show you that this $30,000 was withdrawn from the New Amsterdam Bank and at once deposited in the New Amsterdam Safe Deposit Company, and that there was in no way any larceny by this defendant."

Barnes contends that he withdrew the funds to save them from an impending bank failure.

Arthur D. Weller, Assistant Secretary of the Cottonwood Creek Copper Company, the first witness for Barnes, testified that the money in the New Amsterdam Bank was due to Barnes as commissions on the sale of stock, and had been voted to him by the Directors. Weller testified that the meetings which Count von Hochberg had declared had not taken place had actually occurred, and that the Count had been present.

The testimony of Count Hans Ferdinand von Hochberg concluded with a short redirect examination by Assistant District Attorney Bostwick. The Count had identified several other letters from the Crown Prince of Germany addressed to "Dear Mucki" and signed "Caesar."

"Your father still loves you very much," the Crown Prince wrote to his former aid de camp, "but your mother. I am sorry to say, has completely given you up." The Count had incurred the displeasure of his family by marrying a Berlin shop girl. In reply the Count wrote:

> My Dear Caesar: The recent action of my parents in trying to turn you, my best friend, against me is not a very noble action by the heads of the Hochberg family. Whatever the conditions were under which I married my wife nobody can and will look upon them as dishonest, and nobody can play upon my honor with impunity. I will fight until the last drop of blood leaves my veins.
> If I have violated the traditions of my family, I have gone abroad for that, and nobody can ask more. I will never change my name because I married the lady of my choice.
> Of course it is true that he has acquired those ancient ideas of aristocracy as to what is right and wrong. But he is not to be blamed by this, because he does not know what a glorious and pleasant thing it is to be a man of the people, the same as I am, free and independent.

In a letter to his father, who has charge of the Imperial Theaters in Germany, the count said:

> I am now living in a world that is modern and I have adopted modern ideas, which our children's children will love, honor, and respect. My child could not respect me if I sold my name and birthright for greed of gold.
> I was willing to do anything you personally requested. But when an attorney steps in the blood of the Hochberg family rises in my veins and resents such an insult and interference by a man who is paid to try and take from me all that you have left me—my name. It is not money that I want. It is honor, love, and respect.

Assistant District Attorney Bostwick and his assistants offered in evidence portions of Barnes's testimony given in the District Attorney's office before his indictment. Counsel for Barnes objected to the extracts, demanding that his complete statements be read, but they were overruled by Justice Goff.

In an interview Barnes gave his version of his dealings with Count von Hochberg. Barnes said:

"I gave Hochberg money from time to time as well as himself, wife, and baby clothes and the necessaries of life until he secured a better position than a chauffeur.

"Finally Hochberg said he had entered into an agreement with a lawyer friend whom he had met in a cheap boarding house, who proposed to make money out of the newspapers by creating a sensational story, using the name of the Crown Prince of Germany, in the hope that they would capture a victim. Hochberg also told me that his arrangement with the lawyer was that he should pay him one-quarter of what he made.

"On learning this, I paid off the lawyer with $1,000 and relieved the Count of his bondage to slavery. I then took this Count with me to my mining property in Colorado, intending to give him a position as an assayer. But Hochberg discovered a rich ore vein close to some of my claims, so I took him in with me as a partner and gave him two-elevenths interest in a $300,000 company.

"Hochberg then went to Germany and restored himself to society and influence. He sold $25,000 worth of the stock, and, realizing what an easy victim I was, sent a mining expert from Berlin, who stated that there was enough ore in sight to create a $3,000,000 corporation.

"Hochberg returned to the mine with Baron von Papen, and after five months returned to Berlin in April, 1908, taking with him without my knowledge over $72,000 worth of my share certificates and a book of blank certificates. On his arrival in Berlin he sold shares to his friends at $7.50 each, 50 per cent. above their face value.

"After Hochberg had sold all the shares I went to Berlin to complete arrangements for the organization of a $3,000,000 company. While there two nobles visited me to know if I would not use my influence with Hochberg to allow the Emperor to annul the marriage with his shopgirl and ship her and the baby to some foreign country, so that Hochberg could marry a Princess.

"I had commenced to like Hochberg's wife and baby, and when this was suggested I ordered the men out of the room. One of them drew his sword, so I started to throw them out of the window, but they finally left by the door.

"A few days later I was arrested and brought to the Emperor's Court to explain my conduct. I told them that I was an Irishman and an American citizen, and that I had acted as an American should act.

"I then returned to my hotel and explained to Ambassador Hill what had occurred. Ambassador Hill, who is a very fine fellow, told me I had done right, and they bothered me no more.

"I felt that I had spoiled the German market for the sale of my shares in the new $3,000,000 company, and I then wired Hochberg at Berlin that I had sold $50,000 worth of shares in Austria. Hochberg and his associates, realizing they were likely to lose control of the company, employed an attorney to assist him to spoil the Hungarian market for the shares.

"When I returned to Berlin this lawyer called upon me and endeavored to blackmail me out of $5,000, but I did with him as I did with the two nobles, fired him out of my room bodily.

"I then returned to New York, and Hochberg and Kuehnert, his lawyer, followed me shortly. On their arrival I had them both arrested. Kuehnert's case is now before the New York Bar Association.

"A word to the American men of wealth: avoid Counts, Barons, Lords, and Dukes as you would a reptile, for there is more honor in the ragged coat of a New York newsboy than there is in the whole of a Count's carcass. The nobles of Europe are as full of deception, villainy, and deceit as an egg is full of meat."

The trial will be continued to-day.

Whitestone Yacht Clubhouse Burned.

Fire destroyed the building of the Whitestone Yacht Club on the Shore Road and Twenty-fifth Street, Whitestone, L. I., early yesterday morning. In the building were Caretakers Joseph Florentine and wife and C. Rittenbusch, James Ramsay, and Mr. Whitman. They were all aroused by Policeman Bruick, and forced to flee, saving few of their belongings. Mrs. Florentine was carried out on a mattress. The rathskeller of the club had just been completed last week, and stocked with wines and liquors for the Summer. The damage is estimated at $7,000.

PRINCETON ALUMNI WANT PROCTER FACTS

REVIEW THE CIRCUMSTANCES

Circular Says University Should Be Relieved of Charge of "Snobocracy"—University's Freedom Not Menaced.

"The Proctor Gift—A History Printed at the Request of Many of the Alumni of Princeton," is the title of a pamphlet of thirty-six pages which was circulated yesterday among the alumni in this city. The pamphlet demands to know why the Procter gift was rejected, declaring that the alumni of the university have received no satisfactory answer, but are entitled to it, and "hope to get it before the discussion is over, regardless of persons, places, or things."

The circular was prepared by four prominent alumni of Princeton, all of whom favored the acceptance of the Procter gift, and one at least is said to have become estranged from President Wilson because of its rejection. They are Dr. Thomas W. Harvey, '75, of Orange, N. J.; Robert H. McCarter, '79, of Newark, classmate of President Wilson and ex-Attorney General of New Jersey; Matthew C. Fleming, '86, associate with Gov. Hughes in the insurance investigation, and Edmund Bayly Seymour, '98, a lawyer of Philadelphia.

In explanation of its publication the pamphlet says:

"The facts with regard to the withdrawal of the Proctor gift have become so confused by the discussion which has folowed the 'report of the special committee,' mailed to the alumni in February, and that report is in itself so involved that many graduates of Princeton have asked for a chronological history of the matter. The four alumni accordingly submit their statement in the belief that it correctly sets forth the facts and that it may serve to clear the atmosphere." The circular then says:

> In the present acute discussion one issue stands out. The democracy of Princeton's life has been publicly attacked; a portion of her Faculty, Trustees, and Alumni, has been branded with "snobocracy," and some of her best and eldest supporters have been charged with a desire to turn her into a proprietary institution.

If the much-debated Proctor gift (in all $1,000,000) has been sacrificed for a great principle, such as the preservation of democracy, the maintenance of educational freedom, or the repulse of low ideals, no man should do other than applaud and approve. If it has been wilfully thrown away, through bad judgment, for reasons which, upon analysis, turn out to be mere pretexts or because the true reasons cannot be admitted—every man is entitled to condemn. This, then, is the question most often asked: "For what principle was this $1,000,000 sacrificed? For democracy and educational freedom? If this can be demonstrated the discussion should cease. If not, the true reasons should be insistently required."

The committee headed by Dr. Harvey, in setting forth the case, argue that if in either the Swann bequest or the Proctor gift there lurked a menace to the University's freedom, it must have been in the conditions of the Swann bequest which were eagerly accepted and never repelled, not in the Proctor offer.

The question as to the objections to the golf links or some other site is temporarily dismissed.

It was said yesterday by a man who attended the alumni dinner in St. Louis last week, at which both President Wilson and Mr. Proctor spoke, that by far too much importance had been attached in the East to the remarks credited to Mr. Proctor construed to be a renewal of his offer. He had made no such renewal, it was said, but declared when the alumni asked him to speak in response to President Wilson's address, that if there had been a misunderstanding it could be remedied. It was construed by many present as a pleasant way of disposing of an embarrassing situation.

MENU RATES SOARING.

But Not by Action of the Hotel Men's Association.

Patrons of the hotels and restaurants were interested yesterday in a report that, beginning April 1, the price of all meat dishes on their menus would be increased by concerted action of the hotels represented in the Hotel Men's Association. No such action has been taken by the Hotel Men's Association.

The proprietor of a prominent hotel in Fifth Avenue declared, on the other hand, that if the cost not only of meats but vegetables keeps up, an increase of 5 to 10 cents will have to be made on meat and vegetables.

In several instances the increase in menu prices has gone into effect already, notably at the Waldorf-Astoria and Delmonico's, where the price of certain dishes, such as roast beef, steaks and fillets, has been raised several notches.

It was pointed out that it is the middleman who is already paying a considerable increase for his meat at the smaller restaurants, where the price for steaks has been gradually soaring from five, ten to fifteen cents more a portion. Some of the restaurants now attach a printed slip to their menus, in which they apologize to their patrons for the increase in meat prices and suggest the substitution of vegetables.

Postmaster Morgan calls attention to the fact that letters destined for Tripoli are frequently missent because of inaccuracy in the address—the fault of the writers. There are three Tripolis in countries bordering on the Mediterranean, one in Syria, one in Greece, and one in Northern Africa. They should be so described.

Ten minutes afer five-year-old Charlotte Ostrow, a daughter of Louis Ostrow, a clothier of 54 Lenox Avenue, had been put in her bed, near an open window in the rear of the third floor, last night a tenant on the floor below heard a scream, followed by a fall on the cement pavement of the rear yard. Hurrying down she found the little girl dead.

NEED BIG MUGWUMP PARTY.

Major Hanson, at Savannah Line Launching, Attacks Corporation Tax.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWPORT NEWS, Va., March 30.—The Savannah liner City of St. Louis was launched to-day at the yards of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company. At a lunch at the Hotel Warwick following the ceremony at the shipyards, Major John F. Hanson, President of the Central Georgia Railway and the Ocean Steamship Company of Savannah, made a plea for political independence and the defeat of any party refusing to administer the Government for the best business interests.

Major Hanson, whose adherence to the Republican party has not made him popular in the South, scored that party for the "infamous, discriminatory and humiliating" corporation tax. "The political party, said he, that goes against the corporations of this country would find itself in trouble.

"I am willing to go into a coalition with any party in the United States to bring about the defeat of those responsible for the infamous corporation tax," he asserted. "I am in favor of a combination of corporations and such a combination could, if so disposed, defeat the Republican party for the corporation tax for which it should be held responsible.

"Government in the last analysis is nothing more than business on a large scale. What the country needs is the development of a giant mugwump force. We want neither Republicans nor Democrats, but men who are willing to vote without regard to party for those who will do things for the best business policies of the country. If the Republican party in power does not do things turn your back on it, even though you always have worked for it."

Major Hanson said the failure of Congress in the last fifty years to do anything for the merchant marine was a national humiliation. Calvin B. Orcutt, President of the Newport News Shipbuilding and Dry Dock Company, and W. H. Pleasants, Vice President of the Savannah line, spoke.

The City of St. Louis was named by Miss Louise Nugent of St. Louis.

supplies soap in the most delightful form. Instead of the wet, soggy germ-laden cake, a turn of the handle shaves off light flaky granules of hygienically clean soap from a solid soap cylinder.

These granules dissolve into rich, foamy lather instantly the water touches them, and you know the soap is clean and not intermixed with the dirt and it may be, the disease germs from other hands.
